Monday, December 17, 1888. SOME VALUABLE TESTIMONY.

The town and city governments of New London were consolidated fourteen years ago. Major Tibbits gives some interesting and reliable testimony concerning the working of this consolidation. He says that the esults of it have been eminently satisfactory. The abolition of the dual form of government has promoted economy and efficiency in the administration of public affairs and after an experience of fourteen years the universal ntiment is that the present system is a marked improvement on the older order of things. A movement to resurrect the town government would to-day command the support of no one outside of the corporal's guard of chronic grumblers that afflicts every com-

Under the revised charter of New London all the principal town officers, except the elerk and registrar, selectmen and registrar of voters, are made officers of the city, elected at the annual city meeting and charged with the performance of the duties and the exercise of the powers imposed upon or vested in such officers of towns. These officers and the treasurer of the city are also onstituted officers of the town of New London and authorized to discharge all the duthe performance of its duties and the exercise of its rights. The only powers remaining o the selectmen of the town, as such, under the consolidated system, are those vested in them by the constitution with reference to the admission of electors. Under the city charter, however, they are ex-officio members of the court of common council and it has been the invariable practice to assign them to the committee on town affairs, in which capacity they have a general supervision of the commissioner of charities, who discharges the duties ordinarily devolving pon selectmen as to the poor.

Major Tibbits declares that consolidation ends to economy of administration. He says that New London people hold that, for the urpose of making judicious appropriation the public funds, the city meeting, as regulated and restrained by the charter, is a marked improvement on the town meeting, which was at times on the impulse of the moment, liable to vote away money recklessly, and again just as liable to refuse approriations which were imperatively demanded by the public interests. EDITORIAL NOTES.

As it takes six months and costs £500 to petrify a block of wood of the dimensions of one cubic inch, it will probably be some time before his process will be generally adopted.

This not a good year for canal companies. The Corinth Canal company is in trouble. It was originally estimated that the canal would be opened last month and that the cost would not exceed $6,900,600, including interest on capital during the period of construction. The opening has now been postponed for a year and a half and the estimated cost has been raised to $10,000,000, owing to a forced change of plan. The company has suspended payment of interest on its obligations.

Minnesota, as well as New York, has a prison labor problem. The Minnesota legislature abolished the contract system in 1887. and in the haste to comply with the demands of labor organizations no proper provision was made for the employment of convicts. The prison inspectors of that State are now visiting States similarly afflicted to report suggestions to remedy the evil at the next ession of the legislature. They find everywhere a feeling of uncertainty regarding convict labor, but are satisfied that the clamor regarding competition with honest labor was greatly exaggerated. The chief trouble with the contract system had been, they find, the difficulty of preserving the reformatory principle and prison discipline and in checking the greed of selfish contractors. They are satisfied, however, that laws can be passed which will reform the prison labor system and still give the convicts employment.

At the meeting of our egislature last May I called the conservative eaders of the State together at my hotel and placed before them my plans for the adoption of a constitutional amendment making the ability to read and write a necessary qualification for voters. I told the leaders to sound their people on this issue. Such a change in our constitution would disfranchise at the outset 25,000 white men, but it would at the same time take the ballot from more than 100,000 colored men and settle the ques tion of race dominance at elections once for all. It would have the effect, too, of stimu lating the 25,000 whites and 100,000 blacks

