The Farmers' Federation of the Mississipp Valley has called a convention of the wheat growers of the Mississippi Valley for the purpose of forming a syndicate which shall raise the price of wheat to the western farmer. The Farmers' Federation is a joint stock ompany, with a capital stock of $20,000,000 market and sold; of this $5,000,000 every armer and local shipper will have an opporunity to buy at 10 cents on the dollar or earn the stock in shipments to the company, and become an equal stockholder and have his interest in the $15,000,000 of stock held trust for stockholders. This company akes no change in the rate of com mission now charged for selling grain and live stock, out proposes to make a reduction of 90 per ent., in the force of commission men, and by retaining 10 per cent, as salaried agents save $9,000,000 annually. The pledge of consignments that farmers, feeders and local for shippers are required to make before they can purchase shares of stock, is intended to yards and grain elevators, with power to es-

he regulation of the price of farm products ing 90 per cent, of these commission men. and then by one of the latent powers of this reanization to wipe out 90 per cent. of the stail men. It is expected to accomplish the object and purposes of the charter through ive bureaus or business departments which will greatly simplify the practical workings of the plan. The heads of these department re to constitute an executive board or adviory council of the president.

This is a fine scheme and may work unles here is a combination against it, as there is likely to be. Hitherto the commission men have been able to hold their own, and they will not give up without a struggle.

No less than 1,600 separate establishments organized on the co-operative principle are represented. Some of them are very extensive, employing large amounts of capital. They include nearly 200 distinct trades or occupations, in which only the best and most intelligent artisans are engaged. I endeavored in a former communicati impress upon the minds of the public tha Westville was the most available place for olding the World's fair in 1892. I don't any move being made to appoint committee and attend to the preliminaries, but havin cast a stone into the great pool of latent thought I waited, as I often used to do when I threw a stone into the water, to see the agitation it would cause, to watch the ripple as they circled out from the center and die away. I repeat, I have breathlessly watched for the ripples of thought to expand until they created a commotion, but I have watched in vain. No public meetings are can purchase shares of stock, is intended to centralize a large share of the commission business and enable the company to defy competition to begin with; besides, it is said that it will soon have control of the stock reads and or all stock reads and yards and grain elevators, with power to establish rules and regulations that would give the company a monopoly in the commission business and power to control shipments and business and power to control shipments and the company and power to each other their months and whispering to each other their fears. I don't pretend to notice it, but I see it always.

then the matter requires heroic treatment, but I cannot here stop to explain what that heroic treatment is. Suffice it to say it requires courage, and courage is a quality that some do not possess. May be I do not myself. However, this vicinity, I have been told by a reliable authority, has been the immediate center of the great humid wave that has recently awashed us with its spray. I had some quiet words with the engineer in Woodbridge, who is superintending the erection of the great dam. This is a engineer in Woodbridge, who is superintending the erection of the great dam. This is a word I scarcely ever use, but in this connection I do not see any harm in mentioning the word, as it applies only to the stoppage or the flow of water and does not, as in some cases, apply to the flow of words. As I was about to observe I had a few words of a friendly character with the gentlemaly engineer, who imparted to me some information about the flow of water in rivers, but I can hardly recollect how many hundreds can hardly recollect how many hundreds of millions of gallons of water passed had overflowed their roads and bridges and cut up an unheard of muss generally. Still the damage was slight and had not delayed them seriously. I remarked to him in a quiet aside that the country and the scenery were looking very beautiful all about, above and below through the valley, and that it was a lovely place to build a cottage by such a dam site. He only nodded in an approving way, and I think, as he was superintending a lot of Italians who did not understand English very well, that strong words had become so familiar that he did not consider me profane at all. He did not even smile, and that disappointed me, for when I attempt to make a pun and think I have succeeded I am dreadfully cut up if nobody smiles, and I often get in such a predicament.

