Friday, June 28, 1889. THE HIGH SCHOOL QUESTION. A notable utterance concerning high chools is that of Justice Miller of the United States Supreme court in the current number of Harper's. Justice Miller says concerning the high schools of Iowa: These high schools in the larger cities are to some extent the equivalents of lower grades of colleges, and no loubt better education is frequently obtained n them than can be had in poorly endowed and struggling colleges, which perhaps should never have been started. It is, however, becoming a question, and a grave one, in the State, whether these high schools are not a violation of the spirit and purpose found in the statutes, which were intended to establish what we understand by the words a "common-school system." The idea is not a new one, but the con enance given it by Justice Miller is impor ant. But high schools are very useful and popular in Iowa, as in many other Statesso useful and so popular that it is not at all probable that they will be seriously attacked

That little song has been the only companion from which I gained any comfort for the past twelve months. It brought back to me the days when I was rich, loved, looked up to and happy. For nights I slept in the cabmen's coffee houses; then I was considered a nuisance, and some doorstep served me for a bed. I pawned every trinket, decent suit of clothes—everything, and finally I spent three months in a work house under an assumed name.

"It was there the presence of Marie haunted me again. One day—Christmas day—we were at dinner. Several rich people came to distribute among us such gifts as tobacco. It happened in this way: On a cold day in the January of 1850 the door of Mr. Turner's music shop, in the Poultry, London, was nervously opened, and a most unclean, ragged specimen of humanity dragged himself in. Queen Victoria recently decided to so far relax the rule against permitting divorced wives to be presented at court as to admit those who had been plaintiffs in the suits and had obtained decrees against their husbands. This made such a rush of applicants for presentation that the palace would not have held them. The Queen was compelled and clime sing the song of the tramp, Law-son. And the composer of his sad life are forgotten and unrecognized in the dear old song, "Ever of Thee." A HIGH-TONED ROBBER.

The Interesting Career of a Bold Bur-

The trial of Jeannolle, the aristocratic burglar, is full of sensational elements, and among the witnesses are the bearers of some of the noblest names in France, says a Paris letter. Jeannolle, alias Comte de Marsan, is a new Cartonche, and, although he did not act in the bold and high handed manner o the notorious Paris brigand of the 18th cen tury, his victims were as numerous and as well born. Cartouche had a band of 150 hands of a clever turner to be made into walking-sticks. By means of some novel process the turner has rendered the skin transparent and of a beautiful amber color, which has been done before, but never without changing color in a very short time, while in the present case the yellow is steady and unchanging.

In a few minutes the bundle of rags was seated at the concert grand plano, and "Ever of Thee" was played for the first time by its composer, James Lawson.

His listeners were electrified when they heard this dilapidated looking tramp make the plano almost speak. His touch was simply marvelous, and his very soul seemed to be at his finger tips. When he had finished he turned to his little audience and a band of 150 men under him. They were all low rascals recruited trom fine slums, and with them Cartouche plundered the houses of persons whose servants were not numerous enough to defend their property. Jeannolle also worked with a band, but they were the Habits Noirs, or "brigands in evening drees," and their weapons were delicately fashioned but effective "iemmies." Jeannolle defendished he turned to his little audience and said:

"I'd like to sing it for you, but I have a terrible cold. I haven't been in bed for five nights. I'm hungry, sir, and I feel I could not do it justice."

"You wore gloves, Jeannolle," said the presas follows: The best duty any citizen of our country can perform is to do our duty as citizens so as to transmit this heritage, increased and perfected, to those who shall come after us. To do this a steady, sober, industrious life is the first of all. Then a calm and thoughtful care to perform all our political duties with a view to benefit the general mass of our fellow citizens; and, last and greatest, to serve our creator well and truly. Do these as well as you can. God asks no more from anyone. And wherein you fail He has arranged a wise and merciful way in which all shortcomings will be overlooked in those who have done their utmost.

