wife, bought a dollar ticket in the Louisiana lottery and drew a fifteen thousand dollar prize. This money she invested in real estate. Soon after a creditor of her husband, who had become insolvent, levied on the property. She appealed to the courts, and it devolved upon them to determine whether it was her separate estate or the common property of herself and husband. The Supreme court has decided in her favor. It does so on these facts, on each of which it lays stress: First, the dollar with which she bought the ticket was her own; second, her husband agreed are not seigned to reimburse for laboring overtime on government works will lose no incomsiderable part of their pay through the rapacity of the attorneys to whom they have intrusted their claims for collection. It is understood that many of the beneficiaries of the bill have promised to do of observations made at first hand, and in that extreme patience which knows no tedium. The incidents recorded are not sensational, but they are singularly fresh, and we have met with no recent book of popular natural history which bears upon it so complete a stamp of gentleness. Mrs. Brightwen's stories are invariably told as have intrusted their claims for collection. The bill is now before the house, and will no doubt pass before the close of the week. The Old Sanitarian Has Been Sick. A large portion of my long life has been spent in exploring the profound mysteries frequently occur which surprise even me with a delightful sense of the importance of the sanitary knowledge I possess. A few days ago I spent a couple of hours to every faithful workman who may ask it of the building poured into a pipe connectmploye on his side agrees to perform closet, and so washed out that pipe every time it rained. This is contrary to the proposed plumbing ordinance and, as every bacteria—the dreadful contortions gradually ceased and my life was rescued from impending doom.

This thrilling and painful incident illustrates both the need of a staff of scien-instrates both the need of a staff of scientific plumbing inspectors and the advantage of possessing sanitary knowledge. If I had not known that all diseases are caused by germs, I would not have known how to kill these rascally germs and thus escape from an insanitary danger and a premature death. escape from an insamilary usual arrivation of the premature death.

Joy for deliverance from the terrible microbes led me to consider how I could render a suitable thank offering therefor. After mature thought I have concluded to donate the following valuable idea to man-

tary science. An OLD SANITABLAN.
P. S.—Yesterday I heard a thoughtless person say that we did not need any plumbing inspectors because nowadays buildings were planned and supervised by educated architects, who knew more than the inspectors would Bosh! The fact is that our architects are ignorant of sanitary science. Not one of them could write the natural history of an "undetected microbe." We want plumbing inspectors who know all about the microbes and are in sympathy with the scientific and benevolent work of the board of health.

I gratitude the action of a relative who insisted on making the child appreciate the genuine beauty of a frog. "She made me look at the beautiful gold circle round its eyes; its curious webbed feet, its leaping power arising from the long hind legs, she told me of the wonderful tongue, so long and flexible that it folded back in its mouth, and how the frog would sit at the edge of an ant-hill and, throwing out the tongue with its sticky point, would pick off the ants one by one as they came out." With this the child's fears vanished, and a healthy curiosity took their place.

Mrs. Brightwen gives it as her experience that the most satisfactory and delightfu of all pets are birds one which has reared from the nest. Her own adopted children, fed and educated into feathered maturity, have been many. Their biographies include the history of two successive starlings, a greenfinch "of the most irrepressible and enterprising character," four wild ducks, a jay and a cuekoo. Of these we are inclined to think that the starling "Dick and "Richard the Second," during their fugitive existence, gave most unalloyed pleasure to their foster-mother. Richard the Second, who was drowned at last in an aquarium, a victim to his insatiable love of water, was one of the most charming bird companions we have ever charming bird companions we have ever read about, absolutely fearless, full of freaks read about, absointely fearless, full of freaks and imprudence, "a prodigal son," who caused ceaseless heartaches to his indul-gent adopted mother by his frivolity and imprudence, and who paid all these debts in the coin of most charming caresses. The morning toilet of Richard the Second The morning toilet of Richard the Second was so copious and violent that the whole household were deluged by it, and the housemaids murmured threats against "that bird." At last the happy thought struck his mistress that he might profitably bathe in the conservatory, where there was a pool. She consequently created a moss island in the middle of this pool, put the starling upon it, and turned the fountain on to play lightly on his shoulders:

turned the fountain on to play lightly on his shoulders:

"He was perfectly enchanted, and fluttered, turned about, and frisked like a bird possessed. As he became accustomed to it, I began to throw handfuls of water over him, and that he did enjoy. He would cower down, and lie with his wings expanded and beak open, receiving charge upon charge of water till quite out of breath; then he would run a few paces away on his island till he recovered himself, and then would go back and place himself ready for a renewed douche. I new saw such a plucky bird. If I had been trying to drown him, I could not have done more, for sometimes he was

Let the common council at once appropriate money enough to enable the scientists in the board of health to decide what is the best microbe killer. Then let an appropriation be made large enough to enable the office of the board of health to keep itself constantly supplied with this scientific disease killer, so that the clerk can dispense it to poor people. It should be put up in pint bottles for small families, and in quart bottles for small families, and in quart bottles for large ones. Such a benevolent measure would at once diminish the death rate and vindicate sanitary science. An OLD Santarian.

been trying to drown him, I could not have done more, for sometimes he was knocked backward into the pool; but no matter, he was up again, and all ready in a minute."

The wild ducks were very wayward and intractable pets, extremely disobedient to the respectable old hen under whose charge they were placed. They got into the habit of disappearing every afternoon, as suddenly and completely as if it had sunk into the ground, returning in due time, in discreet Indian file, to lie down in their coop. Mrs. Brightwen's covered them on the surface of a quiet pond at a considerable distance from the house.

has been, for eighteen years past, to keep always just outside her dining room window a basket of fat for the titmice. She finds Tit, Cole Tit and Marsh Tit—come regularly to feast in it. As she says nothing about the Long-Tailed or Bottle Tit, we suppose that the fat does not attract that fascinating little denizen of kitchen gardens, She finds the personal manner of these four species totally distinct. The Cole Tit, with misplaced energy, wearies himself to carry the fat away and hide it in crevices in the bark of trees, fussily journeying to and fro for that purpose. The Marsh Tit and Creater Tit, likt good children, eat what they require and pocket tle Blue Tit, whose life is spent in what Mrs. Brightwen calls a "twittering scrimmage," and who is never happy unless he is hanging upside down, with open beak and outspread wings, defying some other Blue Tit. A PRIMARY INCIDENT.

Police Officer's Severe Tussle on Broadway.

There was considerable excitement raised ning about 8:30 o'clock on Broadclose connection with the Tenth ward primary. The trouble was started by a drunken fight in the Old Homestead on. If any police officer ever deserved praise for his patience and courage in dealing with an ugly and abusive prisoner. Officer Dippold is that man. Fred Leavenworth, a Broadway character, had been drinking heavily all day long and by evening time was ready for a "scrap" of any kind. He succeeded in finding one in the saloon and began the affair by smashing glass, etc. Officer Dippold was on the scene soon after it began and immediately took Leavenworth in charge, who resisted flercely. The officer was compelled, after exhausting every peaceable means to quiet his prisoner, to strike him over the head with his club. Leavenworth was locked no with three charges to his credit. In the melee Dippold lost both hat and shield, but recovered them soon after.