But I am wandering again from my subject, which was the site for the great exposition. But I think the leaven with which I tion. But I think the leaven with which I am trying to leaven the lump is working. I heard one man speak of it in a serious way, as if he thought Westville would be in danger from a tower of such a height so near, though he really thought it likely it might be built on West Rock. I endeavored to make him see that if it was built there it would be built very securely and not likely to topple over, and he agreed with me that Westville had equally as good a chance from its remarkable natural advantages as another place, so I took courage in believing that I had been the means of impressing one mind with the idea which I am so strenuously endeavoring to which I am so strenuously endeavoring to get into the whole body politic. If this is far-away expression please impute it to the dreamy qualities of a modern mind which is much like a former BUNSBY.

It appears that the bishops who object to the Gaelic association have another reason beyond its being subsidized by Mr. Balfour, says the London Telegraph. The reason was that very serious physical injury and considerable loss of lift has resulted from the practice of the game. It was explained that "foot ball was too ex-citing to be suited to the Celtic tempera-ment, and that the immederate consumption of drink which not unnaturally accompanies such violent exercise ied to these lamentable consequences." We are not aware how far foot ball has taken hold of the Irish people, but if it be as well liked by our Irish fellow countrymen as by the English people, the bishops will have hard work to uproot it. West Haven Bereugh Meeting.

The borough meeting of West Haven was again called at 8:15 last evening, the warden, the clerk, and five burgesses being present. The property holders on Brown street were given a hearing by the board concerning any damages that have been occasioned by the street grading. But the whole matter was laid aside to be discussed at some future meeting. Then another matter was taken up, which was very likely the Elm street business, but as the board excluded public information, there was no means of ascertaining what they had done.

A supratice Peacet on Chilbert Accessed. Nothing was heard from meeting or mention of the start anything was wrong at first, for McIntyre had been hand in glove with him. The two men were what one would almost call bosom friends, and confidants. After a few days had passed and the junior partner still continued to be among the missing, Mr. Griffiths began to be alarmed. He examined the firm's accounts and found that there was nearly $400 which could not be accounted for. McIntyre had entire control of the financial affairs of the firm and it was soon evident to his partner that he had skipped with all the ready cash he could obtain.

There was no possible doubt as to the funior partner's action when the house at No. 219 Chapel street, where he had lived with his wife, was visited. Here it was found that McIntyre and his wife had packed up all of their worldly possessions several days ago and had hustily decamped for parts unknown. Newark in Difficulty.

The Newark club has not been playing in luck during the past season, and the stockholders contemplate reducing the pay of the players. Last season the stockholders came out losers by $9,000. Thus far this season they claim to have lost $4,000. Speaking of the situation, one of the directors said: "We have had good offers for the transfer of some of our crack players to other leagues, but we are not in favor of substituting them for cheaper and inferior men. Pitchers Baker or Dooms would bring a fair price, and either one of them would be of great assistance just now to the New York or Boaton team." The suggestion of reducing the pay or disbanding now to the New York or Boston team." The suggestion of reducing the pay or disbanding the club was made to the players Tuesday, and they are to announce this week which they will accept.

The Newark Evening Press-Register says in reference to the rumored difficulties of the Newark team:

This is the usual programme of the directors at this time of the year. It is well known that the Sunday games have paid known that the Sunday games have paid known that the sunday games have paid the sunday games have games have paid the sunday games have games h handsomely, and no matter what the directors may say about it there has been some petty business going on of late unworthy of a club like Newark's. The popular opinion, and it is honest even if mistaken, is that the club has made money, but of course the meetings are all very secret and nobody can learn the exact financial condition of the club. Why the players should be asked to accept a reduction is a mystery.

A gentleman who is well versed in the affairs of the club said last night that the men were to be asked to accept a reduction of ten per cent.

Fine Weather Enjoyed by the Soldier A Large Number of Visitors in Camp Camp-Other Notes.