Interior was almost dumb with amazement. Turner was almost dumb with amazement. The air would be a success, and he decided that this man had a history which, perhaps, might advertise the song. So he determined to cultivate him, and in fattery (as he thought) pressed him to sing "just one stanza." Lawson protested, but finally agreed, and if Turner was amazed, but finally agreed in the sum had a history which, perhaps, might advertise the song. The all would be a history which, perhaps, might advertise the song. The all where the prisoner. "That's all the most unmitigated in moonshine. I never robbed, I transacted when the hungry voice, hungry with love, hungry physically, poured out in the sweetest of tenors the first stanza of the constant of the functions, as if you feared to soil y asks no more from anyone. And wherein you fail He has arranged a wise and merciful way in which all shortcomings will be overlooked in those who have done their utmost.

It is proposed to have the ministers of the land, on next Thanksgiving day, present to their congregations the principles of civil service reform in its religious bearings and its importance to every loyal citizen. M. Goron, head of the detective department.
M. Goron first described the chase after Jeannolle on the roofs of houses in Caen, when the gendarmes followed him. The fellow jumped down from a first floor into the street without hurting himself. "It must be remembered," resumed M. Goron, "that Jeannolle is a first-class gymnast as well as a capital adept in the art of sleight of hand.
Once while I was interrogating him in my room, three policemen being present, he succeeded in 'nicking' a purse which was on the table before me among various other objects." The head of the detective police further described how he was first led to regard Jeannolle as the author of the burglagard Jeannolle as the author of the burgla ries committed in the Champs Elysees. After some nocturnal reconnaissances of a burglarious character in Paris Jeannolle wrete a letter to M. Magnard, of the Figaro, telling him that he was prepared to send him certain stolen objects for restitution to their rightful owners. The letter was sent to M. Goron, who compared it with the handwriting of another given to a warder in Caen prison by Jeannolle, and came to the conclusion that the two epistles were penned by the same person, M. Gobert, caligraphic expert to the Bank of France, corroborated this, and other witnesses were then called, whose testimony was orushing. Among them was the Comtesse de Puysegur. This lady gave her evidence in a clear and unembarrassed manner. She was at Nice when a telegram informed her that her house in Paris had been broken into and plundered. She at once returned to the capital and found that all her jewels, some of which were family heirlooms, had been stolen. Among them, for instance, was a bejewelled and enamelled Louis XV. bonbonniers, which had been given to the Puysegur family by the Comte de Montcalm. Jeannolle had also ransacked the family papers, and had abstracted therefrom a marriage settlement dating from the year 900. Jeannolle was condemned to twenty years' penal servitude.

revails among the thousands of college men and boating enthusiasts, who have flocked to this town within the past few days, over the utcome of the great Yale-Harvard race. Each minor boating event which has taken place has only served to carry the excitement to a still higher pitch. Each incoming train brings its load of supporters, either of the blue or the crimson. The town is rapidly being filled, the price of provisions is rising, strong chests, and everything heralds in most which is foremost in the minds of all.

There is as usual a disagreement over the race. It is not yet decided at what hour the chief struggle will take place. Harvard wants to row at 10:30 and Yale persists in starting at 11:30. A conference was held at the Yale quarters this morning, but no decision was reached. The trouble is partly in sel grass and partly in tide. At 10:30 the tide will have begun to ebb, and at 11:30 it will be rupping out rapidly. will be running out rapidly. Harvard has the west side of the course and at the finish will have to row over the flats where the dreaded eel grass lies and deadens the water. On Yale's side the water will be deeper and the tide stronger. The later the race is rowed the better it is for the blue. The proposition has been made that each yield fifteen minutes, but this does not settify either side. The famous Yale boats. satisfy either side. The famous Yale boating authority, "Bob" Cook, is looking after the interests of his men with his accustomed shrewdness, and all that can be gained will be secured. The question will probably be left in the hands of the referee, Robert C. Cornell. It is thought that he will effect a compromise between the two and name 11 o'clock as the starting hour. HARTFORD, June 27 .- The attendance a the Charter Oak Park races to-day was larger than on the two preceding days, numbering about 2,500, and the exhibition of trotting was good. Four records were reduced, the successful racers being J. E. Turner's Mambrino Hannis, A. B. De Hart's Sam Webber, W. C. Daly's Farmer Boy and A. P. McDonald's Frank S. The winners were Aubiul in the 2:25 trotting class, Farmer Boy in the 2:34 trotting class, and Mambrino Hannis in the 2:30 trotting class.