James N. States is overthrown. The result of the great battle of demoratic factions at last night's primaries seems to settle beyond a doubt that this politician has been unmistakably cast aside by his party as far as the senatorial contest is concerned. In his own ward, the Fourth, he was badly beaten. In the Third ward, where another tremendous effort was made to retrieve his fortunes, he was overwhelmingly beaten by his opponent, Lawyer T. J. Fox, who receives the entire delegation of nine from this ward. In the Fifth and Sixth wards he was also beaten. Wolfe and Fox combined their forces in these wards to beat States and the delegations will be divided between them. In the Seventh ward an-other vigorous fight was made. The States other vigorous fight was made. The States men here were more successful and captured six of the ten delegates. The other four are divided equally between Fox and Wolfe. In the Twelfth ward the States men made another good fight and captured five of the six senatorial delegates. In all of the other wards, however, Wolfe and Fox were successful in completely vanquishing their common opponent. The delegates from these wards are nearly nearly equally divided between these two candidates with an unmistakable tendency, every important proposition and arrived at conclusions as follows:

First, That the proposition of the Knights of Labor as set forth by T. V. Powderly, general master workman, and the general executive board of the Knights of Labor meets with our unqualified approval.

Second, That the course pursued by H. Walter Webb toward Mr. Powderly and the Knights of Labor, notwithstanding his declarations to the contrary, evinces a purpose to disrupt and destroy labor organizations on the New York Central and Hudson River, as was done by Austin Corbin on the Philadelphia and Reading.

Third, That the policy of H. Walter Webb is despote to an extent that outrages every principle of American citizenship and if, generally adopted would, if successful, reduce American workingmen to a degraded condition of serfs.

Fourth, That H. Walter Webb, by the employment of Pinkerton thieves and thugs and murderers, vile wretches from the slums and brothels of New York and other cities to kill workingmen because they cared to protest against his rule and strike for their rights, is guilty of a crime of such enormity as will associate the name of H. Walter Webb forever with those who, in little brief authority, have used their money tescure power to degrade their fellow men.

Fifth, That the efforts now being put forth by H. Walter Webb to destroy the Knights of Labor and its successful it is only a question of time when a similar effort will be made to seal the fate of other labor organizations.

Sixth, That H. Walter Webb by the course he has pursued towards the Knights of Labor and the representatives of labor organizations, has shown a total disregard of those principles of citizen sovereignty, desired by every American worthy of the men, and considering only his money power and the corporate power of the company he represents, his acts, which speak louder than works, say, in the language of W. United Order of Railway Employes had at Terre Haute declared against a strike. In reply to the question, "What do you think of this action?" Mr. Webb said that it was the only wise course to take. There was no principle involved in which they could be interested. The entire trouble was local in character and had nothing whatever to to do with organized labor. Whether the Knights of Labor will now take further steps will make but little difference. There were only a few Knights in the employ of the New York Central."

MASS MEETING AT ALBANY. ALBANY, Aug. 25 .- A monster mas meeting of striking employes was held at the Academy of Music to-night, Edward J. Lee presiding. On the stage were all the Lee presiding. On the stage were all the members at the grand body, including Mr. Powderly. Mr. Wright, the first speaker, referred to the lawful and orderly manner in which the strike was carried on and the broad and vital principles for the perpetuation of which it was found necessary to order this strike. He announced the endorsement of the Central strike by the federation at Terre Haute, reading a telegram from Chief Sarger t to that effect. He said this strike had not been inaugurated without due deliberation. He denounced Chief Arthur and his organization unless the Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 25, 1890.

To all Laboring Organizations:

Men and brothers—On the night of August 7 a strike began on the New York Central and Hudson River railway involving about eight men in the employ of said road who were members of a great labor organization known as the Knights of Labor. The reasons set forth by T. V. Powderly, chief executive of the order, may be summarized as follows:

The peremptory discharge of between fifty and sixty men, employes of the road and members of the Knights of Labor, because they were Knights of Labor, without giving them any reason whatever for their discharge. Prior to the strike the men involved sought through the representatives of the order to have their grievest and that the loss on dressed beef alone on the road was $1,000,000 by actual count, while other accounts would foot up to $2,000,000, and so

$1,000,000 by actual count, while other accounts would foot up to $2,000,000, and so it was time for Mr. Webb to call off his strike. He referred to the state board of mediation and arbitration and called upon them to commence an investigation and said the Knights courted such an investigation. Mr. Powderly then ssked if any member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was present. It there was one he spoke to him, and he called upon that order to array themselves on the side of labor, despite their unworthy chief.