CAMP BULKELEY, Aug. 21 .- Another day f pleasant weather has been conducive to lose game at Lowell yesterday, the former the enjoyment of the members of the State winning, thanks to Donoghue's error in the militia in camp at Niantic. As the sun has been partially obscured by clouds during the team had excellent chances of winning the day the soldiers have not been tanned as game, but Horner's shrewd pitching prevent- much as if the sun had been shining bright-The Second regiment left camp this afternoon at 2 o'clock on grand guard on outpost duty. The regiment returned to camp at 6 o'clock after a tour,of several miles in the An evening paper which was circulated in camp this afternoon contained an account of alleged trouble Governor Bulkeley experi-enced on returning to camp last evening.

There was a good display of the State militis at comp this afternoon when the First, Third and Fourth regiments, the Battery and the Fifth Battalion were drilling. The Fourth regiment under command of Colonel Watson practiced the skirmish drill. The First regiment was drilled in marching, which was remarkably well executed. The Third regiment showed that they need more drilling, while the battery gave a fine drill which included the firing. The drill, particularly the marching, of the Fifth battalion was the marching, of the Fifth battalion was

The dress parades of the three regiment which were in camp this afternoon made beautiful military display. The members of the First regiment were white helmets an white trowsers, which gave a fine appearance to the regiment. The parade was witnessed by a large number of spectators and by many officers, which was undoubtedly an incentive to the members of the Third regiment to do their best. There was a marked improvenusic of the four bands consolidated was The consolidated daily reports of the brig-

ide, which shows the percentage of member present, is as follows: Brigadier general and staff 91.24 Absen

The officers, who do not expect all mem-bers of the brigade to be present in camp, are well satisfied with the percentage of members present, which, as far as known, is larger than the percentage of members pre-ent at the encampment of militia of other Many of the Sarsfield Guard are having fur during the evenings in camp. They meet in and around their tents in small parties and and around their tens in small parties and listen to jokes and stories. Several members of the company are good at providing sport and entertainment for others. Maurice Mea-ney is frequently called on to give some of his recitations for the amusement of the par-ties. One of his best recitations, which is called "The Plumber Laborers' Meeting," is very comical.

Harry Langdon is another Sarsfield who frequently gives recitations for the entertain-ment of his comrades. Harry can give many recitations, but he has one that excels all others. Others have given the same recitation, but no one has equalled Harry in giv-ing the story, which is a repetition of a speech delivered to the "Montgomery Guard of Boston." ington and only won in the ninth inning, when they developed quite a batting streak and knocked out three runs. Sanders was hit hard in the seventh when the visitors tied singers, have given serenades to several offitette are: Sergeant M. J. Coffee flast tenor, J. E. Hines second tenor, W. E. Gilligan barttone, Corporal P. Moore bass. The following, who are called the "Ku Klux Four," of the Light Guard wish their friends to know that they are all well and enjoying themselves. The Light Guard was enjoying themselves. The Light Guard was the first company out for company drill this morning, for which they were complimented by the officers at brigade headquarters. Four members of Company C, who are tent-ing together and are called "The Quiet Four" are M. W. Meaney, J. J. Burns, D. J. Rey-nolds and J. F. Williams.

Captain Callahan has given D. J. Reyn of his company an appointment on the nal corps.

A large number of the boys in camp listened to the serenade by the Second regiment band at Colonel Doherty's headquarters last ovening.

One of the stories recently related at camp which is as follows, is a story of an occurrence at the last camp: Very late one dark, rainy night a member of one of the New Haven companies decided to try a new scheme for taking a bath. The others in his tent were sleeping soundly, when he arose and divested himself of all his clothing, and in a perfectly nude state went out into the night. perfectly nude state went out into the night.

As the rain was falling in torrents he was soon thoroughly drenched. After walking in his company street for a time he started to return to his tent, but as the tents all looked alike he very naturally made a mistake and entered the tent of another quartette of soldiers. They were perfectly astonished et the amearance in their tent of ished at the appearance in their tent of a naked man who had made them such an unceremonious call. The soldier, who soon found his own tent, had his bath just the Captain DuBois of the 22d regiment, N.G. S. N. Y., was at the camp to-day. Captai deneral actiogs, ex-Captain filtencock of the Hartford City Guard, Captain Boylan of J. Boylan & Co., N. Y., in military uniform were visitors at camp to-day. Brigade Orderly M. W. Burwell, whose shoulder was injured by being thrown from his horse, is not badly hurt. He is not confined to his tent to day. A report was cir-culated in the camp that his shoulder was very badly broken.

