BOYS, GIRLS, AND THE DEVIL. What shall we do with our boys? That is those boys in the High School who have shown their appreciation of the advantages of a good education by plotting to pass their ion by the aid of examination pape secured by bribing a printer's devil. Such things are more or less expected in college, where the necessity of having a good time is so keenly felt that when examination day comes some are willing to resort to any trick to escape the consequences of idleness and lack of study. But it is really surprising to see them cropping out in our High School. The affair appears to have been an elaborate one. The ingenious youth were friendly with the "devil." They made him feel that he was one of them. Having secured his onfidence, they showed bim how it would pay him in money to help them out of their lifficulty. And, as in most other such mat ters, there are bints that feminine influence was not wanting. It is hardly to be wondered at that the "devil" fell. The scheme was a shrewd and well planned one. It might easily have led pearance of a tulip bed, with great, gorgeous away an older person. Friendliness, money their heads in sprightly dance," as did and woman are powerful influences.

We are told that now the plot has been folled nobody will profit by it. The "devil" will be cast into outer darkness and the High School children will not pass the examination unless they are qualified to. The affair suggests some interesting questions. What will boys who can invent and carry out such a scheme be when they are ment of the suggests in great variety of shape, fabric and coloring. Their stems, to carry out the floral simile, are of acacia, tulip, cherry, bamboo and box, with the natural bulb or hook at the end, and are of medium length. In shape some tare rather flat, some "tubby," while others have well arched ribs, and as for covering the region of the results of the region of the re and woman are powerful influences.

The Russian government knows a thing or wo. At its instigation a horde of some 40,000 Circassians, have recently emigrated from the Caucasus, where they have lived for generations under Muscovite sway, to the Asiatic provinces of the Ottoman empire The pretext put forward by the leaders of the movement was that being Mahometans they preferred the rule of the Sultan to that of the Czar; and consequently the authorities at Constantinople were prevented by reli-gious considerations from raising any obtions to the incursion of their brethren in the faith. Much uneasiness has, however, been created on the shores of the Bosphorus by the fact that the unwelcomed guests have elected to settle in the districts around Erzeroum, which are inhabited by American Christians, and in the neighborhood of pre-Asiatic provinces. Indeed, they are just at the points where they would be of most assistance to the Czar's forces in case of a

THE CHINESE MUST GO.

The performance of the house concerning the Chinese is attracting some attention. The house voted that each Chinese person enumerated in the census shall be given an engraved certificate, to be duly numbered ferrule are gay and pretty, while for more dressy occasions are those of silk-musin, or net, gathered full over silk of the same or a contrasting tint, and with double frillings around the edge. The ribs of the frame show through this airy mass of folds and frills and are covered with the silk. There is a "jockey" parasol having twelve gores, every third gore being smaller than the others and of a contrasting color or patterns; another is made entirely of plaited ribbons. There are striped silks, rich brocades with gay figures, India silks and nets in delicate shades, fringed, frilled, flounced, embroidered, ribboned; truly a bewildering array.

And yet the average woman, or, rather, the woman with the average pocketbook, will certificate shall be the sole evidence of the right of such person to be and remain in the United States; and that any Chinese person found thereafter in the country without such certificate shall be either imprisoned or sentenced to deportation.

If this should become a law is is probable that China will be heard from. There is no reason why Americans in China should be more kindly treated than Chinamen in America. The representatives alike of American merchants and of American missionary scoleties in relations with China have sent to the senate earnest protests against concurrence with the action of the house, and a brief discussion

When the handle is the realization of her ideal the color of the silk will not bear proximity to the rest of her outfit; when fabric and handle find favor in her eyes the shape and quality seem undesirable, and when stick, style, shape, color, decoration, are entirely to her taste the price will at once remove that bright particular parasol far, far, beyond her wildest hopes of possession.

Thus the search will be protracted through many days, and the disappointment of that search can only be appreciated by one who has undertaken a parasol chase. Happy is she who finds, though the castom of this world passet haway, that last season's sunshade will "do," and tying a new bow upon it in a new place, she walks abroad, having saved herself, for a time at least, much weariness of soul and vexation of spirit.