In the 2:25 race Frank S. took the lead in the first heat. He was passed by Grantz and Arbiul at the half, but finished a neck ahead of the brown mare.

At the quarter of the third the chestnut gelding led with Edith R. close behind. At the third turn the gelding broke and Aubial passed it, crossing the line with Edith R.

Pools were selling 50 on Aubiul against 43 on the field before the fourth heat. Edith R. followed Aubiul neck and neck till the third turn, when she broke and Aubiul easily won the heat.

Aubiul was selling 25 against 30 on the field at the next heat. Edith R., Aubiul and Frank T. trotted prettily together to the third turn, after which the brown mare kept the lead. This gave the race to Aubiul with first money, Frank S. second money, Frank T. third money and Edith R. fourth money. BUMMARY.

General Schuyler Hamilton.

Major General Schuyler Hamilton of New York, a cousin of General Colin M. Ingersol and ex-Governor Ingersoll, has been spending a number of days in New Haven revisiting his old home and friends here. General Hamilton did brave service both in the Mexican war and the war of the rebellion, in the latter of which he was several times severely wounded. General Hamilton spent many pleasant days in his boyhood in New Haven and in later years he owned and resided for shopkeepers are beginning to gloat over the years in the pretty homestead on Cherry loods of cash which are rolling into their Hill, Branford, now the home of Mr. John W. The general has gone to Greenfield, Mass.,

Thomas Hollis, the grand-nephew of Thomas Hollis, whose interesting memoirs were published in 1780, who was a great benefactor of Harvard university and who died in 1731 (see American Encyclopedia), was in New England during our revolution. He was an antiquarian and also a benefactor of Haven an antiquarian and also a benefactor of Har-vard university in the sum of £2,000. He was written to by parties high in office in England requesting him to ascertain and re-

He wrote in answer: On the window panes of most of the inns in New England are seratched the words "Rebellion to Tyrants is Obedience to God." He then gives the origin of the phrase. I was, he stated, from the epitaph of John Bradshaw, lord president of the commission which tried Charles Stuart, Charles 1st o England for violation of the constitution of

It was not expected that the home team would win two straight at home from Jersey City, but they did, and by good, clean hitting Daley was in the box, but he was hit hard and had to be taken out of the box in the sixth inning. He had no speed, and was working a slow ball with little effect. Cap-tain Gerhardt was extremely mortified. His team was ahead until the sixth, and when New Haven made two more runs, making the score 6 to 4 in favor of the visitors, he thought he could save it by bringing Lyons hitting.

Horner pitched an elegant game. The bi hitters from Jersey made little weak hits, and hit safely only five times. He shot the ball over the plate as if it came out of a howitzer, and the visitors tore holes around the home plate in their frantic endeavor to hit the ball. There was a good deal of merriment when Schoeneck came to the bat, and the spectators saw the resemblance between him and little "Chic" Hofford. The latter is a short, stubby individual, while Schoeneck is tall and weighs 260.

Cahill as usual caught finely.

The New Havens didn't field very well in the first part of the game, and practically threw the game away, but they struck a batting streak and put a clincher on the result Brady got his base on balls in the first, bu was forced out on second on Cabill's hit. The latter stole second, and then Burdock lined the ball into centerfield for two bases, Cabill Tommy Corcoran fumbled Knowles' hi and also threw wild, Cahill had a passed ball and he started for second. He didn't ball and he started for second. He didn't know what an accurate thrower Cahill is, but a second later he did when, after regaining the ball, Cahill got it to Burdock in time. Horner at this point couldn't get the ball over the plate, and sent Hiland and O'Brien to first base on balls. Friel flied out to Lally, and on Burdock's fumble of Gerhardt's grounder Hiland scored, the ball glancing off Burdocks' shoes into centre field. Lyons hit safely and O'Brien and Gerhardt scored. Hofford struck out, which amused those on the bleachers.