The Man Who Will Help Mr. Harrison to Run the Country. napolis Letter to the Chicago Tribune. Elijah W. Halford, who will probably tand between the public and the coming President for the next four years in his ca-pacity as private secretary, is a man of more than ordinary ability in many respects. He is self made, having gradually worked his way up from the station of printer's "devil" to the managing editor's desk. About thirty years ago he commenced to learn the trade of a printer in a job office of this city under the tutorship of a man who was an artist in the tutorship of a man who was an artist in his way, and from him "Lige," as Halford is familiarly called, imbibed certain ideas he is ismiliarly called, imbibed certain ideas he has carried about with him ever since. He developed into a good "jour," but did not stick long at the case. After hustling about for the fugitive Item for a number of years he became news editor and then managing editor of the Journal of this city, with which paper he has been connected since before the commencement of the same in the state of the commencement of the same in the same state. fore the commencement of the war, with the exception of a short time in Chicago as managing editor of the Inter Ocean and a few periods of rest while the Journal was changing ownership. Besides his newspaper work he has devoted oneiderable time to the study of political and religious matters, a queer combination to be sure, but one which suits his peculiar temperament. He has been known to preach a sermon for some pastor who was suddenly called out of the city, and then rush down to the office and dash off a leading editorial full of five syllable adjectives that struck terror to the heart of a political opponent. The to the heart of a political opponent. The next day perhaps he would be out in the rural districts somewhere trying a new lecture on "Europe" or the "Great Northwest" upon the unsuspecting and unoffending citizens before tackling the more cultured audiences of larger places. In this connection his friends tell the following:

Mr. Halford is a man who likes tidiness, and it is safe to say that the applications for Every "comp" has a cuspidor alonside his frame, and the foreman is continually on the ragged edge for fear a piece of waste paper on the floor will meet the manager's eye. He is said to be able to see an error in handful of type half way across the room, and a lead out of place marks a lessening of esteem for the make us. Neatness has al ways characterized the style of headlines and arrangement of matter in his paper. Like many other good men, he has a weak ness. He can clothe his language in al manner of forms, from the delicate suggestive phrase to the adjective denunciat that falls with the weight of a trip hammer but when he comes to transcribe his thought on paper he fails to produce anything but a jumbled mass of scratches to the uninitia-

Jumpled mass or scratches to the uninitia-ted. His chirography is bad. In this re-spect he is a studious disciple of the late Herace Greeley and Mr. Bloss, of the Cin-cinnati Enquirer. "Nelly Was a Lady," a famous old song of the plantations, written and composed by Stephen L. Foster, is beautifully illustrated in the little volume by Charles L. West he invested in one of the machine studied it for five minutes, turned it around two or three times, and then, walking over to a galley of "pi," picked up a handful and put it among the newly set matter, marking it to correspond with the number of the "take" he failed to read. He then put on his coat and walked out of the office, n doubt thinking if the editor sent in "pi" to read he should be accommodated with the These are some of the stories you hes about the news room of the office where "Lige" has long been known, but if Genera Harrison provides an interpreter with each of bis secretary's letters serious trouble may be averted. His more intimate friends say however, that his bad writing is due to the fact that his thoughts flow so much faster than his hand travels, and in his desire to keep up with the former he sacrifices a graceful result of the latter. However that may be, there is no denying that when his articles are printed they look like the work of a jurist who carries Webster about on his pencil tips. The consensus of opinion here to-day is that General Harrison has made a wise selection, but the idea also predemi-nates that Mr. Halford will be more of a confidential adviser to him than a mere secretary. With a Benjamin, a Levi and an Elijah at the helm of government, lovers of Biblical names ought to be satisfied.

Some Ins and Outs of Building. Certain architects, in a place which we will not mention, were instructed to make plans and specifications for a house to cost a rtain sum, and to contain accomm certain sum, and to contain accommodations which could not possibly be provided for that sum. As we all know, this method of giving incompatible directions is very popular among clients, who are thereby enabled whatever the architect may do for them, to resist paying this bill if they happen to be so inclined, on the ground that he disobeyed some of the instructions, which he was of course obliged to do in carrying out the others; and like the rest of us, the architects in question devoted themselves diligently to finding out what their patron really wanted. This was a house costing considerably more than the proposed sum, as they told him. Bids were obtained, the lowest of which was more than the client wished to spend, so he himself took the lowest bidder in hand, and with him modified the drawings and specifi-cations so as to bring the cost of the build-ing within his means. The architects were informed of this agreement and requested to draw up contracts in accordance with it, which they did. When the outside of the which they did. When the outside of the house was done the contractor notified the owner to send some one to paint it, as the painting was not included in the specifications or in his contract. The owner, as usual, proceeded to the architects and demanded that, as they had forgotten to mention the painting in the specifications, they should pay for it themselves, which they declined to do. As it happened, their side of the case was complicated by the fact that they had inserted a clause at the end of their specifications reciting that "all work necessary to naserted a ciause at the end of their specifi-cations reciting that "all work necessary to the complete finish of the building should be done by the contractor without extra charge, whether specially described in the specifica-tion or not." The other builders who had estimated on the house told them that under this clause they had included the religious. this clause they had included the painting in their estimate, and the contractor told them that he should charge no more for painting the house at the stage where it had already arrived than if he had included it in his orig-