THE BROOKLYN HOLIDAY HOUSE.

THE BROOKLYN HOLIDAY HOUSE. A generous Christmas gift was that of Hon. Benjamin W. Downing to the working girls of Brooklyn; a house with five acres of land to be used as a vacation home, or holi day house. The house is easy of access b boat or cars; is of three stories, with a wing two stories high on each side, and the rooms and halls are large, the sleeping rooms being spacieus enough to admit two or three beds.
This house will be kept open during the year as a place of rest and recuperation, and the even a day's enjoyment of its hospitalities, and the memory of it when passed, will give

Working girls will be admitted as boarders; they must be vouched for as to character by the officers of the club to which they belong, and are expected to pay all their ex-penses if able to do so; if unable to do this some time ago, but the press of that country in discussing the question of capital punishment contends that a return to death sentences is necessary in view of the increasing number of murders since the present law went into effect.

Some fish are caught. The annual catch of fish on the European and North American coasts is computed by a German statistician to amount to 150,000 tons. A ton of fish corresponds with twenty-five sheep in weight and with twenty sheep in nourishing power. Therefore the total European and North and with twenty sheep in nourishing power. Therefore the total European and North American catch equals in number 42,000,-006 sheep and in nourishing power 30,-000,000.

It is easy to delude people. Next Menday is the day when, according to the prediction of one Erickson, San Francisco and its suburb, Oakland, and perhaps a few other towns will be swallowed by an earthquake. Some few wholly or half-crazed fanatics put faith in the San Francisco impostor, and have sold their houses and goods for cash at ruinous prices. Others, not fully convinced, but preferring to be on the safe side, have gone opt into the mountains and hills in the neigh-

The old house at Bonn on the Rhine, where Ludwig Von Beethoven was born, is o be completely restored and made a memorial building and a museum of objects conneoted with the life and work of the great nected with the life and work of the great tone master. A society organized for this purpose by the musicians of Bonn numbers among its many eminent members Prince Bismarck and Count Von Moltke. The house is situated at No. 515 Bonn street, is tall and narrow, having, three stories with Mansard roof, and it was in the attic room, the "Dachstube," that the wonder child, as his boasting father used to call him, was born, in December, 1770.

Fortunately he was transferred to kindlier teaching before his love for music was quite crushed out of him.

How long Beethoven lived in this house is uncertain, but it was here that his early years were spent. He left Bonn in 1792 and thereafter made Vienna his home. It is fitting that the old home should be made a monument to one of the most remarkable of musicians, and to the thoughtful visitor its very walls will seem strangely eloquent, recalling his sorrowful childhood, the griefs, disappointments and triumphs of his manhood, his curiously mingled characteristics, and the wonderful creations of his surpassing genius.

Simeteo river, having its source at the northeast, near that of the Alcantara, circles the base, first to the southwest, then southward, and then flows around and into the sea to the southeast, below Catania. From Catania to the mouth of the Alcantara, the Ionian straight wall of shore, cuts a thin segment out of this circle. But within this extraordinarily distinct circle of one hundred and seventy miles there is not a square inch of the carth's surface over which the lava has not at some time poured; which one cannot now distinguish to be unadulterated lava soil; and which is not subject to-day, or any other time, to a new coating of molten lava.

From any of the tiny lava peaks in the uburbs of Catania, within one's range of vision the fancy can summon to their olden places the muth wraiths of Jove's most powrest; the wraith of Empedocles wandering on Ætna's side, clothed in purple and bearing a Delphic crown, five centuries before Ohrist; of Dionysius, the elder, two hundred years later, after destroying Naxos scaling the walls of little Mola above, like a ferocious beast to butcher its defenders; of the ilver tongued Alcibiades, down there in the undred years before Christ, which you can to-day see beneath ages of lava, enthralling he Catanians with his loving speech, while