Jersey City got another run in the third inning on a base on balls to O'Brien, inning on a base on balls to O'Brien, a steal, a hit by Gerhardt and a fumble by Galligan. After two men were out in the fourth Galligan was hit by a pitched ball, Tom Corcor an got his base on balls, but Schoeneck wen Hofford was presented with his base, Horner giving him four balls. Dailey hit to Schoeneck, who threw to Burdock, making a Schoeneck, who threw to Burdock, naking a double play. Lang hit safely, and just as he started to steal second Knowles hit the ball just where Burdock had been standing. Knowles tried to steal second, but Cahill threw over Corcoran's head and Lang scored. Knowles kept on for third, and T. Corcoran, after getting the ball threw wild to John after getting the ball, threw wild to John Corooran and Knowles scored. Lally took care of Hiland's fly.

The New Havens touched Dailey up in the fifth. Horner started off by making a single and when he started to steal second Brady and when he started to steal second Brady placed a grounder just where Gerhardt had stood. Horner got to third, and as Hofford threw the ball skyward into center field to catch Brady, Horner and he scored. Cahill and Burdock went out and Lally kept up his record by knocking out a two bagger, but he got no further. Cahill caught two high foul flies in this inning, and Burdock made a difficult one-handed stop.

In the Sixth, after Galligan went out, T.

He signalized his appearance by giving Brady his base on balls, and the bases were filled. Cahill hit safely, Schoeneck were filled. Cahill hit safely, Schoeneck and Horner scoring.

This tied the score. "What will the people at home say at being besten two straight by the tailenders!" sighed Captain Gernardt.

Manager Powers had also vanished.

As Daley threw the ball to the plate to catch Horner, Brady and Cahill didn't lose any time, but kept on running, so that there was a man on third and one on second. Lally hit safely and Brady and Cahill scored. This ended the run getting.

Three Jersey City men saw first base in this inning, but none of them scored.

his inning, but none of them scored. New Haven 8, Jersey City 6. New Haven 8, Jersey City 6.

Neither side scored until the ninth. Then Lang threw wild to O'Brien and Lally was safe. John Corcoran made a two bagger, and Galligan got his base on balls. With the bases filled and no one out. T. Chrossan his safely, Lally and J. Corcoran scoring. Schoeneck got his base on balls, and on Horner's sacrific Galligan scored. No more runs. Result, New Haven 11, Jersey City 6.

Captain Burdock took advantage of one thing yesterday, and some failed to see why he did it. He had to address the bleachers and tell them the men were playing under and tell them the men were playing under his orders. His point was in telling every man to hit to right field, as Daly could not throw to second base from that field. By the men placing their hits in that direction to bed. The men were in pretty had shape; they had been rowed to a standstill and had broken completely down. Tuttle, No. 5, was quite excited and at times slightly dewas quite excited and at times slightly de-lirious. Meikelham and several others were slightly hysterical and showed plainly the effects of the severe strain under which they had been and of the high tension of their nerves when they found themselves defeated. Jasper Goodwin, the famous Columbia oarsman, admitted that the men were badly used up and were still under the weather, but that there was nothing serious. From other sources it was learned that shortly after the race a boat was sent to Gale's Ferry and a physician summoned. This doctor is with the men now (10 p. m.), and it is understood that he will remain at the Columbia's headquarters all night as a precautionary measure. Many larming rumors are current about the condition of two of the Columbias, but the Columbias.

bis men assert that they will be all right in the morning, that they pulled an unusually hard race, were out-rowed and exhausted and gave up broken hearted over their de-feat. The Cornell men, who pulled a wonderfully plucky race, are around town to night feeling as bright and sound as a dollar The details of the two races are as lonows.