One of the daily visitors at camp, who has One of the daily visitors at camp, who has been interviewed regarding the quality of food furnished by Deibel, the caterer at camp, states that he has found the quality of the food served first-class and that good things were served in abundance. He also stated that the tables of both Deibel and Thalheimer were supplied with many luxuries for the soldiers at Camp Bulkeley.

The sneak thief is about camp again this year. George Streit, leader of the Fourth regiment band, left his gold watch in his vest night before last and left the vest hanging in his tent. While he was away from the tent for a moment someone stole the watch, vest his test. While he was away from the test for a moment someone stole the watch, vest and all. The watch was valued at $125. Other and minor thefts have been reported.

A new custom was instituted last night, and a useful one. Immediately after lights are out at 10:30 the camp was inspected to see that perfect order reigned, and the inspection was repeated during the night. This was a terrible set-back to the syringe brigsde, but a blessing to the callow new men. The new blankets certainly would have been a temptation to the tossers.

The weather was belling hot yesterday. Sergeant Murphy of the Hillyer Gnard, Company B, First regiment, was brought to the hospital this morning. He had been taken with a fit, caused by the excessive heat. The usual restoratives were administered and he was much better at noon and will get along Private Finnigan of Company C, Second regiment, was brought to the hospital last night suffering from a sunstroke, but he was discharged this morning.

Private Haling of Company H, Second regiment, was in the hospital to-day suffering from dysentery.

Private A. Ritchie, Company H, Second regiment, was also in the hospital, suffering from an abscess.

Shortly before noon a teamster who had been doing some work for the Fourth regiment was taken with a fit behind the mess house and it took several men to hold him. The hospital ambulance was summoned and the man was taken to the general hospital.

alleged trouble Governor Bulkeley experienced on returning to camp last evening. Governor Bulkeley stated to the Courses of polished cherry in the Congregational representative this afternoon that the story was untrue. August 21.—The massive antique pulpit of polished cherry in the Congregational church has been removed and replaced with a lighter and more modern desk. Many of the old people regret to have the old pulpit go, even to make room for the new organ, for it is associated in their minds with many sacred events. For thirty-five years the eloquence of the revered Rev. Eliaha Jones rang from this pulpit, and it has since been occurquence of the revered Rev. Elisha Jones rang from this pulpit, and it has since been occupied by Pastors Timlow, Oaborne, Ayers, Stevens and Kahler. The ancient windows, each having forty panes of glass, are also being substituted by more modern ones.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP. s Arrival at Cincinnati-The Train Delayed-A Reception and Speech In the Chamber of Commerce-Depar-

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21.-The President arived here at a quarter after ten o'clock, over two hours and a half late, owing to an accilent to the engine of a train in front of the Western express, between Baltimore and Washington yesterday. Crowds were at very station as the train passed along. At reenfield, O., a card was handed Mr. Harison with the words: "We wish you the arth and a safe journey.'

The President's party consists of President larrison, Attorney General Miller, Private ecretary Halford, Secretary Rusk, John B. Elam, Colonel J. B. Black, General Thomas B. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian affairs, J. I. Irwin, of Indians; Marshal Ramsdell of the District of Columbia, and J. B. Cock-rum, assistant district attorney, and William Meredith, chief of the bureau of engraving rum, assistant district attorney, and William M. Meredith, chief of the bureau of engraving and printing.