For traly all this and a thousand fold more are seen with the eyes of sense and thought, while the lighting flashes of faney course the realms of mythology and history. There, at Ætna, Enceladus, bound beneath Jupiter's earthly throneses of faney course the realms of mythology and history. There, at Ætna, Enceladus, bound beneath steps of earth quakes. Here, at Catania, themty centuries of storied treasure and art lie buried beneath seas of liquid fire. Beyond, at Syracuse, the noblest magnificence of Greek achievement is crumbiling beneath centuries of filth. The sea, the morasses with their deadly miasma, and the ever threatening furies of Ætna, alone remain. Resplendent civilizations are annihilated. Let Ætna roar, a tidal wave engulf, or a stinking swamp breed a pestilence to girdle the earth, a more sodden superstition and fatalism are here to accept the old, and create new, bugaboos to-day. What availed St. Paul's austerity, St. Peter's benignancy, or even that a Christ was born, to such as these!

Catania. The palaces which border her principal streets are very new, splendid and great; perhaps the Bissaria palace, which houses vast stores of Greek sarcophagi, terra cottas, vases and soulptures, excavated from the lava, being the most imposing. Then there is the Marina, where the lowly gather and listen to the mueic of government bands, a filthy place much loved by the lazzaroni. But the Beilini garden, out on the heights towards Ætna, is surpassingly beautiful; and in this you will see military officials resplendent in uniforms and decorations, lords and princes covered with insignia of rank, all the

This makes a handcasting and saves labor in the end, as when dent in uniforms and decorations, lords and princes covered with insignia of rank, all the really interesting aristocracy of Catania, and truly the most winsome, soulful eyed, empty headed women of Sicily. Of the Greco Roman remains the theater can be visited by the use of guides and torches. The ancient Odeum is near; and in Archebusiri street will be found what is left of the Roman amphitheater. the warm bath, the hot water bath, the vapor bath, and the fire room and the disrobing room. There are many medieval half ruined structures of interest in Catania; while the unfinished Monastery of San Nicola is, excepting that of Mafra in Portugal, the largest and most imposing in all Europe. But the traveler is not so much attracted to Catania by its reminders of a mighty past as he is to put eyes and feet upon the monster which all through that known time stood moaning or thundering above it. Its ascent is begun within the very streets of the city. Strada Ætna, Catania's longest street, beginning at the very edge of the port side, leads almost due north towards the volcano's peak, within a few feet of eleven thousand The room remains much in the same condition in which it was one hundred and nineteen years ago. It is is dark and dingy, with a low ceiling crossed by heavy rafters, the boards of the floor are warped and gaping, and the little windows in the elanting wall and in the door have their dim panes set in wide bars of lead. Upon the wall is a memorial tablet surrounded by a wreath, and the miserable old house in an out of the way peak, within a few feet of eleven thousand feet above the level of the sea, and fully twenty-eight miles away. The area of coun-try dominated by the mountain, and at all times subject to overflow of lava, is astound-ing. Its circumference is fully one hundred and seventy miles, and it describes an irregu-lar circle, of greatest diameter from north to

It was here that Beethoven's musical education began when he was but five years old, his teacher being his dissipated and irascible father, who often, returning at midnight to his home, would pull the little fellow from his bed, to toil at piano or violin exercises until daylight. These studies were of the most uninteresting description, no melodies being allowed to brighten his hours of labor. Fortunately he was transferred to kindlier teaching before his love for music was quite crushed out of him.

The entire majestic contour of the mountain, broken here and there by lesser volcanoes, is visible from any point at this tremendous base edge; but more strange than all else is the density of population within the lower and cultivably luxuriant rim. Threading the base, along the sea shore, around to the north by the shores of the Alcantara, around to the south along the inner, or northern, shore of the Simeteo, and crowding up to the very edge of its lesser inner, or northern, shore of the Simeteo, and crowding up to the very edge of its lesser volcanoes, are between sixty and seventy cities and villages, housing—and every human being in life long destruction—upwards of three hundred thousand souls. Ways of its People-The Charcoal