Shortly after five o'clock the Harvard and Columbia freshmen paddled down the river and backed into position and were quickly sent away by the referse. Harvard caught the water first and their shell at once went to the control of t the front, pulling 34 strokes. Columbia started with 38 strokes splashing badly for several strokes. The Columbias were clearly several strokes. The Columbies were clearly overmatched by the heavy crew from Boston and the race was practically over after the first two minutes. At the quarter mile Harvard had gained a lead of over a length, clear water showing between the boats. At this point Harvard were pulling in nearly perfect form and their slow atroke was very effective. Harvard dropped her stroke to 32 and Columbia to 35. In the next half mile Harvard increased her lead and at the mile flag had a lead of two lengths. This lead they maintained to the finish, having the race well in hand and apparently not exerting themselves. In the Columbia boat Nos. 1, 7 and 8 were pulling in poor form and there was a perceptible finish, having the race well in hand and apparently not exerting themselves. In the Columbia boat Nos. 1, 7 and 8 were pulling in poor form and there was a perceptible hang to the boat after each stroke. The official times at each half mile were as follows:

Harvard 3½, 6:12, 9.06, 12:21; Columbia 3:.16, 6:20, 9:16, 12:28. The strokes were: Harvard 34, 33, 32, 35; Columbia 38, 33, 35, 35, 35, 35.

and tiresome delay of an hour and a half be fore the course was cleared and the crews got into position for the much talked of three cornered race. Cornell was the first t sylvania came out. Then there was a wait of thirty minutes for Columbia. After this several sailboats blocked the course and the crews paddled about waiting for them to be towed out of the way. Finally at 7:30 the crews were in position ready for the word. Hull division of Bristol formed in crews were in position ready for the word. When this was given Pennsylvania caught the water first and gained a lead of half a length. This they could not hold, and Cornell quickly dashed to the front, taking a lead of a full length with Pennsylvania and Columbia fighting for second place. At this point Cornell was pulling 42 strokes, Pennsylvania and Columbia 35. At a quarter of a mile Columbia spurted and passed Pennsylvania and drew up to the Cornell boat, cutting the latter's lead down to a quarter length. From this point to the finish (23 miles) the race between Cornell and Columbia was the hottest and most stubbornly contested event ever rowed over stubbornly contested event ever rowed over he Thames course. From the half-mile the mile flag all three crews spurted. Co-lumbia drew up even with Cornell and Pennsylvania was a length behind. At the mile fiag Columbia was pulling 40, Columbia 36 and Pennsylvania 36. The positions remained unchanged and neither crew seemed able to gain an inch over the others. For the next half mile each crew strained avery nerve and the excitement was intense. every nerve and the excitement was intense every nerve and the excitement was intense. It was no use, however, and at the one and a half mile Cornell doggedly held her lead of half a length over Columbia with Pennsylvania a length behind. Shortly after pessing the one and a half mile flag Columbia succeeded in getting a lead of a quarter length over Cornell. This advantage was retained but a short distance as they could not hold the pace. Cornell again took the lead, and for the last mile was not headed, and on the last half mile they managed to increase and for the last mile was not headed, and on the last half mile they managed to increase their lead to two lengths finishing in an ap-parently fresh condition. For the last half mile Columbia's stroke had lost its power and it was only by the most determined effort that they held second place. As soon as the Columbia beat crossed the line the en-

the Columbia boat crossed the line the entire crew broke down as stated above. Cornell's exhibition was remarkable and is the talk of the town. With the lightest crew on the river they averaged a stroke of 40 per minute for the three miles. Columbia and Pennsylvania could not stand the gait and were fairly and squarely outrowed from start to finish. After the race the Cornells rowed back to their quarters, a distance of four miles. The official time for Cornell at each half mile is as follows: 2:06, 4:32, 7:03, 9:56, 12:47, 16:04. The strokes were: Cornell, 42, 41, 40, 40, 39, 40, 41; Columbia, 36, 35, 36, 35, 34,35, 34; Pennsylvania, 36,28, 36, 36, 36, 36, 35, 35, 35.

