Mrs. W(IDE) A(WAKE) HOUSEKEEPER—
Dear Madam:
We wish to impress upon your mind
the fact that we are doing a COMPLETE HOUSE Furnishing business. So many people every day kindly favor us with their orders for Furniture who exclaim with much surprise, "what! do you keep CARPETS? If I had known that I could have saved myself much trouble and expense." And still others are much surprised when they visit our litchen department to learn that we have a full line of STOVES and RANGES, as well as CROCKERY and TINWARE.
Customer after customer gives utterance to the plaintive lament: "If I had only known that you kept these things I could have done so much better here."
For the last time permit us to call your atten-

better here."

For the last time permit us to call your attention to the fact that this mouth we are making SPECIAL PRICES way below value. Very many of our customers are selecting Carpets and Furniture for future use because of the lower prices now obtainable. Our advice to you is: Do not delay, but come at once and make your selections. If we can't convince you of the wisdom of this course we will pay you for your time and trouble.

Yours very truly, BROWN & DURHAM.

WOMAN'S GLORY.

MOST every woman can have a nice, clean called beautiful. Many ladies are called careless because their skin looks muddy or blotched. What is the cause? Nature. Why? Because Nature is her own doctor. The system cannot thrive when filled with all sorts of poisonous substances. Then Nature asserts herself and throws it off. Why do the eruptions and discontations appear on the face and not on the body? Because the face has no assistant, and instead of throwing off is added to. Ladies, by constant use of powders and different cosmeties, have silled the porce of the face until ventilation—such as is caused by perspiration in the body—is entirely closed. The poisonous matter, unable to exude, lies congested underneath the surface. This causes eruptions, commonly called eczema, sait rheum, psoriasis, etc. Is there no way to open these channels for throwing this out? Yes, by opening the pores. This is quickly done by cutting with a mild astringent the cuticle or callous capping of the skin. Is it injurious? No, it cannot be, for it does not penetrate into the true skin. Is it injurious to rub off the calloused skin—entirely dead—from the sole of the foot? There is no life to this cuticle. Does it injure a tree to trim the dead branches? So, then, don't fear to use Mmc. A Rupper't's Face Bleach. It is a tonic—no cosmetic. It has been tried, convincing in its every effort, does not show in the face nor destroy healthy color.

World-renowned Face Bleach sent to any address for price, $2 per bottle; three bottles (usually a cure), $5. Send &c, or call for further instructions how to be beautiful.

Minnesota and the Dakotas weather known to that vicinity for twenty 60 to 82 degrees in the shade. A basket picnic has been held at Minto, N. D., and there is not a particle of snow at any point for five hundred miles westward from St. Paul. In Europe, and especially in the wester part, the winter has been a terrible one. In England much delay has been caused to shipping by ice-bound harbors, and many people, especially in the country districts, have been sadly afflicted by the cold. Several instances of extreme suffering and case of a woman whe, died from the effect of the cold in a railroad car in the city of London. In France the cold wave has been so severe that in Paris fires by the hundred have been lighted by the authorities in the streets, and government per mission has been given to the poor to appropriate for fuel the dead wood the forests. The French harbors and rivers are frozen solidly, and throughout of affairs is reported. Even in Spain Portugal and Italy the distress is unprece dented, so far as any record discloses many houses, and the rivers Tagus and Ebro are frozen over, the latter with ice nineteen inches thick. And as strange as any other information is the dispatch from Athens reporting heavy snowstorms throughout Greece. But it is not only in Europe that the sudden cold wave has asserted itself, for Algiers has felt its shock and in the mountain regions heavy ows have fallen upon the astonishe nhabitants and brought great suffering both to them and the French Africa

Many interesting and learned theories have been set forth to account for these phenomena. It is, however, of course im ossible to tell what is going on. At this rate it is possible that even the gloriou climate of California may change before

The parochial school question is a press ing one in Massachusetts. In the public schools of the State there were 371,492 pupils in the past year, which is a gain of 3.326 over the year before. But there are 511 private schools and academies, against 485 the year before. In them are 58,179 pupils, which is a gain of 4,516 over the year before. Comparing the gain with centage of increase is much the greater in the private schools. With less than one-sixth the pupils, they have increase these private schools are, in the main, perochial schools, and in that fact lies the significance of the figures. The state board of education has been moved to make some rather mused remarks concerning this matter. It says: This fact is one for which the board feels called upon again to express its disapproval. There can be no question of the superiority of the education of the public schools over that of private institutions in general. They belong to the genius of our and in them the chiliren of the commonwealth may receive the best possible preparation for

State to guard and strengthen the public schools in every possible manner.