In the pagan and Christian history of the eastern shore of the island of Sieily, or that portion extending from Messina at its northeastern extremity past Catania, about midway between, to Syracuse, in a nearly direct north and south line, one can almost read the history of the world. Exactly half way between Messina and Syracuse, its summit about the same distance from that part of the Ionian sea known as the Strait of Messini, as it lies a trifle west of north of Catania, stands that origin of countless mytholegic furies and incalculable actual destruction, the most majestic and fearful volcano of all Europe, Mt. Ætna.

come here the truth. You cannot make the ascent of Ætna as it is ordinarily made for less than one hundred dollars. Permission less than one hundred dollars. Permissio to make this move, then that one, then an other, comes through apparent diplomacy but always after an outlay of money. The there are the animals, their attendants; the tooks, their attendants; needed and needles cooks, their attendants; needed and needless provisions; necessary and unnecessary clothing; requisite and dangerous liquids; and altogether such an outlandish paraphernalia of compulsory outfit that one truly stands appalled by a sublimity of extortion before the city's gates are passed. Fortunately I was an observer of, rather than a victim to, this manner of plucking. I had lived at a little Sicilian lodging house in Algiers. It is an interest in the little sicilian lodging house in the Gambayita quarter. He was thin as a stick of maccaroni, brown as a piece of lava, tenthe Catanians with his loving speech, while the Athenians were treacherously entering the city along the shore; of the demigod

a guide; had saved so many Napoleons as would purchase his tiny alberghetto; and having arrived at ease and competence, could now and then indulge a kindly impulse, or enjoy an unselfish act. We were good friends at once. Constant talk about Ætna and his adored Sicily brought the old mountaineer spirit back to Balbino; and shortly, not as a service but a delight, he became my

For about eight miles further stretches Il Bosco, the wooded region, forming the temperate zone. From the upper edge of this to the crest of the cone lies eternal solitude in the frigid zone. This they term Discoperta, the uncovered; Netta, the barrrens; and Diserta, the desert.

sionally we would reach an opening from which the grandest scenes were visible; but for nearly the entire distance the way is but an insecure bridle path beneath stupendous oaks and chestnuts, along the shadowy bases of mountainous rocks of lava, or above the edges of dark and yawning chasams. We tarried with some picturesque chareoal burners for an hour in the afternoon; and just at dusk came upon the high, desolate lava plateau where stands the only shelter of upper Ætins, the indescribably dreary Casa degli loglest. It is simply a but of lava blocks, built in 1811 by English officers, and now a miserable ruin. We found one room of this inhabitable, and after warming at a little fire and partaking of some cold food and wine, wrapped our great blankets about us and disposed ourselves upon the rude benches for a long and glorious sleep in the keen and biting air.

nthe Becord-A Notable Array of Improvements - Postmaster Sperry-Still Another Improvement - The ation in June.

There seems to be no limit to the fertility of resource of New Haven's accomplished postmaster for introducing improvements at zie Caffrey, soprano; Miss F. B. Pease, conthe office and giving New Haven's people the tralto; A. C. Brose, tenor; T. R. Blakeslee, best possible mail service. For this New basso; F. W. Canada, organist. The pro-Haven's postmaster was renowned when in office before, and that a master hand is in cascons, for scarcely had the subject been mentioned last night when the board went into executive session. Their deliberations lasted about an hour. Become this, however, some very interactions business was transacted. The mention class of the high school, at least a part of it, was severely overhauled, as were also of interactions of others about to be made, will be of interest.

In the first place as to the carriers. They have been ordered to go and come through the rear doors. Formerly people were knocked about and hustled about by the carriers as they rushed out the front door with their heavy loads of mail. Many are the ladies who are delighted with this change owing to experience of their own in this