was no probability that it could be stretched to cover the painting of a house. Apparent-ly the owner also took legal advice as to his claims on the architects, for he abandoned it and paid for the painting himself, as he would unquestionably have been compelled to do if he had been so feelish as to carry the dispute into ceurt. The law is perfectly well settled that the omission of anything rom a contract or specification, by an oversight of the architect, renders him liable, at worst, only for the difference between the cost of doing it after the discovery of the omission and what it would have cost to do omission and what it would have cost to do it if it had been originally included in the specification or contract. In most cases this difference is nothing, and there is therefore no damage to be claimed; and even if there should be a real difference, and correspond-ing damage, the architect would not have to bear it unless the omission showed lack of reasonable care and skill. It should be remembered that the architect does not guar-antee that his specifications are either full or accurate. "Heaven forbid," said the Lord Chancellor of England, "that a lawyer should be expected to know all the law," and an architect is no more to be expected to re-member every item about a building, in wris-ting his specification, than his counsel is to know all the law. If he makes glaring mistakes, such as architects of good ordinary skill and diligence would not make, he is li-able for any damage that his employer may suffer in consequence, but that is the extent of his liability. The idea that an architect gives a guaranty to an indefinite amount with everything that he does or says, how-ever hastily, is much favored by the persons who look on all business transactions as traps, by which weak or unwary people are to be caught and fleeced, but it has no sauc-tion in the courts.

On the contrary, a case recently decided on appeal in England has established the rule that even a quantity surveyor is not responsible for the correctness of his quantities. In the case in question a quantity surveyor was employed to take out the quantiand specifications, and the tenders for the work were based on these quantities. It is the custom in England for the bidder whose tender is accepted to pay the surveyor's fee, and on the completion of the contract the surveyor, who had not been able to get his money before, brought suit against the con-tractor for it. The contractor refused to pay, setting up a counter claim that, on account of the inaccuracy of the quantities, which were less in several instances than the actual amount of work required, he was bliged to do more work than he had esti nated upon, and had suffered much damage in consequence. There was apparently reason to suppose that the contractor's claim was well founded, but both the lower court and the Court of Appeal refused even to listen to the evidence which he offered prove that the custom was for the contracto o pay for the quantities, but barred out the counter-claim entirely, on the ground that the law was established that a quantity sur-veyor did not guarantee his work, and evidence to prove its inaccuracy could not be admitted. It is true that the English architectural journals comment rather severely on owner recovered damages from a surveyor who made his quantities too large and there-by unduly enhanced the contract price; but the decision shows that if a surveyor, or whose data are based the contractor's figures, is not liable for mistakes in them, it would Goodenough has been pread ing a series of sermons on Nehemiah at the East Pearl street Methodist church. The The Young Men's Christian association New Haven held their anniversary exercises at Dwight Place church last evening. Professor Simeon E. Baldwin, president of the association, conducted the seremonies. He introduced Mr. F. K. Sanders as the first speaker. He spoke of the broad work the associations were doing throughout the country in developing manhood, and said that New Haven held their anniversary exercises his face. I have the highest respect for such a man. There are too many people whose world is self, who never take a hand to help anether. It is 'myself' first, last and always. The companionship of such people is not worth a sack of sawdust. There are other people who seem to share your whole sorrow and danger. Such people are valuable to a community." In speaking of Nehemiah's opportunity the speaker continued: "Lord Beaconsfield once said: 'Every man has his opportunity.' I believe that is true. But it is not every man who knows how to use it. Failure is a heart breaking word. Failure is a result. Often it is the result of lost opportunities. A young man applies for an important situation. His bearing, his speech, his general deportment during the few minutes' interview determines if his application.