The same condition of affairs that exists n Massachusetts exists in several other states. It is evident that the Roman Catholic authorities mean to have as many of their own schools as they can. Perhaps nothing can be done to prevent this, but they need not be classed as public

Nothing, positively nothing that should have kept them together over ten or twelve days. But what else could be expected of a pack of horse traders, checker players, etc.? Some of the most horrid oaths we have ever heard escape the lips of man, have been uttered by some of these very law-givers, for the very respected and moral State of Connecticut." A Lendon paper relates a queer inci-dent that happened in a Welsh church the other Sunday. The rector began to rebuke his people in severe terms for not attending Sunday morning service, and impartially included his own daughters in the rebuke. "Whereupon, to his astonshment," says the story, "up jumped one of his daughters and told the people that her father was a man who, when he first woke, could not rise unless his hot water was brought and the towel was placed under his nose. She related how boots had to be cleaned, fires lighted, and the preakfast prepared, and then went on to lescribe how the worthy clergyman reloves and his hat and his stick and—his cake and his wine, before he was ready to start to his work. This was all detailed with minuteness and volubility. The was the household work to be done, and, esides, he insisted upon a hot dinner served with puctuality. Under these roumstances, the lady pleaded, was it possible for her to get to worship on a Sunday morning. The sympathies of the udience were with the daughter."

Most of us know something of his history. We have read of his humble home where his happy childhood was secure in the guardianship of religious parental love, of his promising youth, bright though the days were toilsome and of the early-bestowed, wonderful gift of song. We remember his struggling manhood, his perils and triumphs, and the shadows that strike darkly across the white light of his genius, his across the white light of his genius, h early death in poverty and anxiety, and we have faucied we could see the still figsons, as a rule cannot be the equals of those that are maintained at the public expense. They are not amenable to public supervision; many of them are not open to public inspection, and hence cannot be the subjects of public criticism. They are also somewhat removed from the rivalries and competitions by which institutions and men alike reach the noblest and most enduring results. Of course nothing can be done in a formal way to arrest this be done in a formal way to arrest this but to mark the day and to offer for com

Afterward, a poet, riding along the seashore at Newport and gazing at the old "Round Tower," concerning the origin and purpose of which there has been so much conjecture and dispute, remembered the skeleton in armor and linked the two in his thought until the well known ballad was shaped into form and phrase.

The skeleton became the Viking, that "fearful guest," who, with his "hollow breast still in rude armor drest," tells to the poet the story of his wild youthful exthe poet the story of his wild youthful ex-ploits: of his bearing away his bride from her father's hall; of the pursuit, the bat-tle, and the storm, and of reaching the cloud-like shore at last, where