Again, when the office is opened now for business in the mornings, letters postmarked midnight, are now found in the boxes ready for delivery instead of being in the carrier departments in large numbers as formerly. In the old way the letters were not obtained until midday or in the afternoon. Now they are obtainable as soon as the office is opened, which is at 7 o'clock. Again all the letters are now made up for the several railroads leading out of the city, in packages direct for the several towns to the satisfaction of all the postal clerks, and the distribution for said railroads is perfect, according to enthusiastic testimony received in return for this, it is found that the postal clerk treating the New Haven office in a splendid manner, making up their packages for the New Haven office distribution which is a great accommodation to our people as regards accommodation to our people as regards time. Another great feature of the improve-ments is the notable decreasing of the time in which letters are in transit between the New which letters are in transit between the New Haven office and points north, south, east and west, and particularly the large saving of time as regards connecting with the west and southwest. This matter has received special attention from the postoffice authorities and with results most gratifying to our citizens, the business public in particular. Again, among the improvements is the establishment of sub-stations throughout the city for the sale of postage stamps, postal cards, envelopes, wrappers, etc., and we are glad to note here that our indefstigable postmaster expects by the 1st of July to double these sub-stations, thus giving larger and increased accommodations to other sections of our city.

Again, formerly there were six or eight collections of mail matter a day. Now in all the red boxes, which are a new feature in the business, letters are collected every hour the red boxes, which are a new feature in the business, letters are collected every hour from 7 to 10 in the evening, and so great is this convenience that on some of the hourly trips of the collectors thirty-seven pounds of mail matter have been brought in by a single collector on a single trip. This figure is from actual weight. It is also of interest to know that the business from these red boxes daily (since the hourly collections and the painting of them red to designate the time) has actually quadrupled. The collections from the orange colored boxes has increased in like proportion. The remaining outlying districts outside of the red and yellow boxes is now covered by the collectors and carriers two and three times a day instead of one or two times as formerly. day instead of one or two times as formerly.

Mr. Sperry has also added to his carrier force and to the clerical force, and to these and other improvements which are constantly going on, such as the reduction in the advertised list, etc., the public are indebted to ly going on, such as the reduction in the advertised list, etc., the public are indebted to Mr. Sperry's energy.

Another leading improvement has been the arrest and discharge of those who were stealing monised letters and had taken hundreds of dollars, which thefts, according to the inspector's report, had been going on for years. On inquiry since these arrests it is found that there are but few cases of missing letters occurring, and these are probably through misdirection or olerical errors.

The public are glad to note also, since Mr. Sperry has taken hold of the office, that the present inadequate accommodations at the postoffice, it is proposed, shall be remedied by the enlargement of the postoffice building—its extension on the west side to the corner of Gregson and Center streets—which will give largely increased accommodations. Senator Platt, at the suggestion of Mr. Sperry and of Mr. Kellam, the collector, has prepared and presented a bill, which the public hope will pass, troviding for this enlargement of the building.

The people will also observe by the lettering in the vestibule what hours and how often the collections take place, and where to deposit letters.

Another and entirely new feature is this, and the postmaster thinks it cannot fail to still further ensure accuracy and dispatch of all letters mailed at the office. All clerks have been given a scheme for the mailing of letters which designates how the letters

Mr. Adler called the board's attention to the rule prohibiting photographers from taking pictures of the scholars in school hours. This was done in 8A Eaton a few days ago and has been done in several of the schools. Messrs. Leigh and Howarth proposed cansuring the offending principals in the highest terms. The matter was referred to the school committee.

The executive session of the board lasted till after 11 o'clook. There was a lively discussion among the members as to what geography should be selected. This item in the curriculum was the only one upon which there was a marked disagreement in the board. The list of books adopted was, however, unanimous and is as follows:

with the surrounding towns over thirty additional branches has been added to the vari ous lines, and the various postoffices in territory contiguous to this city.

All this has been accomplished in the short space of two months since Mr. Sperry's socession to the office, and it is needless to say that it is a remarkable record of energy and ability.