WASHINGTON NOTES ceretary Tracy Issues a Sweepin General Order-To Heorganize the Business Methods of the Navy De partment-A Task of Great Magnitud and Importance. Washington, June 27.—By a sweepin eneral order issued to-day Secretary Tracy directed an entire reorganization of busines methods of the Navy department. Succinctly stated, the Secretary's reasons for making th order are as follows:

of the old wooden vessels with new ships and nodern guns have been assigned here and here to the several bureaus of the depart ment, often with no better reason than the convenience of the moment. The result has been confusion and an exaggeration of the de fects of the bureau system. Duties which have no connection have been placed together and those naturally associated have been divorced. Supply has been complicated and expensive. Electric lighting, for example, has been claimed by three bureaus. The training of officers and men, spart from the independent establishment of the naval academy, has been divided between an equal number. And there has been no office to control and detail divided between an equal number. And there has been no office to control and detail the personnel of both officers and men as a whole and to receive and transmit the corre-spondence of the fleet. Secretary Whitney realized the evils of the system and made an effort to change them, but was obliged from the magnitude them, but was obliged from the magnitude of the task and the paramount importance of concentrating his energies upon the procurement of new ships and guns, to abandon the task. Secretary Tracy, however, now says that the time is ripe for further change, and has accordingly issued the new order. The terms of the order are as follows:

The investigation of the cause of the disas-ter will be begun this afternoon. The flag-man, Heacox, insists that he did flag proper-ly, but that owing to the fog that prevailed, the engineer did not see the lights. He started to run and was at the bridge when the train rounded the curve. He gave the signal, but the engineer could not stop the train, and the crash followed.

What depressing influence it exerts upour the min louding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poison-ous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease and cries out for relief and cure.

BABY ONE SOLID RASH, Ugly, painful, blotched, malicious—No rest by day, no peace by night—Boctors and all remedies failed—Tried Cuticura Remedies, effect marvelous, Complete cure in five weeks—Saved his life.

Our oldest child, now six pears of age, when an infant six months old was attacked with a virulent, malignant skin disease. All ordinary remedies falling, we called our family physician, who attempted to cure it, but it spread with almost incredible rapidity, until the lower portion of the little fellow's person, from the middle of his back down to his knees, was one solid rash, ugly, painful, blotched and malicious. We had no rest at night, no peace by day Finally, we were advised to try the Cuticura Remedies. The effect was simply marvellous. In three or four weeks a complete cure was wrought, leaving the little fellow's person as white and healthy as though he had never been attacked. In my opinion your valuable remedies saved his life, and to-day he is a strong, healthy child, perfectly well, no repotition of the disease having ever occurred. GEO. B. SMITH, Att'y at Law and Fx-Prox, Att'y, Ashland, O. Blotches and Scabs from Head to Feet. Blotches and Scabs from Head to Feet Blotches and Scabs from Head to Feet.

My boy, age nine years, has been troubled all his life with a very bad humor which appeared all over his body in small red blotches, with a dry white scab on them. Last year he was worse than ever, being covered with scabs from the top of his head to his feet and continually growing worse, although he had been treated by two physicians. As a last resort I determined to try the Cuticurs Remedies, and am happy to say they did all that I could wish. Using them according to directions the humor rapidly disappeared, leaving the skin fair and smooth, and performing a thorough cure. The Cuticurs demedies are all you claim for them. They are worth their weight in gold to anyone troubled as my boy was.

Constipation.

F not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Dras tic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."

— John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky. "For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills with good." "Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the pur-poses for which they are recommended." —T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

NORTH HAVEN ANNALS.

The First Cemetery—The First Burial Ground Was in New Haven—The First Medical Practitioners — Old Funeral Customs and Burials—Lon-gevity Among the Early Inhabitants. The first cemetery was established by vote of the parish in the winter of 1720. Previous to this time all burials had been made in New Haven. It was sometimes the case that temporary interment was made near the home of the deceased until a convenient time came for the removal of the body to the place of common sepulture. It is a curious psychological fact that the human race under all nditions elects to be buried in groups. The author of "Nantucke! Scraps" says:
"A graveyard is an index to a book just out of reach." This is not altogether true, for some of these cold volumes we may open and read, while others are locked close as are the stony lips of the winged heads they bear. The latter may in some cases have the advanters in that they conver no false impression.

The latter may in some cases have the advantage in that they convey no false impression, for it is not always true that the former maintain a rigid adherence to truth. Doubtless among the most surprised persons at the resurrection will be some who may catch a passing glance of the remarkable advertisement so long standing above them.