The Central Union depot was packed when the President's car entered it. The President was resognized and there was aimost continuous cheering until he reached his carriage which he occupied with Governor Foraker. The escort was made up of a battalion of police and two patrol wagons, the First Regiment of Ohio National Guards, commanded by Colonel M. L. Hawkins, and Battery B of the Ohio National Guard. The latter fired a salute. Upon arriving at the Burnett House a public reception was held and, at the end of three-quarters of an hour, the President was driven to the Builders' Exchange, at Sixth and Vine, where another address of welcome was made by President Allison of that body. From the Builders' Exchange the President was driven to the magnificent new building of the Chamber of Commerce, where it had been arragned that the members should have a reception for a quarter of an hour, and then the public should be admitted for an hour. But the shortening process deprived the members of their special privilege and they became engulfed in the great mass of people that poured in through the doors. Mr. Lowe Emerson, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, made the welcoming address. He told of the magnitude of the trade of Cincinnati represented among the members of this body and bid the President a warm welcome.

nati represented among the members of this body and bid the President a warm welcome. President Harrison replied: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen: The figures which your speaker has used in his address overcome me. The suggestions he sises brings to my mind many pleasant rec wharves, and where floated great palaces upon the waters, I had my first glimpse of a great city. To me, a country boy, it was a wonderful sight. Some of my earlier professional days were spent here under the guidance of Bellamy Storer. Although but comparatively little of my latter life has been pent in your city, yet I feel that in your spent in your city, yet I feel that in your welcome to-day you not only welcome me as an officer of the nation but as a neighbor. I appreciate the fact that I see before me not only representatives in business, but loyal supporters of our great union. I thank you."

The President then took his place on the floor and began a public reception. After an hour of handshaking the reception was closed and the President was driven to his betal for dipper and rest.

closed and the President was driven to his hotel for dinner and rest.

The presidential party at dinner was joined by quite a number of gentlemen of Cincinnati, and both it and the rest which followed it when the President went to his room and received a few friends was a pleasing contrast with the more exciting events that made up the programme for the first part of the day.

At 4:30 the President's departure from the Burnett House was the occasion for renewed applause. It was started by the spectators in the corridor who saw the President kiss a wee tot of a child in its mother's arms as he wee tot of a child in its mother's arms as he was coming down the stairway. This touch of nature seemed to deepen the applause, which grew from hand-clapping to cheers, and was taken up by the crowd on the street as the President entered his carriage and drove away, accompanied by the Indianapolis committee of invitation and by members of the Cincinnati committee.

There was a brisk drive to the depot, where the special train was in waiting. At five return home to take part in the monument exercises after six months' absence was as enthusiastic as were the parting congratulations when he left for Washington last February. As the train rolled into the depot at 2 o'clock, a battery from the arsenal under command of Captain Rexford, U. S. A., gave the usual salute of twenty-one guns. In less than twenty minutes after the arrival of the train the President and party were at the New Denison. On leaving the station the governor's guard of the State militia preceded the carriage in which were President Harrison, Governor Hovey and Mayor Denney, but in the interval came a hundred or more of the survivors of the President's regiment, the Seventieth Indiana infantry.

On alighting the President was saluted by the Governor's Guards. He acknowledged the salute, as he did the welcome of the people on the way from the station. As he passed into the hotel the crowd cheered and the President, being escorted to the large parlors, was surrounded by the committee, at the head of which was Mr. George W. Tanner, president of the Board of Trade.

Mr. Tanner, in a brief speech, welcomed the President to his old home. General J. R. Carnahan then, on behalf of the monument commission, welcomed the distinguished guest. The President in response said he did not know how to express his feeling at this return to

President in response said he did not know how to express his feeling at this return to his home. He did not expect to be with old friends so seon again when he left to assume his onerous duties, but he felt that he could not be absent on an occasion like that to be observed on the morrow. He had always taken a deep interest in the monument to be erected to the soldiers, and hoped again to be with the people of Indianapolis when the capstone is laid. The President then held a reception. To-morrow he will take part in To-morrow he will take part in BUFFALO, Aug. 21.—It is reported at the Erie railroad offices here that the fast east bound flyer, which left here at 7:30 o'clock last night, ran into the wreck at Big Flats at 11:30 o'clock, and that the engineer was killed and one passenger fatally injured.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The damage by the railroad accident at Big Flats consisted in the wrecking of one baggage car and one express car, and two express cars alightly injured. The tracks have been cleared and all trains are running on schedule time. No lives were lost, but the engineer and fireman were badly hurt and scalded. Two passengers sustained some slight contusions. A sengers sustained some slight contusions. A collision between two freight trains caused an obstruction of the track and into this the assenger train ran.

