The recent ice flood was a severe test for its powers of resist-ance and probably weakened it somewhat. The work of repairing it will be an expen-sive and tedious undertaking. The dam is nearly twenty-five feet in height and was supposed to be impregnable. The loss will fall upon the Ousatonic Water company, which is composed of the leading men of the place, including Edward N. Shelton, David Plumb, C. H. Nettleton, A.B.Ruggles and others. New York and New England railroad New York and New England Tantoat gave way and tore away about ninety feet of the track. The water rose with alarming quickness and reached a height about 9 o'clock that had not been reached before in many years. The Steeple Climber. Charles Tyler, better known, perhaps, had not been reached before in many years. Fears were entertained regarding the safe-ty of the covered bridge between Birming-ham and Shelton, but that old landmark, which has caused so much worry in times gone by, has not been apparently injured. The New Haven and Derby railroad er-perienced more trouble. The company had been making active efforts to repair the damage done their long bridge across the Housatonic river by the last ice flood. A piledriver was brought up the river and "Steeple Charlie," successfully climbed he tall spire of St. Patrick's early yestermorning and commenced operations toward strengthing it. A crowd of fifteen persons watched the feat, which occurred about 1 o'clock.

Mayor Sargent presided at the special neeting of the police commissioners last aight and every member of the commission was present. When the meeting was called to order, Commissioner Clancey asked for a recess of five minutes. This was granted, and the three democratic ommissioners, Clancey, Dillon and An lrews, retired to consult over their action during the meeting upon the appointment of supernumaries. When the three commissioners returned applications for appointment to the supernumsry force were received from John Keenan and Felix H. Bradley, and the these candidates were examined.

To get to Derby they either had to cross the causeway which was submerged or walk over the trestle bridge which by this time had reached nearly the same condition. They were well known New Haven people. They had gotten part way when one of them turned back afraid of the rising floods, but two continued crossing and reached the Derby side just as the water began to dash over the ties. $2,500 would be offered as a loan to the highest bidder at the next meeting of the ssociation, February 5. The annual address of President Grotta consisted of an able, clear and concise report of the workings of the association since its inception, and was intently listened to by the nearly one hundred members present. President Grotta's address in brief was as follows; The initiative towards the foundation of our association was begun during the lat-ter part of the year 1889. On the 27th of becomer that year some twelve or fifteen gentlemen assembled in a hall in Wood's building and formed themselves into a agitating a local building and loan association. The prevailing sentiment in our associa-tion is—and I believe it is the better one— that a desire for large profits should not characterize our proceedings so much as the endeavor to make the cost to the borrower as small as possible, to enable him to repay his loan with the least possible burden and to encourage and foster the building and ownership of homes. A new series will be opened February 1, when new members will be able to join without ranging man back down and many

OBITUARY. eath of Orrin J. Bartram in Bethel

Yesterday. A telegram was received last evening by Ir. S. C. Bartram, the Center street jeweler, announcing the death of his father, Mr. Orrin J. Bartram, at his home in Bethel. Although eighty-four years of age, Mr.

Bartram had enjoyed his usual health until recently, and his death, though not unlooked for on account of his extreme old age, came suddenly. The deceased was a well known man in the western part was a well known man in the western part of Connecticut, and was a man of many fine traits of character, and his kindly face will be missed in the town he called his home. The news of his death is a double affliction to his son, whose wife lies in a precarious condition at her home on Orchard street, and is not expected to re-cover. The many friends of Mr. Bartram will sympathize with him in his trouble.

ohn L. Jude of Fair Haven Shoot With Murderous Inat His Wife

Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock John . Jude, whois employed as a clerk at Booth's meat market, 7 Grand avenue, atempted to kill his wife by shooting at her with a revolver. A divorce suit, instiuted by Jude, is now pending against the oman. The ground on which the petition is based is infidelity. Several months ago the couple broke up housekeeping and eparated. Yesterday morning Jude was delivering some parcels at the residence of Mrs. Henry Seeley, 70 Perkins street, where his wife has been stopping for some time past. He met his wife at the door, and, after exchanging a few words with her, suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and fired Fortunately the shot did not hit the wo mam, but lodged in a door behind her. Jude then jumped into his team, drove to the police station and surrendered him-self. He was released shortly after his ar-rest on bonds of $500 furnished by his em-

Jude has long been known as a quiet, industrious young man, of calm manner and naturally polite and good natured. He is a special constable of the town and on one or two occasions he has proved himself an efficient officer. No one would have ever efficient officer. No one would have ever expected him to attempt the rash act of this morning. He is a large and powerful man and is quite good looking. He was married three years ago to his present wife, who was a North Haven girl. About a year ago reports of Mrs. Jude's faithful-ness to her husband were circulated, and ebottin afterward she told her burghend shortly afterward she told her husband that she desired to be separated from him. About eight months ago she attempted suicide by taking chloroform. Mr. Jude was greatly affected by his wife's unfaith-fulness, but he did all in his power to restore harmony between them. It is be-lieved by his friends that the trouble preyed so heavily on Jude's mind that he was irresponsible for his action yesterday. Jude is about thirty years old and his wife some years his junior. A hearing on the petition for divorce was to have com up in the superior court this morning. Entertainments

THE REPORT COMMENDED. New Haven Military Men Pleased Mith the Recommendations of the Adjutant General. The recommendations in the recent re-port of the adjutant general, previously referred to, meets with much favor among our military men. Among these recom-mendations are the following, taken in full from the report: NEED OF A STATE RIFLE RANGE. A state rifle range, with proper facilities and appointments, not necessarily expen-sive but complete in detail, should be es-tablished for the Connecticut National Guard. With such facilities at its com-mand, the militia of Connecticut National Guard of the United States.

ational Guard of the United States. SENATOR PLATT.