APTER EXAMINATION PAPERS. Praise Service at Grace M. E. Church High School Pupils Try to Bribe

> The junior and third classes of the high school have made a bold attempt to secure a copy of their examination papers in advance, but the plot was discovered in time. There are a few young men of each class and a few young ladies also, who are implicated. Their names are known to the school authorities. They endeavored to receive the advance copies through an apprentice in the printing establishment of Tattle, Morehouse & Taylor, where the papers are printed, but the apprentice was apprehended by other employers of the firm while in the act of taking proofs of the examination matter. The apprentice was discharged on the spot. It is said he was more sinned against than sinning, for he had been under the influence of prominent high school students for the past six months. He had been very intimate with a fourth class girl during the winter and it was to please her that he was partly urged to the action. New papers have been prepared by Principal Whitmore and the efforts of the students will avail them nothing. The board of education severely rebuked the students at last night's meeting. Mr. O'Ferrall of Virginia supported the resolution of the minority of the committee on elections which declares the seat vacant. After reviewing the case in detail he entered into a discussion of the race question, asserting the superiority of the Caucasian races and criticising the rupublicans of the morth for having done no political favors to the colored men. This was denied by Mr. Morse of Massachusetts, who stated that colored men had frequently sat in the Massachusetts legislature and that the last valedictorian of Harvard college had been a negro.

Mr. Greenhalge of Massachusetts criticised the minority of the committee for having abandoned the sitting member after asserting in their report that neither he nor his friends had done anything wrong. The High Five Club. SEDALIA, Mo., April 11 .- Acting under instructions of Judge Ryland, the grand jury

After an executive session the senate at 5:55 adjourned.

Just before the senate adjourned Senator Hawley reported the world's fair bill with the amendments agreed upon by the committee. The first one was to section 5, relating to the acceptance of the site by the national commission, with the provision that the site and buildings shall be deemed adequate to the purposes of the exposition and the further proviso that said commission shall be satisfied that the said corporation has an actual bons fide and valid superription to its capital stock of at least $5,000,000.

The amendments inserts after the word "stock" the words "which shall secure the payment." The following was proposed as now in session has issued subposness for a number of members of the High Five club, a tony social organization among whose members are quite a number of young ladies, to appear before that body. It is supposed that an effort will be made to find indictments against the persons at whose house the club has met during its existence on a charge of permitting gaming or gambling on their premises. Mr. Crisp of Georgia gave an able presentation of the case of the sitting member as viewed from a legal standpoint.

Mr. E. B. Taylor of Ohio said that the negro might be an inferior race now, but wait a thousand years and see God's purpose unfolded. But, if they were intellectually inferior, they were not interior in their legal rights. As for the condition of affairs at the south, he asked the house and the American people if it could always be so and the country exist. He was loath to have a strong national law that would bring about a reform pasceably and orderly. He spoke in kindness and in the hope that his words would influence some minds. The black man was not naturally the enemy of the white man. In 1862 when his own master left him at the old homestead to go forth and fight the army that he knew was coming to free him, had he abused the confidence reposed in him! He would rather have a democratic house here honestly elected than to have affairs as they stand. "If God is just, I tramble for my country," said he, quoting Jefferson, and concluding he said: "In the name of God, of my country and of the constitution left ib to understood that the condition of things shall be better from this on."

The house at its evening session did no business, but the few members present resolved themselves into a debating society, JERSEY CITY, April 11 .-- The republican city executive committee to-night decided to contest the election of Mayor Cleveland, Mr. McEnice of Tennesses gave notice that until the house would allow private bills to be considered on Fridays he would allow no pension bills to be passed on Friday nights. Several members alleged that gress frauds in the interests of the democratic candidate had been commit-ted in several districts. Mr. Boothman of Ohio followed with an exhaustive speech in reference to pensions. Both gentlemen were constantly interrupted and the house was frequently in an uproar. On several occasions rather personal and unparliamentary language was indulged in, but the general goed humor of the hour prevailed and anger and indignation were laughed down. The house at 10:80 adjourned. A City in Darkness.

RUSSIAN CRUELTY. The Plogging of Mme. Sigida-Dr. Gurvich Applauded by the London Lancet for His Befusal to be a Party to This Frightful Barbarity.