Sanderson Academy Dinner. inner in aid of Sanderson academy in this town was given here to-day with such postorandial speakers as George William Curtis, oseph H. Choate of New York, Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, Worester, together with others of local reputs tion. Prof. Charles Eliot Norton, president ntroduced Dr. Hall in a brief speech, in introduced Dr. Hall in a brief speech, in which he said of Clark university: "It will be the crown of our educational institutions if his ideal is realized." Dr. Hall made a capital speech, showing the great good accomplished by the endowment of educational institutions. Following Dr. Hall came F. A. Tupper, principal of Arms academy, Shelburne Falls, who made a plea for a higher civilization, and spoke of Emerson as its noblest type. Rev. George Pease of Ashfield spoke of the danger of a little learning. Hon. Joseph H. Choste was then introduced and spoke of the danger of a little learning. Hon. Joseph H. Choate was then introduced and spoke in a particularly happy vein. He related several stories which kept his hearers in good humor. Horace Greely has said, "Go West, young man." He has left many of New England farms, but while the young women remain none need be spared. Mr. Curtis was the last speaker. Touching upon politics, he said in substance: When the scorpion lash of partisan politics points to us, and we are told "Thou are the man," we seek refuge in saying the mote is in the eye of our brother. Every American says, we are wiser than the wisest, better than the best.

FULL OF DETECTIVES

Danbury's Fire Flend-Another Th ory Advanced. DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 21,-This three month's old city—it was only a town before that-has probably a larger detective force than can be found at any place of double its size in the country. Pinkerton detectives, to the Editor of the JOURNAL AND COURTER: After building and repairing old and nev bridges from 1858 to 1873 I conceived the dea of building permanent bridges, mostly of wood, by elevating the main chords or stringers above the floor. Everything consected with the frame work, after proper overing with improved waterproof cap, will last as long as the best built house. My barn has stood with common open covering for 85 years, and is to all appearances as good for 85 more. The plan of my bridge gives less exposure, better ventilation, waterproo cap or roof, by elevating at the corners pernament blocks of stone, held together at each and with iron crop-girders extending out for braces. This makes a complete job. The center girder should be of stout iron also exbending out for side braces. It will be ne-tending out for side braces. It will be necessary to drop this ten inches. Now you may use the best of stout iron. This will rust out and need replacing long before the frame of the bridge. All of this iron work, even every bolt, can be easily replaced without interfering with the frame. Every bridge of forty feet should be six inches rounding. This gives it a chance to drain. This will extend the use of sleepers one-third. Croping and re-croping the rounding surface will elevate crop-girders from ice and drift wood. There are some things connected with this which are not necessary to describe. They will be found in one day after getting bolts and iron-work fitted up and the stone work completed. Four or five men can build comand iron-work fitted up and the stone work completed. Four or five men can build complete in one day one of the handsomest bridges desired. It will be durable and at one-half the cost of iron. Some of our bridges are of unnecessary width. Sixteen feet with tight sides is better than twenty with open sides. Thirteen feet is better with tight sides than sixteen with open sides. Sleepers and planks on any bridge will rot. Sleepers and planks on any bridge will rot, but the frame will last.

us meet the expense.

Let me state what can be done by contributors to this fund. One dollar will give a family of five or six persons a day at the shore; $2 will pay for a trip for ten to the Thimble Islands and back; $3 will send someone to the country for a week; $4 will pay for one of Barker & Ransom's best carriages with a careful driver to give to several of the sick or the old people a pleasant afternoon sick or the old people a pleasant afternoon ride.