"Nicholas Nickleby" - Private Schools in the Early Part of the Lonely Stanemoor Mountain. York, England, Jan. 8. Probably the greatest immediate and lasting good ever done any nation by a single work of fiction was effected by the 'Nicholas Nickleby" of Charles Dickens. During the early part of the present entury the private schools, and particularly the boys' schools of England, with a few notable exceptions like that of Rugby, were the most infamous in the world. If there can be superiority in infamy, Yorkshire stood first and best. Dickens himself said of its private school-masters "Traders in the avarice, indifference or imbecility of parents, and the helplessnes of children; ignorant, sordid, brutal men, have entrusted the board and lodging of a horse or a dog; they formed the worthy corner-stone of a structure which, for absurdity and a magnificent high-minded laissez-aller neglect, has rarely been ex-ceeded in the world." came to espouse the cause of the hosts of helpless and outraged children in England is a pleasing reminiscence of his magnificent literary career. The English-speaking world was still in raptures over his first success under the nom-de-plume of "Boz." His publishers, Chapman & Hall of London, had immediately engaged another work from his pen to appear in parts. Its plan and scope were still subects for discussion, and, under the burdens and impositions of the young author's new relation to men and things, a grievous and desperate anxiety to Dickens for the night, I felt my way along what seemed to be the street-facade of some himself. In this condition of unrest and perturbation there floated into his mind a misty rehabilitation of his own vague little, well out of the full power of the childish fancies regarding Yorkshire schools. He tells of these in his own inimitable way in the last preface written by him for "Nicholas Nickleby." He says: "I cannot call to mind now how I came to hear about Yorkshire schools when I was a not very robust child sitting in by-places near Rochester castle, with a head full of Partridge, Strap, Tom Pipe and Sancho Panza; but I know that my first impressions of them were picked up at that time, and that they were somehow or other connected with a suppurated abscess that some boy had come home with, in consequence of his Yorkshire guide, philosopher and friend having ripped it open with an inky penknife!"

Here was opportunity for a great and merciful motive in fiction. With a beon companion, Hablot Browne, Dickens left London a few weeks before Christmas of 1837. The two made a thorough pilgrima not very robust child sitting in by-places

The county commissioners of Massachusetts has decided that the dog is not to be considered a domestic animal. The question of the exact status of dogs has arisen under the statute relating to the damage done by them, and the vital point lies in the first clause, which reads as follows:

"Whoever suffers loss by the worrying, maiming or killing of his sheep, lambs, fowls or other domestic animals by dogs," etc. Under cover of the phrase "other domestic animals," claims have actually been brought in Massachusetts for damages done to one dog by another.

The "school" seeming most suitable as a prototype of them all, from the personel of its savage owner and his family, with wild and desolate physical surroundings in keeping with the hopelessness of the school-life of the place itself, was the Dotheboys Hall, still standing in Bowes, where "Nicholas Nickleby," his protege in misery, the wretched "Smike," and scores of other helpless young lifes, are depicted as undergoing an aimost inconceivable life of servitude, starvation and cruelty. Investigations showed that gent people in England where Bowes was, and never found an individual who knew until I came to Kirkby Stephen, in the moorland wilds of northeastern West-moreland, sixteen miles away. Even in that town nobody seemed to know, until I found a rustic antiquarian who had at one time discovered an old Roman coin at Rowse and who after a hard stream. Bowes, and who, after a hard struggle, remembered where it lay, over beyond wild old Stanemoor mountain, "Dead in its will still see, just as Dickens and his Nich shell!" as he put it, in ending an adjura-tion not to cross Stanemoor that day, un-til willing to risk being blown from the road into the rock-beds of its passes, or worse, meeting the howling, ferocious war-lock hags which, during every wild moun-tain storm, waylsy belated travelers at the lonely site of Rere Cross. But the pil-grimage was to rescue from oblivion the actual sight of a national infancy and fix ctual sight of a national infamy, and fix Shaw. They possessed the same igno n the real geography of literature the location and environs of a spot, dim, fleet-ing and phantom-like in the minds of milions in the old world and the new. No two stout American legs could skrink from this, even though the wind fairly shricked this, even though the wind rairly shricked in its mad way from Solway Firth to the German Ocean, pounding the sides of Westmoreland moors and fells with mighty balls of fog which slid and ricocheted over Langdale Fell and Brownber Edge to to Dotheboys Hall you will have to con over Languale Fell and Brownber Edge to rebound against the sides of the loftier Stanemoor heights, and finally be hurled over the meuntain upon dreary, dead Bowes, as if to crush every remaining sliv-er of its meager old shell.