One case of those beautiful magnolla sprays and cotton stems, something fine for decoration. Five hundred of those beautiful rich plums, gathered in the Dismal Swamp. A very fine effect can be made with these, combined with the other things above mentioned. All of the above was very carefully selected and shipped direct and fresh by his son, W. I. Dickerman, who is located in Norfolk, Va. Also 2,500 yards of rolls and six hundred fine Christmas trees of balsam fir and spruce, just arrived from the Adiron-dacks, the finest ever offered in New Haven, and ranging from three feet to twenty feet, and all sbapely, and to be sold cheap.

Cur FLOWERS. during the forty years of their life they had been gaining wisdom that would be a great benefit to every young man in the country during the next forty years. "Prof. Drumnond's criticism of our work, that it is too highly organized," continued he, "only shows that the power of activity in the association is increasing. The great work done among college men is remarkable. The fundamen-tal result is local organization which is independent. There are seventeen well organized pendent. There are seventeen well organized associations in the State, and three just beginning. A few years ago buildings were not thought of, but now Hartford has raised $290,000 for one, Bridgeport $60,000,and will raise $40,000 more, New Britain has completed a $50,000 building, and Meriden has had one longer than any other association in the State. It is the great movement of the Nineteenth centure?"

The attendance last year was over 25,000, or averaging 75 per day. He spoke of the equipment of the rooms, the gymnasium, which was proving an excellent means of physical development for young men; the baths and dressing rooms, which were used by 3,000 during the past when they are gone.' Keep your eyes open and opportunities of getting good and doing good will crowd upon you."

While speaking of the opposition of Sanballatt & Co. the speaker said: "A pions patriot is not likely to be a coward. Some men are not good at running away and some men are good at nothing else. Nehimiah ascertains the work to be done and with a will sets himself to do it. Sanballat and his like sets himself to do it. Sanballst and his like are at every corner of the street, in most so-

The church edifice wa crowded and it is estimated that seven thousand people were in and around the church. Rev. Father Russell conducted the funera services. As the remains were brought out of the church the band played a dirge. Following the hearse to St. Bernard's cemetery where the interment took place, were about forty hacks and many private carriages, be-sides the local lodges and the band. The coffin was literally buried in floral displays, o many were there that had been contr nted. The deceased was one of those who were largely instrumental in building up the Knights of Columbus. THE LATE DEACON MARSH. His Sudden Beath-For Forty Years Engaged at Mallery, Wheeler & Co.'s
-A Loss to West Haven-A Eseful

A Counier representative visited the hous of mourning and deep affliction of the late Denson E. E. Marsh at the corner of Center street and First avenue, West Haven, yester day morning. Mr. E. E. March and his son, Mr. S. E Marsh, as usual Saturday morning went to their place of employment at the Mallory, eye to eye. Some bright and beautiful face sends a thrill of pleasure to our heart. Some was foreman of the gray iron department and thoughts. Ages ago a bird left its tiny foot-prints in the mud, or a leaf flattened down to rest in the swamp, and now footprints and leaf reappear in rock or coal bed. So our characters are made up of the accumu-results were apprehended by himself or his where his son is employed. Deacon Marsh results were apprehended by himself or his

About twenty minutes past one o'clock or Saturday afternoon his son went into the office and found his father dead. He had

It is very important that the young should have good companions and right association. Many a young woman's life has been blighted by keeping company with young men of loose babits. They fancy they will reform them after marriage But the vices that are smiled upon in courting days are seldom reformed after marriage. Many women who might have been among the fairest and best are dragged down to obscurity and wretchedness by being associated with worthless husbands.