LONDON, April 11.-The well known English medical journal, the Lancet, in this week's number presents at length such details of the atrocities to which political prisoners at Khara in eastern Siberia were subjected last November as are of especial interest to the medical profession. Most attention is devoted to the famous case of Mme. Sigida who died from the effect of flogging. Dr. Gur vich, the prison physician, was strongly opposed to the flogging. He furnished the gov-ernor of the prison with a certificate setting forth that Mme. Sigida was receiving treat-ment at his hands for heart disease. It had ment at his hands for heart disease. It had long been customary for prison officers to accept such a certificate as sufficient warrant for suspending the infliction of corporal punishment. But under the order of Baron Korff, governor-general of the province of the Ameer, directing that the prison rules should be rigidly enforced in the case of of political prisoners the governor of the prison decided that the flogging should be administered in spite of the physician. Dr. Gurvich thereupon remonstrated strenuously and refused to be present at the flogging. Despite these remonstrances the lady was rudely seized, her clothing stripped from her in the presence of the soldiers, she was thrown upon a bench and held down while a hundred cruel blows fell upon her bared back.

The Lancet applauds Dr. Gurvich for his refusal to be a party to this frightful barbar-ity. If he is persecuted for the stand he took the Lancet thinks the physicians of England ought to unite in some action to effect his MR. HANDALL'S CONDITION.

The children of our households to-day may gain the same thing that we gained at five-and-twenty, and far more than we gained when they are ten far more than we gained at hve-and-wenty, and far more than we gained, when they are ten or twelve; and the progress is like the joyful song of their childhood, when they are led along the rational method. Why should they not breathe in enthusiasm with every breath of their learning. It was with agreat price, indeed, that we obtained this freedom. But they were free born.

Let me say here that, in my judgment, every boy who has the best chances ought to have the mastery of the French or German language (I should say of both) before he is eighteen years of sge—a mastery kindred to that which he has of English. He should also have such a knowledge of Greek and Latin as will mean power in and over those Latin as will mean power in and over thos languages, and will enable him to read ther with ease and with satisfaction as he enter upon his college course. Sire Brothers have issued a challenge for a race between their fast mare, Rosslind Wilkee, and Buffalo's trotting quees, Belle Hamilin. "Mr. Hamilin has always contended that the Almonts are superior to the Wilkes trotters," said Mr. Sire, "and last season we gave him everything his own way in the two matches against Belle Hamilin. He had his choice of Harry or Rosalind Wilkes and selected Harry. Then we made the race best two in three, in accordance with his wishes. Now we think he should conform to our idea of a match, and we have offered to trot Bosalind Wilkes against Belle Hamilin, best three in five heats, for any reasonable amount, time and track to be agreed upon. We would prefer to have the race before the grand circuit begins and have made the challenge substantially as I have stated."

Henry W. Putnam of New York has the purchase of the splendid double team Aubine and Lady Wellington from Major Dickinson, the price being private, but those who ought to know say the figures are somewhere between $30,000 and $50,000. This team, between $80,000 and $50,000. This team, the first time of asking, trotted an exhibition mile over Fleetwood last summer in 2:16, driven by Isaac Fleming, who goes with them to their new home. The double team record is 2:15½, made by Maxey Cobb and Neta Medium a few years ago, but the splendid performance of Aubine and Lady Wellington proves conclusively that they can surpass the champion efforts of Mr. Cohnfeid's pair. The fastest exhibition mile ever trotted by a pair of horses is the 2:15 1-2 of Mand S. and Aldine, driven by their owner, the late William H.

Vanderbilt. It is Mr. Putnam's intention to send his peerless team sgainst the team record, but both will take part in single races, Aubine being a prominent caudidate for the $10,000 Charter Oak stake. Both Doble and Splan were anxious to have Aubine this season, the daughter of young Roife being rated at many stands better than her record; but the sale of Major Dickinson puts an end to that part of the program.

At a meeting of the accretaries of the different trotting associations of Connecticut, held at Norwalk, the spring meetings of the circuit were arranged as follows: Derby, June 3 to 6; Norwalk, June 10 to 13; Danbury, June 17 to 20; New Haven, July 1 to 4; White Plains, July 8 to 11. The amount of purse at each track will be $2,000, except at New Haven, where the purse will be about $3,000. Each track will have the following classes: 3:80, 2:48, 2:38, 2:34, 2:30, 2:29, and a free-for-all for pacers and trotters.