If you came from London to Bowes ever down at the George and New Inn," you would have come by the old coach road from London to Edinburgh and Glasgow. On leaving the ancient city of York you would have struck into a highway two thousand years old. Masses of Roman legions have swept, tide on tide, back and forth over the same stone road. Stern Agricola, the courtly Tacitus and Emperor Servius himself have ridden towards the unconquerable north upon it. The latter left fifty thousand of his army dead among the Scotch mists and mountains, and with his face set towards Rome and home, only reached York to die of his wounds and "When Alexander was as old as you he" When Alexander was as old as you he York to die of his wounds and It is the great Roman road of ingland. Watling, or Waithling, street is called. Away in the north of Yorkhire, a few miles above Catteriek bridge, and Cumberland through Carlisle to the great Roman wall, which once protected Britain from the Caledonian hordes, and thence, in a more modern coach road, winds through the olden lovers' haven, Gretna Green, to Glasgow. On this western stem, between the rivers Tees and Greta, at the eastern edge of Stanemoor, mearly surrounded by desolate moors, and in the northwest corner of Yorkshire, lies Coming on foot to Bowes from Kirkby Stephen, the wild, grand sweep of coun-try usually visible from the top of Stane-moor was denied. But it was a treat to stand by Rere Cross, unmolested by witch or warlock, and recall the meaning of the gray old relic that has stood there so sturdily for more than eight hundred years. William the Conquerer and Malcolm, King of Scotland, met here with their armies to decide, by battle, the boundaries of their respective kingdoms. Instead of fighting they wisely feasted. Wiser still, they de-cided that the very spot should mark the cided that the very spot should mark the boundary. Thereupon they caused a cross to be set up. On one side was graven the image of William; on the other that of Malcolm. They named it the Roi Cross, the "Cross of the Kings." Time has corrupted the name to Rere Cross. It has eaten away its images, lopped off the arms and gnawed out its head. But it is Roi, or Rere, Cross still, and marks the boundary of the shires of York and Westmore. or Rere, Cross still, and marks the boundary of the shires of York and Westmore I and to-day. It was the one thing to be clung to as the storm swept me over the mountain. The night seemed to fall on Stanemoor as though driven upon the earth out of the storm itself. Descending the eastern declivity, the roar of invisible torrents, the creation of an hour, was terrible. Thanks to the Romans who had rible. Thanks to the Romans who had built that road, it was broad, sure and as eternal as Stanemoor itself. Whipped, pounded and beaten along for what seemed hours, my feet suddenly struck cobble-stones. Bowes at last! No human being ever loved so much to be in Bowes before. ever loved so much to be in Bowes before.

But where was the place, after all? Not a candle or lamp light gleamed from window within it. Here and there along the zigzag street a faint glimmer flushed against some tiny panes. Peering within, old and palsied crones, bent and trembling, were here and there seen crouching over flickering embers of meager fires. Drenched from rotten thatches, startled by the stormlashed trees, and now thoroughly frightened with the prospect of no resting-place

Scarcely had sufficient time elapsed to permit my getting my back against the building before there was a startling, splattering rush. The calves of my legs escaped the fury of the object making it, but with a return rush the ample tails of but with a return rush the ample tails of my storm-coat were gathered in a sort of voiceless vise which only death or a mas-ter's command can loosen. Few were the snuffles and snortings caused by the work-ing of the four-legged mechanism. Its forces were exclusively devoted to effort. forces were exclusively devoted to effort. That effort was certainly one of bringing a prize into port. Yielding without protest to the spirit of the occasion, I moved with its movements, tacked with its tackings. In a zig-zag attitude of gentle though unexpressive inquiry I was brought, now sidewise, now backwise, along a vast open court into a stone archway, up stone stairs, down stone stair-cases, through other stone archways, all of utter darkness, into a little room not ten feet square, and benind a blace out managary sat nearly as high as his head, a grinning, frowsy, puffy-faced publican was looking benignly down upon a half-dozen gigantic Yorkshire ploughboys. COUNTING THE DAMAGE

one by Yesterday's Great Flood in the Housatonic—A Total Loss of Nearly a Half Million Estimated— Will Begin Repairs Right Away-No Electric Light on Cars.