Good associations are the best safeguard of the heart). To the son and a nephew, Mr. Charles S. Marsh of Fair Haven, who was employed at Mallory, Wheeler & Co.'s, was allotted the task of conveying the sad tidings to the mother and wife.

The sudden termination of Deacon Marsh's life was pronounced by physicians to be annother and wife.

very few persons are entirely free from it. How Can CURED the remarkable cures it has accomplish often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J. N. B. INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 16 .- Various rumor have been affoat since Mr. Morton's departure among them one that the vice president-elec, might consider the offer of the navy portfolio and give General Harrison his answer within two weeks—not later, under any circumstances, than January 1.

He told Mr. Morton candidly that the secretaryship of the treasury had already been given Senator Allison and that the reason tion in many eastern cities to a New York man on account of the alleged discrimina-tion in the matter of imports in favor of the merchants of New York. General Harrison said that prominent gentle-men of Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and 3,930 00 other eastern cities had written to him and 15,900 50 talked to him on the subject and while he did not know that their statements were true he certainly did not know that they were untrue and he had determined to select a secre-tary from another and entirely different section of the country.

WHAT CONGRESS MAY DO. No Tarisf Bill Before the Christmas Res-Measures Struggling Through the House-Prospect of the River and

Washington, Dec., 16-This is the last week of congress prior to the holiday recess which will probably begin with the adjournment next Friday, in accordance with the terms of the resolution now awaiting report rom the house comittee on ways and means. In the senate the tariff bill still holds the right of way over all other measures and will be considered from day to day immediately after the routine morning hour business. During the first week of this season thirty-eight pages of the bill were disposed of in two days, but in the four legislative days of last week progress was restricted to four pages. It is therefore apparent that the remainder of the bill cannot be disposed of before the holiday recess. The morning hours will probably be enlivened by further efforts on the part of Senator Riddleberger to

In the house of representatives to-morrow motions in behalf of committees to pass measures under the suspension of the rules will be in order; but the pending motion made by Mr. Dunn of Arkansas, in his individual capacity for the passage of the Nicaraguan Canal bill, will have the right of way, the floor having been yielded to Mr. Dunn by Mr. Warner, of Missouri, who has a motion pending for the passage of the Oklohoma bill. It is doubtful whether hairman Blanchard, of the river and harbor committee will make any enough to suspen-bill of which he is the champion on suspen-sion day; but a strenous attempt will be made to secure its consideration and if possible its will make any effort to call up the passage during the course of the week. A vigorous opposition to this measure will be made by some members who, while favoring opium near here Friday night after a long tramp in the woods and a desperate fight with one of the gaug. S. W. If not crowded out by the river and harbor deserted lumber road to penetrate a thicket of underbrush so dense as to be almost im-bill, the legislative appropriation bill will probably be passed before the end of the week, as it contains no provisions likely to give rise to a protracted debate; and there is a disposition manifested by some members of the committee on elections to call up one or more of the unsettled election cases this week if opportunity offers. The legislative week will close on Friday with a further discussion of the Nicaraguan canal bill, if that measure is not disposed of under a suspension of the rules to-morrow. No Pity On Sunday Papers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 .- Rev. B. F. Docesta of the Church of St. John, the evangelist, in his sermon to-day attacked the Sunday newsapers as opposed to the genius of Christian ty, as public nuisances and as responsible r much immorality and even insanity, and he declared that they should be suppressed for the same reasons that houses of ill fame should be suppressed. I consider it one of the very best foods the physician can find to assist him in carrying through his patient to recovery; and I have found it of inestimable value in the later stages of Phihisis, Gastritis. Gastric Catarrh, Dyspepia, and Dysentery."