It is only simple justice to the indivi-dual energy, intelligence and ability con-tributed by the membership of the Nation-al Guard to the state gratuitously, that this long needed facility be at last granted them. Senator Platt's re-election, and with noh unanimity, gives much satisfaction, and even democrats admire Senator Platt's fitness for the post he occupies. The twelve years of service and twelve years, too, of hard work, close study and a con-stant devotion to the interests of the state stant devotion to the interests of the state and country have given him a national reputation, wide acquaintance and a facil-ity in his position that no one else could have. The state honors herself in honor-ing him. The republican newspapers are generally enthusiastic in praise of Mr. Platt and his record. The Norwich Bulle-tin says of Platt's election: "The re-elec-tion of Senator Platt Wednesday was a simple act of justice, not particularly to Senator Platt, but very particularly tand especially to the state and to the people of Connectiout." THE BRIGADE AS A WHOLE. Judged from a National guard standpoint, the brigade, as a whole, is a credit to the state, and deserving of a more libto the state, and deserving of a more lib-eral appropriation for its support than has heretofore been made. As has been truly said by a government official (Hon. B. F. Tracy, secretary of the navy), "the de-velopment of the militia is in the interest of true economy." The assignment of the entire revenue from the military commu-tation tax to the support and development of the Connecticut National guard would be a wise and proper expenditure of pub-lic money.

PRESSING NEEDS OF THE BRIGADE. character, standing and experience of our senators in congress. It is possible that there may be other men as able in the state; it is certain that there are none so able and at the same time so experienced. The Hon. Orville H. Platt, our senior senator, has often been called "The Abra-ham Lincoln of New England" because of his straightforward common sense and his inflexible honesty of purpose and action. He is looked up to as few other senators are for these qualities, and the state would Among the most important and pressin seeds of the brigade, I would mention: 1. New rifles. ry companies with the new pattern springhed riffe.
2. New machine guns.
3. A brigade riffe range at the state camp ground at Niantic, where distances beyond 500 yards can be had, and where skirmish firing can be practiced.
4. Location of Battery A, light artillery, in two of the larger cities of the state, where I believe much more enthusiasm would be manifested in this branch of the service, where it could be better and more easily horsed and very much more promptly utilized in an emergency.
5. Two companies of heavy artillery to be attached respectively to the Third and Fourth regiments, to serve as an instructed nucleus in case of need. are for these qualities, and the state would be the loser if it should exchange his serices for those of any other man at this into the rear end of a freight train which had stopped at a siding, about half a mile outside of the junction to pick up a number of cars. The accident was caused by the fog which overhung the tracks and surrounding country. The engineer and fire-man escaped by jumping and the fireman sustained a sprained ankle. An engine, caboose and six freight cars were com-pletely demolished.

The democrats there could have made a disagreeable scene and they did not." Concerning General Merwin, it adds: "General Merwin's course throughout was that of the born gentleman, dignified, manly and at the same time evidently distressed by the em-barrassments of the situation. He conduc-ted himself so that he made friends in the sider claims against the estate. Mr. Gillette conducted a coal business at Winchester avenue and Webster street. In many ways they could have perpetnated their last week's folly—and they did not. It is foolish to talk of them as having 'backed down.' On the con-trary, they have begun to stand up to their duty as senators and to the state. Let us hope this is significant." The Bridgeport Standard 'also compli-ments General Merwin, saying: "He de-serves the thanks of all law-sbiding citi-zens for the firmness and courage with which he discharged the duties of his office yesterday and vindicated his rights under the constitution and the law." One peculiarity of the weather is difficult to understand, and that is why the oc-casional frosts do so little damage to flow-ers and vegetables. A frost which in the east would destroy every delicate plant left east would destroy every delicate plant left uncovered seems to make no impression on the flower gardens here, where flowers of all kinds will continue to bloom and flour-ish even when little pools of water in their immediate vicinity are found to have thin pieces of ice around the edges. This may seem like an exaggerated statement, but careful observation will convince anyon careful observation will convince anyone that it is really so, and it may perhaps be classed with the same phenomena often observed in some parts of India where, ow-ing to rapid evaporation, shallow vessels of water will sometimes skim over with thin ice, even in places where the ther-mometer never falls to the freezing point. But if there be those here who wish for ice and snow they can be easily satisfied; it is not necessary to go to the east for it. A few miles up the mountain trail will give any one all the winter they want, and it is not necessary to go to the east for it.