BIRMINGHAM, Jan. 23 .- Great is the nin made by yesterday's sudden freshet. Though the extent is not so great in territory, the loss is probably the most severe n round dollars that has ever at any one ime fallen upon this community. The water has fallen greatly but is still some feet above the average high water point. A glance at the dam by daylight shows what has been the havor created there. Fully 150 feet has been washed away from the east side including the gate house. It is a wonder that the remainder of the dam withstood all the torrent which was pouring its force continually for so many hours with impetuous intensity. There was a lake formed by the dam which extends back for about seven miles and it was this sudden outbreak of pent up forces which caused the remarkably sudden rise in the water. This accident to the dam will throw thousands of operatives out of employment (some only for a short time however) as every factory in Shelton was dependent upon it for its power. These are the large Wilkinson paper mills, the Star Pin company, Wilcox & Hawe's Carriage Hardware company, Electric Light plant, Cutlery company, the R. & H. Adams factory, the D. M. Bassett com-pany's factory, the Derby silver plate factory, the Birmingham corset factory, the Cornell & Shelton company's factory, the Shelton tack works, the Osborn Cheesman factory, the Whitlock Machine company's factory, the Redcliffe Brothers' factory.

Some of these factories, including the Adams mill, Redcliffe's and a few others, have an auxialiary steam power and may be able to do something with this in a few days, but nothing like their ordinary

Little further serious damage was done until the Derby railroad was reached. Con-siderable of the trestle work which sur-vived the recent freshet was swept away, but the iron bridge over the river's bed re-mained standing, though the abutments were undermined. Much anxiety was entertained for the time being over the Hunttertained for the time being over the funt-ington bridge, but that went through the ordeal with damage sustained only to the abutment on the Birmingham side, which has been weakened somewhat. The water company will start right away to repair the dam. It is feared that the 150 feet has been washed away from the very foundation. The cost will be at least $100,000. The remainder stands firm, but no water flows over the top nor into the canal. A cofferdam will be erected in about a month or six weeks, and then water can be turned into the artificial channel for the benefit of the Shelton factories. It will be some months later efore the solid masonry of the dam is re-

The towns are without electric lights and will remain so for two or three weeks. The company is making preparations to put in steam power. They have already the necessary boilers all set and the foun-dations laid for the engine. The Electric Railroad company hopes to be able to start running again in a few days. That will be if the dynamos dry out all right, but if they do not it will take as many weeks to replace them and at an expense of about $5,000.

Estimates from many quarters place the grand total loss at points varying from three to five hundred thousand dollars. at Southbury was carried away by the This covers everything down to the flood feet above high tide.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. The disaster to the dam will make business good for some firms in the business of manufacturing engines and boil-ers. To-day there was a steady stream of manufacturers making the trip to New Haven to look up the question of steam power for their factories during the time when the dam will be repaired. A large number of these visited the manufactury of ex-Governor Bigelow and the first one be fitted out was the firm of Cornell & power engine and boiler which arrived here this evening. They expect to be running by Monday morning at the very latest. Hardly had they completed their bargain when four others from Shelton came in to examine the stock on hand. A number of purchases were made and one of the men at the Bigelow shop stated that if they had had on hand the right sizes, they could have sold between twenty and thirty thousand dollars worth of boilers and engines.

The Old State House.

The othe Editor of the Journal and Courses:

The state house question is once more before the public, but this time in a very pleasing shape. I refer to the representation of the old structure to be seen in Wm. Neely & Co.'s show window. It is a capital imitation; steps, pillars and all, the outer surface covered with white goods fabrics, and the whole recalls how ahapely and well the old pile looked by moonlight. Its finest effect is when seen and considered. His health is poor and he does an artistic sense and considered. His health is poor and he does not wish to subject himself to undue excitation.