At the conclusion of his remarks Mr.
Powderly offered the following resolution, which was adopted by a storm of unaniupon the Knights of Labor and ultimately upon all labor organizations represented on his road, sought a conference with the supreme council of the United Order of Railway Employes. The request of Mr. Powderly was granted to the extent that four members of the council, the chief extent that four members of the council, the chief extent that in the city of Buffalo, N. At the conference with Mr. Powderly at Buffalo the members of the supreme council became satisfied that the officials of the road, by every consideration of fair and benerable treatment of labor organization.

All the expected had been accomplished by the board. The strike was not because the consideration of fair and physical properties.

All the expected had been accomplished by the board. The strike was not failure and the strike was not failu a failure and the strikers would win. THE NEXT MOVE.

«New York, Aug. 25.—It is asserted to night that the next move of the Knights will probably be to boycott the New York Central road, in which case the interstate commerce commission will undoubtedly be requested to investigate the matter and proceed against Mr. Powderly, the general executive board and the master workmen of the district and local assemblies of the Knights of Labor under the national conspiracy law, which makes it a misdemeanor for any organization or body of men to interfere with the course of traffic of a corporation.

Ran Into a Freight Train. HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 25.—The pas-senger train on the Central New England and Western railroad, due here at 5:18 p m., was run into in the rear by a freight after 5 o'clock this afternoon. The freight engine completely telescoped the rear car of the passenger train, but fortunately the car was empty. No one was injured. The cause of the accident was that the freight followed too closely after the passenger train, which passed it at Tariffville. The track was blocked a short time.

Wilmington to be Dropped. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—A meeting he Atlantic Base Ball association was held wilmington club and continue the season until October 1 with four clubs. Mr. Burnham of New Haven said the reason for Wilmington's expulsion from the association was that the club was bankrupt. An application from the York club was laid on the table.

- What the Director of the Mint Says.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—The director of the mint said to-day that there seems to be a general misapprecension as to the operations of the new silver law in case the price of silver should advance to parity. "Some of the papers state," he says, "that in such case the grovernment."

The new law does not provide that purchases shall cease when silver reaches parity, but he seeks to degrade have a colee which, once unified, will bring his corporation to the bar of justice where his millions and the other millions he represents will cease to be potential in deciding questions of this kind.

In view of the foregoing facts the supreme council puts upon record its unanimous and unqualified approval of the strike on the New York Central and Hudson River railway for the cause set forth by T. V. Powderly, general master workmant, as also the efforts made by Mr. Powderly to bring the strike to an honorable termination. In this general expression of approval of the action of the Knights of Labor, the course of Vice President Webb is as unequivocally condemned.

The report goes on to define the power of the Knights to aid in the strike and in a principle sacred to every workingman on the continent and to all who love justice and hope for triumph of right over wrong as flagrant as ever stained the ages of history.

the business of the country was in a state of anxious suspense awaiting the result of the senate's deliberation led him to ask senators on the other side to consider the question of fixing the date of closing the debate and of having a final vote on the passage of the bill.

After further debate the tariff bill was again taken up, the pending question being on paragraph 193, page 45, imposing a duty of 1½ cents per pound on lead ore and lead dress; provided that ailver ore and all other ore containing lead shall pay a duty of 1½ cents per pound on the lead contained therein and according to sample and assay at the port of entry.

After further discussion the bill was laid aside informally and Mr. Bate offered a concurrent resolution which went over till to-morrow, directing the commission or board having charge of the matter of erecting a statue to Lafayette in a site fronting the equestrian statue of Jackson, opposite the white house, to suspend further proceedings relating thereto until further authorized by congress.