Although the settler was hardy and vigorous, yet he could not bar sickness altogether from his door. The upturning of the dank soil, the increasing decay of vegetable matter, the necessary exposure to heat and cold, inadequate clothing, long hours of labor, and all the incidents attendant upon life in a new country, brought its train of disease. Physicians were few. In New Haven was Dr. Nathaniel Wade (and possibly another) and in thaniel Wade (and possibly another) and in Wallingford Dr. Benjamin Hull. On these permit from the government will serve as sample of the relations sustained between it and men of his calling in that day:

sample of the relations sustained between it and men of his calling in that day:

"Upon the petition of Mr. Nathaniei Wade that this court would grant him liberty to practice phissick and Chirurgery, the Coarf having had sufficient certificate of the sayd Wade his good abilities and prosperous securiose in his former practice, doe see passick and Chirurgery in this Colony, and desire the blessing of God may accompany his endeavora."

Dr. Hull was licensed in 171? The remedies used were fer, and simple, but they made up in quantity what was lacking in Quanty. Blood letting was often recorted to as a panaces for all ills. Sweating and purgings were frequent, and nature was relied on for the rest.

The funeral customs of that day differed essentially in many respects from those of the present generation. Especially is this true in cities, but it may be questioned if anything in sincerity and respect has been gained by the change. People were not so plenty then that one could quietly drop away from a community and leave no gap. The sick in the neighborhood were anxiously inquired after; if their farm work suffered, a "spell" was given them and their crops attended to; if they needed "watchers" offers were freely made, and by persons at long distances; and if in spite of of all this care and solicitude, the dread summons came, as it often did, it was the castom in some communities for the men to suspend active work for a few hours, and if the party was somewhat prominent, sometimes for the remainder of the day. If a death of party was somewhat prominent, sometimes for the remainder of the day. If a death ocfor the remainder of the day. If a death ec-curred during the day the church bell was struck at sunset three times if a male, twice if a female and once if a child. If the same event happened in the night, similar notice was given at sunrise; later in the morning the bell was tolled, the strokes being timed and corresponding with the age of the de-ceased. Rare instances are given when the bell was tolled night or day at the earliest moment after dissolution.

Funerals were the occasion of large assemblages. No condition of crops, no hurry of business, no stress of weather, nothing was allowed to prevent attendance at the funeral. allowed to prevent attendance at the funeral. There was no levity, no unconcern on such occasions. Every person, unless a very recent comer, was known to every other person in the community, though miles perhaps separated their dwellings. The society and the town meetings, the lecture and the church services, and more than all, the constant struggle on the border land of toil, sacrifice, privation and danger, and denyings innumerable, knit a brotherhood that ease and wealth never knew. The funeral service varied at the wish of the family or the discretion of the minister. Singing was rarely, etion of the minister. Singing was rarely, Sermons were common on the fol-lowing Sabbath, having special refer-ence to such an event. Every one expected to attend the procession to the "burying ground." There was no hearse; until about 1780, coffins were brought from until about 1780, coffins were brought from New Haven. There was no professional un-dertaker te arrange matters; the family generally designated some one to "take charge." The body was carried on a bier by four men and if very heavy and a long distance was to be travelled, the "bearers" were relieved by others on the way. When wagons came into use about 1800, the bier was occasionally arried on them. It was an oak frame about eight feet long and three feet wide painted black; it rested on posts eighteen to twenty inches from the ground; the ends of the out-side frame or bars were smoothed down for andles and by these it was either carried at arms length or raised to men's shoulders.

A black cloth known as a pall was spread over it and its burden. In the "Proprietors' Records" of New Haven occurs this entry:

the time of the formation of this parish which may have gained some foothold in this State. This was the presentation at funerals, of gloves, rings, scarfs, etc., to those present. In 1721 the legislature of Massachusetts passed a law forbidding such practices, and Hollister cites the instance of the donation of one thousand pairs of gloves at the funeral of the wife of Gov. Belcher of that State in 1736. It is unlikely any such extrava-

Returning now to the cemetery, though laid out in 1720, the oldest stone is dated 1723 [see reference first paper]. This stone may or may not have marked the first burial, but be that as it may, here was to halt for a hundred and sixty years the "innumerable caravan." The founding of cities of the living and the beginning of cities of the dead is the sum of the supreme effort of man.