But larger sums can be used and a special mention. A worthy workingman, known to us through the recommendation of the Organized Charities, is quite feeble from several hemorrhages of the lungs, and obliged to give up work. His physician recommends a change to mountain air for several weeks as a means, possibly, of saving his life. His wife and little child can be provided for in his absence, but the expense of travel and board elsewhere can be met only by the help of others. About $25 are needed for this purpose of which $4 have already been given. Those who wish to make up the balance should send to us as speedly as possible, marking their subscriptions for this use.

Any sum, large or small, sont either to Miss Hume, 24 Home Place, or to myself, 475 Orange street, will be very acceptable and will be carefully expended for those who need the benefit of the fresh air fund. Subscriptions may be left at Klock & Mix's drug store, at the City bank with G. W. Curtis, the treasurer of the city missions, or at the superintendent's office at English Hall, corner of Court and State streets, which is open daily from 2 to 3 in the afternoon and from 8 to 9 every evening.

Respectfully yours,

DAVALRY VETERANS BANQUET. About Two Hundred Veterans and Priends of the First Regiment, C. C. V., Rounite and Banquet at Lincoln Rink-Officers Elected and Speeches Made and a Jolly Day Passed by the

A big American flag hung across the cen-Inspector Brynes' detectives, local police detectives from everywhere swarm in the streets and crowd the hotels. Every train brings more of them. They are all after the firebug or bugs who has or have made things so lively here for a month or so past.

One of the principal citizens of Danbury, who is a large property owner, said to-day that he thought that he had discovered what kind of a fellow the firebug is. According to this gentleman, the incendiary is neither a vicious man nor a lunatic, but simply a vicious man no ful one. The number present was about two hundred and most of them brought many of their friends with them.

About 11 o'clock the business meeting was called to order by the president of the organization, Charles B. Dyer, of this city. The officers of the association present were: Charles F. Bollman, first vice president; Henry M. Parmalee, second vice: Cason D. Thompson, third vice; William T. Cook of Ledyard, permanent secretary; Weston Ferris, assistant secretary and treasurer. Charles K. Kearns of Willimantic was the bugler. Mayor Henry F. Peck was introduced as the first speaker. The mayor welcomed the veterans to the city and told them to thoroughly enjoy themselves. F. S. Hastings of the First regiment, New York, and George W. Toms of Stamford, were voted in as members. It was voted to hold the next reunion in Meriden a year from yesterday. The following officers were elected to act for the ensuing year: C. T. Barstow, president; E. T. Doolittle, E. K. Bradley, H. C. Hayden, W. F. Cook, vice presidents; C. A. Breckenbridge, assistant secretary. After this the members proceeded to the banquet portion of the hall and sat down to a good repast. They were waited on by a delegation of the Ladies' Relief corps of this city.

After the banquet had been amply enjoyed short addresses were made by General E. W. Whittaker, General Erastus Blakesiee, Quartermaster Henry W. Robertson, Mayor Peck, W. T. Clark and Lieutenant Kemple. Letters of regret were read from a number of old veterans who were unable to be present. A letter sigued by M. V. My dear general: I have delayed my reply to your last letter, hoping that I might be able to be with you at the time of your cavairy reunion, but I regret now to say that I must deny myself that pleasure though I shall not soon cease to regret it. Hoping for better fortune next time and that you and all of your comrades and associates may have a joyful time, I am cordially and faithfully your friend.

Evening entertainment:
Grand illumination of the Broad street park, with a concert by Wheeler & Wilson's band of Bridgeport and a fine display of fireworks.
There will be several set pleases of fireworks, among which will be 1639 and 1889, "Tree of Liberty" and others. The day promises to be one such as will be of historic interest and observed in a manner worthy of the ones who came and laid the foundations of the town.

Plump and Rosy Babies "Had it not been for Lactated Food our little baby must have diel. She has been using it for three months, and is a plump, healthy, rosy-checked baby,"—Mr. Mollie Lappin, Kokono, Ind.

Sleep all Night Happy all Day

"We tried other foods, but finding none to agree with our little girl, we used your Lactated Food. She began at once to gain flesh, and improved in health. To-day she is as bright, lively, and hearty as any child can be, sleeping twelve hours at a stretch, and waking up laughing every morning."—Wm. S.