The house joint resolution in relation to oaths in pension case was passed authorizing them to be administered by any person empowered to administer oaths. The house resolution for the appointment of a committee of seven representatives and three senators to take order for superintending the funeral of the late Mr. Lewis Watson of Pennsylvania, was laid before the serials.

they are difficult to obtain in any quantity at any price.

Naturally the dealers must attempt to fall back upon the home supply. Already buyers are scouring the country to pick up fat cattle on the hoof to supply the local market. The opinion has been expressed that they will find the home supply more plentiful than was expected.

As yet the retail price has not been advanced. The marketmen hope to hold the present price till the difficulty is over. The Late Mrs. Elias Pierpont. The death of Mrs. Elias Pierpont, which occurred at the residence of her son-in law, Dr. A. B. Fuller, at Savin Rock, on

She was a most charming companion on account of her knowledge of persons and things that have taken place in this city. No one who knew her could fail to be impressed with her charitable and Christian disposition. She was never known to turn a deaf ear to any one in distress, and she possessed the happy faculty of so distributing her charity that no one ever left her presence without realizing that her sympathy consisted not merely of words, but of actions as well. She has been from her youth up an earnest worker in and sup porter of the works of the church and ha spent much of her time and money in that way. She did not confine her, charity exway. nterspersed with good old farms and covering its hills and sides with life and activity. Excellent roads afford the visitor an opportunity to enjoy delightful drives from one village to another, while the hills and vales, woods and streams, com-

Leaving Willimantic our road to the north takes us through the suburbs of that lovely borough, where thrifty people are locating homes and enjoying life.

We soon pass the pumping station of the Natchaug river, where the water supply for Willimantic is obtained—to the left is Anantville, once a bustling hamlet but now quiet and dull.

Off to the right we see the fine stone cotton mill at Mansfield Hollow—and soon we pass through Mansfield Center, or Mansfield street as it is commonly called, with its wide street, its well kept lawns, its tasty residences, its old graveyard and its white Congregational church, lifting its spire up among the trees. Down to the right is Chaffeeville and off to the left is Tower Hill, Mansfield City and Chestnut Hill, where many an industrious farmer enjoys his pleasant and comfortable home.

We now commence climbing the steep grade of Spring hill, well named by reason of the many springs bursting from its sides. At the summit the pretty Baptist church is surrounded by the attractive homes of farmers as well as city people. A road to the right would bring us to Hank's hill and Gurleyville with their silk and pretty mill ponds, but continuing on the main road we reach Storrs agricultural school, an institution founded by the Hon. Augustus Storrs and supported by the state government. New buildings are now being completed and the school is coming into popular favor as year by year its influence is realized. Around the school are the superb and well kept grounds adjoining the summer home of Hon. Augustus Storrs, the treasurer of Plymouth church, Brooklyn.

To the north is Mansfield depot, Mans-storrs, the treasurer of Plymouth church, Brooklyn.

To the north is Mansfield depot, Mansfield Four Corners and Merrow station, and to the west is Eagleville with its cotton mills and operative houses; to the north are the beautiful buildings of Spring manor, the summer residence of William Reynolds of Milwaukee, Wis. But perhaps the prettiest spot in Mansfield is Maple View, the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gardiner, on a hill about a mile west of Spring Hill. Here a most delightful view of the country for fifteen miles around can be obtained. To the west is Columbia church and Nathan Hale's monument at South Coventry; to the south is Tower Hill and South Windom; to the east. Chaplain, and to the northwest Bald Hill and North Coventry. In the home and surroundings the "inlook" is as sine as the outlook, the pretty veranda, the grove of fine trees in the side yard, the well-filled barns, the pretty lawn, the farm, the pastures, the garden—all show thrift and enterprise—next to his colts. Mr. Gardner's pride is his well-kept farm, and with his son Rob, who is his right hand man, he manages to keep as fine a country seat as you often see.