That the average rate of mortality was low in the parish, judging by attainable evidence we may believe. There died in 1723 one, 1724 none, 1725 five. Of this latter number was Jonathan Tuttle, settler and bridge builder, Simon Tuttle the whilom "dissenter" (f), and Nathaniel Thorp the drummer.

Notwithstanding this apparently large death rate a considerable number of the people attained extreme age. Among others, and Lydla, his wife, at 39, John Smith at 91, Joy Bishop at 87 and Miriam, his wife, at 36, Lydla Bradley at 91, Abagail Tuttle at 90, Deborah Dickerman at 91, Giles Pierpont at 92 and Elizabeth, his wife, at 89, Esther Pierpont at 90, Joseph Pierpont at 95, and Miriam Thorp at 99.

A singular omission connected with this cemetry (common to all, perhaps, of like age) was the absence, of its early years, at a least, of any system by which members of the same family could be laid near each other. The primitive idea of burial seemed to ignore to a certain extent family groups, and deposited the dead side by side as occasions arose. There seemed to be some attempt to keep the graves in rows, and all agreed the inscriptions should face the east, except in two instances. Such a lack of method widely separated families. Between husband and wife, parents and childern, lie strange faces and occur unfamiliar names. Obituary Vote on the Death of the Late Hon. Simeon B. Chittenden. At a meeting of the directors of the Shore Line railway held Thursday, June 27, 1889, the following vote was unanimously adopted and ordered upon record, viz.:

the event which has removed him from the board, and the sincere respect and friendship with which we all regarded him. As the president of the board he was always courteous and dignified, and his suggestions as a director, as well as his general conversation, were expressed with a clearness and precision that indicated the superior man. He was a high type of that class of men in New England who have achieved distinction and success in every walk of life. The generous benefactions of his later years will cause his name to be leng remembered in this community."

Voted, That the secretary be requested to publish this vote in a newspaper in New Haven and to transmit a copy, suitably engrossed to the family of the deceased.

North Haven. June 27.—The North Haven "cash paid for rage" venders are pretty numerous in town these days. One woman said yesterday that six of these wagons had been to her place. Yesterday a young lady and gentleman were driving down a hill at the center and about to pass one of these wagons when the driver threw his whip around in such a way that the gentleman's horse was so frightened and turning suddenly threw the occupants of the carriage to the ground. The peddler's horse became unessy and joined in the run, but was quieted without much damage while the other horse jumped a fence, broke the carriage all to pieces and ran to a shed where he is left standing a good part of the time. The young lady was severely injured about her head. The young man also received injuries, and it seemed very singular that the ending was not more serious. June 27 .- The North Haven "cash pa

No sooner is Vale commencement over and Vesterday, moreover, was not a day to bring unalloyed joy to the hearts of the candidates for freshman honors at Vale, at least not in this part of the country, for the weather was for painfully remindful of dog days. Nevertheless a crowd of candidates went through the ordeal in this city. At Almmit hall 150 struggled here looked now and then at the

"Last spring, being very much run down and debilitated, I procured some of Paine's Celery Compound. The use of two bottless made me feel like a new man. As a general tonic and spring medicine, I do not know its equal."

Brigadjer General V. N. G., Burlington, Vt.

Use It Now! "Having used your Paine's Celery Compound this spring, I can safely recommend it as the most powerful and at the same time most gentle regulator. It is a splendid nerve tonic, and since taking it I have felt like a new man." R. E. KNORR, Watertown, Dakota.

My boy, age nine years, has been troubled all his life with a very bad humor which appeared all over his bony in small red blotches, with a dry white scab on them. Last year he was worse than ever, being covered with scabs from the top of his head to his feet and continually growing worse, although he had been treated by two physicians. As a last resort I determined to try the Cuticura Remedies, and am happy to say they did all that I could wish. Using them according to directions the humor rapidly disappeared, leaving the skin fair and smooth, and performing a thorough cure. The Cuticura temedies are all you claim for them. They are worth their weight in gold to anyone troubled as my boy was.