> The town will soon erect a new hospital for contagious diseases on Springside farm. The contractor is J. A. Fogarty and the building will be completed by March 1. The cost of the building will be about $25,000. The structure is to be of wood, one story and 36 by 70 feet. It will be divided into two main rooms, so that patients of differnt diseases may be treated at once. It is not intended exclusively for paupers, but any person suffering with a contagious disease whom the board of health may recommend may be sent there for treatment. Well-to-do persons, who should desire to isolate themselves, could be sent to this hospital and cared for their by their own nurses. The building is to be located about 500 feet from the home and the patients will be supplied with food from the main building. THE STATE Y. M. C. A. REPORT Very Favorable Showing for the Past Year. The annual report of the various Y. M. C. associations throughout the state has just been issued. Nearly all report an increase of membership and a swelling of their funds. Those that have not buildings of their own have real estate upon which to

The Bridgeport association is the most real estate valued at $30,000 and a buildcalendars, but not the rest of the machin-ery, and the Derby Silver company has steam in its buildings for heating pur-not been doing much in the building line not been doing much in the building line of late although it has a fund of about $1,000. This has been a standing amount for nearly two years.

Some people have very unfairly compared the New Haven association with the one in Torrington.

The Torrington association is about to erect a building which will be worth about $12,000 when complete. But this should not reflect unfavorably on New Haven, because everybody knows that real estate values in New Haven are quadruple those of Torrington, and to procure a building for that amount in the center of this city or only the land alone is next to impossible. Besides Torrington has been presented with the lot upon which they are now building whoses. New Heye had to now building, whereas New Haven had to raise their fund by subscription from its

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. HINMAN The Well Known Temple Street Liveryman Passes Away After Only a Few Hours of Serious Illness

The many friends and patrons of James F. Hinman, who has kept the livery stable at 170 Temple street for the past eight or nine years, will be shocked to learn of his sudden death last evening a few minutes before 7 o'clock. Mr. Hinman had been ailing for some time, but was able to keep around so as to attend to his business. In fact, he only left his stables at 1 o'clock yesterday afternon, scarcely six hours be fore he died. For the past few days he about 4 o'clock, the second at 5:30 and the last an hour later.

His case offered a peculiarity to the medical science from the fact that his respiratory organs were paralyzed and his breath-ing ceased before his heart stopped beating. Drs. Frank H. Wheeler and Bradley were Drs. Frank H. Wheeler and Bradley were called. Mr. Hinman, with his wife and daughter, came to this city from South Britains about twenty years ago. He first engaged in the grocery business on the corner of Columbus avenue and Christopher street and continued in it for several years. After that he was connected with several grocery firms of this city. Among which was that of Somthis city. Among which was that of Somers & Stowe on Church street. Between eight or nine years ago Mr. Hinman start-ed the livery stable on Temple street, which he has ever since been running. He has always been attentive to business and has always been attentive to business and his face a familiar one to all who patron ized his stable. As a man he was univer-sally respected for his upright character and one whose word could be depended

A BRUTAL ASSAULT. Michael Toohev Uses His Fists in

McGowan's Saloon. Daniel Condon presented a face last th which was so bruised and as to be scarcely recognizable. It was the result of a brutal assault made upon him in the salcon of Thomas McGowan at State and Fair streets.

Two men were drinking before the bar Condon and Michael Toohey. They be-came enraged at each other for some slight reason and hot words ensued. Toohey then struck Condon in the face and followed this up with such a succession of blows that Condon was left almost uncon-scious. Toohey then left the saloon and walked up State street. He was arrested had been apprised of the affair.

Condon's wounds were dressed by Dr. Lindsley. They were so severe that the doctor thought they must have been inflicted with brass knuckles.