The Charter Oak spring meetings will be held from June 24 to 27.

HARTFORD'S $10,000 PURSE FOR COLTS.

One of the peculiar effects of the introduction of a large guaranteed stakes in England has been to decrease the volume of betting, says the Spirit of the Times this week, breeders and owners realizing that in a fixed stake of say two to ten thousand pounds, the odds against their entrance money was far larger than any bookmaker could afford to lay. If an average breeder could pull off one such stake during the season it would go a long way toward paying the expenses of his training stable. At one time on the trotting turf, breeders complained that they could not afford to train and campaign their colts, that the prizes were too few and the risks too many, and that their only chance to keep even was by a constant appeal to that field jade, the pool box. The advent of such a large prize as the Hartford purse of $10,000, and others of a similar character, though smaller in amount, gives the trotting horse breeders of this country excellent opportunities to enter at an exceedingly small outlay and give the colts a special training for one supreme effort. In the olden time they could not win in a full season as much money as can now be won in one stake, and unless all signs fall, these stakes will continue to increase in number and value. The entire entrance fee to the Hartford purse of $10,000 is $200, or 2 per cent. of the purse. To put it from a speculative point of view, the winner of the first money, $5,000, 92 to 2, or 1, of the second money, $5,000, gets 25 to 1; of the second money, $5,000, gets 26 to 1; of the second money, $5,000, gets 26 to 1; of the third money of the fourth money gets the remunerative odds of 5 to 1. It is also an attractive feature HARTFORD'S $10,000 PURSE FOR COLTS.

The Rim Tree by the Pump SOUTHERN INVESTMENTS THAN ANYWHER ELSE."—Hon. WM. D. KELLEY, of Penn. fully dedicated to E. C. Beecher by Merriman.]

Hall! majestic towering tree, As we gaze upon your form And your waving branches free, Swayed by many a storm, We would give the honor due
In your second century's dawn,
To the hand that planted you
And the good old liquor gone. Giving fancy fullest play, We may resurrect the hour, Or at least the aucient day. When that dram diffused its power. To that good old Santa Claus, Over which he smacked his lips And retained his honest dues By his lengthened sighs and sips. It was doubtless very good, With rich fragrance and aroma, As the beady bubbles stood On that day preceeding summer. There along the country road, Or perhaps a footworn track, Panting 'neath his heavy load, With that tree upon his back—

Trudging on he reached the green, With a warm, perspiring brow; No paved roadway there was seen Such as we are viewing now. So we can but vaguely ask, His historian being dumb, Did he really do that task For a flask of fragrant rum? That is what our tewasman says, Who in this must be our teacher; So we gladly put the bays On the honored name of Beecher. And the names of ancient sires, Ancesters of his, and kin, To whose patrietic fires Our fires now burn within.

His ancestor or his brother
Gave the liquor with its beads
To his sire, and not another
Will be honored by these deeds. Deeds which now his brain proposes With a decorative hand He would, as the century closes, Deck the tree with scarf and band Let it be a gala day.

Honor the majestic tree,
And let wit and humor play
On your face, O Edward C.

The sales aggregated $1,372,000, the Atchison incomes contributing $185,000 and the fours $172,000 to the total.

The increased selling of several active stocks today made the market more animated than on any previous day this week. Rock Island sprang into activity at the opening and fairly led the list during the entire day, though closely pushed by Missouri Pacific. The stock reached the lowest price it has seen for some time. Missouri Pacific was sold down to below 70, but went little farther. In the last hour there was extra pressure brought upon the Grangers and Burliagton and Quincy was marked off rapidly. Union Pacific suffered somewhat from the denial of the story that the Vanderbillis would go into the directory, but in the aftersoon it railied to the best price of the day. Lackawanna showed considerable strength, but the Coalers since the settlement of the Reading controversy have occupied a small place in the market. The bears were on the aggressive throughout the day and the market closed quiet but weak, with all the active stocks at the lowest price.