We speak from experience when we say that the Imperial Granum is both safe and nutritious. It has been on the market for many years, and the largely increasing sales show that many others have found like results attending its use.—"The Christian Union." N.Y.

As a Medicinal Food Imperial Granum, which is simply a solid extract from very superior growths of wheat, is unexcelled, and is to-day 'he Standard Dietertic preparation for invalids, for the aged, and for the very young.—"N. Am. Journal of Homcopathy," N.Y.

Imperial Granum has been before the public for many years, and is now regarded as a standard preparation. There can be no doubt that this is due to its uniformly superior quality, and the successful results obtained with it in all cases where a prepared food is required.—"Popular Science News," Boston, Mass.

Crosus and Nota Free Trader. The statement that ex-Senator William W Eaton of Hartford was living a retired life on a fortune of $3,000,000 which is being circulated is worthy of a ramile. It is true that he has retired, but his fortune is quite a moderate one. He lives very comfortably, however, and takes a lively interest in public affairs, being of sound body and of vigorous intellect, even though he is over the three score and ten line. He has not been in thorough accord with the Democracy on the free trade issue. On being asked to preside at a Democratic mass meeting he said: "If I do I shall make a speech on the tariff that will not be in harmony with the views of the party." "But you need not make a speech, simply preside." "Not make a speech, simply preside." "Not make a speech, "said the veteran. "Can I go before the people of Hartford, to whom I have spoken for forty years, and say nothing!" He did not preside, but was one of the first to heartily congratulate Hartford, when he externs as a personal Store.

Dr. Munger said that some time ago he saw in the office of a merchant, facing the bookkeeper, the words of his text. It was in the handwriting of a lady. Women do not transact or manage the great financial duties of fell. life, but they do wield a vast influence in elevating and refining society. These words in such a place were like "words fitly spoken:" "Apples of gold in pictures of silver." The sense of accountability is one of the deepest principles in human nature. It does not wholly depend on revelation, although it fur-nishes a strong argument for the existence of Eartford's Spasm of Virtue-Why Not Serve" Melican" Man the Same Way. a delty. It is seen in savage life when the HARTFORD, Dec. 15 .- The spasm of virtue worshipper tries to propitiate some mysteri-ous power through ascrifice or self-torture, which caused the police to raid a Chinese "fan tan" den and opinm joint and capture and how many there are who are apparently careless and indifferent in the light of day to over thirty of the laundrymen and tea dealers of the city has created no little excitement, whom the solemn stillness of the night brings and a general inquiry as to why the gambling Accountability is a natural principle. The New Haven team during the past week played better polo than at any time to be given at the Davenport Congregational previous to that this season. These games were played-with Meriden and Hartford-and 2 were lost. All three games were close. Probably the feature of the week was the mprovement that Newcomb has shown. Vaillant dld not play Saturday night, Perry taking his place. Connors is probably playing better pole than any other player on the surface. The team plays four games this week, and if they intend to make any kind of a showing in the championship race they must play polo. The Couring will predict that they will win three of the games.

They [meaning the New Haven pelo company] amounce that they are trying to secure Hill. Hill happens to be held by Meriden, and if the New Haven men will take notice they will observe that their team make enough goals to win if they wouldn't let the other fellows get so many goals on them. The above is from the Meriden Journal. lines the season began Meriden has was before the season opened. In order that here would be no trouble it was agreed that Monday evening, December 17, at 8 o'clock, slips of paper bearing the names of certain players should be put in a hat and in that way at which Mr. Justus S. Hotchkiss will read a chose what players they thought they could get. The New Haven man drew McKay's name and then the Meriden man said he wanted Hill and another player, which was agreed to. As Boston held on to McKay the deal fell through and that virtually ended There was good skating at the reservoir supply lake above Keegan's ice house Saturday and the boys improved every hour, and the agreement made on the train between the almost every minute, from daylight until managers.