Mrs. Gardner, together with her daughter Miss Edith, make the house a home in the true sense of the word, while Minnie Warren and "Teddie" add to the happiness, and the visitor for a few weeks found, himself enjoying solid comfort. Among those who have enjoyed the hospitality of Maple View and the beauty of the surrounding country the past summer are: Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bellows and Master

Ev. Michael J. Lynch, assistant pastor of St. Francis' church, made a few farming on the outer shore of Costen, nearly opposite Posomo Head. The body was identified by Alfred J. Weston, a cousin of the deceased, by means of a finger ring which he were at the time of the accident.

There were a cridance of the secondary of Adelphia loge No. 68 of Fair Haven.

Ev. Michael J. Lynch, assistant pastor of St. Francis' church, made a few farming the high mass in the Last Hour for Stock—C. C. C. and St. Louis Considerate Hour for Stock—C. C. C. and St which he were at the time of the accident. There was evidence of a powerful blow on the side of the head which is proof that Mr. Knevals was knocked over by the bow of the boat in which he was salling at the time, and completely dispels all theories of suicide. Mr. Knevals was a graduate of Yale, class of 1840, and was formerly a resident of this city, but had lately been practicing law in New York city. His funeral will take place to-morrow from the residence of his parents, 975 Lexing ton avenue, New York city. Many residents of this city who knew the deceased intimately will attend.

He has been for six years and four months with the people of St. Francis. Father Lynch goes to Broad Brook, Conn. He is one of the most elequent preachers in the discosse.

The annual meeting of the American Cance association, which was held at Jessup Neck, Long Island, last week, was a great success. The wind and the water were good and the races interesting. Fred Jones, the Canadian canceist, again won the trophy, and Paul Buller, son of General Ben Butler, the Pecowosic cup.

Fred Vakes and Harry Randall, Meriden boys, were sailing in a yacht on Community lake during a heavy breeze in Wallingford Sunday afternoon, when the cance capsized, both boys being thrown into the water. Vakes clung to the bottom of the craft and Randall started to swim to the shore, a distance of thirty rods, but his strength gave out and he sank. The Lakeside lifesaving crew was prompt in action and the foremost boat reached the drowning boy as he sank for the last time. He was seized by the coat collar when his head was a foot under water and drawn into the boat unconscious. He soon revived, however.

The Body of James Callahan, the Branford Molder Who Disappeared With John J. Hopkins on Friday Night, Also Found in Mill River.

What promised to be a mystery connected with the finding of the body of John J. Hopkins in Mill river on Sunday that rule occured yesterday. A wheelman on Crown street, while riding his wheel to dinner, accomplished what he probably will never again be able to do, namely, run will never again be able to do, namely, run over a dog fair and square with both wheels, and not take a header in the bargain. The animal was a little black and tan that belongs to the restaurant, 113 Crown street. The dog evidently was surprised at the liberty taken with her person, which was expressed by a series of the most piteous howls, as it slowly collected together again and hobbled home. The animal's owner was on the scene, attracted by its cries, ready to do battle in its defense, but the wheelman had by this time put a discreet distance between bimself and the angered owner.

"Good for the people—vive la commune!" cried Rothschild, gleefully.

"The time has come," continued the chairman of the committee, "when each must share equally with his fellow citizen. We have been delegated to call upon you and inform you that you must share your enormous wealth with your countrymen."

"If it is so decreed," said Rotschild, urbanely, "I shall cheerfully comply. At how much is my fortune estimated!"

"We figure it at 50,000,000 francs," was the answer.

"Well, then," said Rothschild. "It would appear that I owe each of my countrymen about four francs. Now, here, gentlemen," he continued, putting his hand in his pocket and producing a lot of silver, "here are twenty-eight fracs for you. I have paid each of you, have I not! Please give me your receipt therefor; and so, good day to you!"

The report at present in Leadyille is that Rocky Mountain Kate contemplates perpetuating her name by using her fortune to build a church. Thus far she has used none of her hard-earned money for charitable enterprises, but doubtless with the endowment of her church she will allow her conscience to remain at peace with all the world.