New Haven Wins From Boston in There were about 1,000 persons at the church. The West Haveners came up and returned in a special car, and created quite a consternation at the corner of Chapel and Church streets as they all sat in the car waiting to start for home, all rigged up in their Quaker costumes. Many ladies who happened along at that time were beset with feminine curiosity to know what it all meant, and the fair faces in the deep Quaker bonnets created a deep and lingering interest in a party of Yalengiven in the parlors of the New Haven house last evening by Mrs. Thomas Breeze of San Francisco, Cal., in honor of Miss Josephine Smith of Worcester, Mass., who won easily from the leaders. as cause the most alarming rumors to be circulated on all sides and these rumors grew in import as the day progressed. It was openly asserted that the death of the popular Belgian prince was a repetition of the circumstances surrounding the death of Archduke Rudolph, the heir to the Aus-trian throne, who met his death in such a mysterious manner on January 30, 1869. It was added that a beautiful German governess who had been recently banished from the Belgium court by order of King Leopold, had been in some way connected with the death of Prince Baudouin. Rumor also had it that there had been an intrigue between the governess and the prince and the result of their liasion is said to have been the birth of a child. In any case the death of Prince Baudouin is surrounded with mystery and speculation. The death of Prince Baudouin has rine death of Frince Baudouin has plunged the whole country and especially the city of Brussels into mourning. n had for some time been suffering from influenza but, in spite of the remonstrances of his physicians, he in-sisted on going to the bedside of his sister, Princess Henriettee. On Monday last he in-sisted on going for a drive. He caught a fresh cold and on Wednesday was forced to take to bed. Yesterday his condition had become more serious, but at the same time does not seem to have been such as to cause any alarm. During Thursday afternoon an unfavorable change was noticed in the prince, and as the evening drew near his condition caused his attendants rave apprehensions. Finally towards aight time the last sacraments of the Roan Catholic church were administered man Catholic church were administered. Following this the prince was attacked by high fever and was in danger of lapsing into delirium. King Leopold and Queen Maria were summoned to the prince's bedside, and finally the ministers and chiefs of the royal household were sent for. They were in attendance during all the night.

At 10 o'clock the prince was subjected to the operation of cupping, but with no result. Shortly before midnight the attending physicians pronounced the prince to be dying. His respiration became weaker and weaker until a sudden flow of blood from the lungs suffocated him. The exact hour of the prince's death is announced to be 1:45 a. m. and not 3 a. m.

as at first stated.

The Princess Henriette is said to be in a worse condition this evening than during the earlier hours of the day.

The remains of the prince now lie in state on the bed in which he died, surrounded by tall wax candles in golden can-dlesticks. The body is attired in the handsome uniform of a captain of the Royal Belgian carbineers. In one hand the dead prince grasps his sword and the other hand holds a handsome rosary from which is pendant a golden cross.

The latest and most probable version of the cause of the prince's death is that it was due to a complication of smallpox, bronchitis and hæmaturia. The populace are enraged at what they term the blundering of unsuspecting doctors.

It now transpires that Prince Baudouin was upon the point of being betrothed to his cousin, Princess Clementina, the third and youngest daughter of his uncle, King Leopold. The Princess Clementina was born at the castle of Lackin on July 20, All the theaters and public institutions

All the theaters and public institutions are closed and will remain closed until after the funeral, which will take place from the royal palace at Lackin, in South Brabant, about two miles north of Brussels. Parliament has also adjourned.

The members of the royal family were summoned. The king and queen were overcome with grief and wept together, the queen being finally obliged to retire in consequence of the violence of her grief. The prince tried to reassure those at his bedside, saying: "I shall be better to-morrow." The physicians were still hopeful till 10 p. m. when the patient was cupped. At midnight the prince motioned Dr. Melis to approach his bedside and thanked him for his kindness. His voice was then almost inaudible. At 1 o'clock he motioned to his parents to come closer to his bed. He raised himself with difficulty and embraced them in farewell. Both were weeping. BRUSSELLS, Jan. 23.—In the chamber of deputies to-day Premier Beernagert on behalf of the ministry expressed the sentiments of the house in regard to the death of Prince Prince Baudouin. He said that the members shared in the grief of King Leopold and his family over the sad affair. The president of the chamber and the leaders of the right and left concurred in the expressions of regret and sympathy and the house then adjourned as a sign of mourning for the dead prince.

The body of Prince Baudouin has been embalmed and now lies in state in the palace.

YALE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION. Annual Dinner of the New York Association at Delmonico's—Chauncey M. Depew Presides and Makes an Address-Professor Hadley and Others Present.

New York, Jan. 28.-The annual dinheld at Delmonico's to-night. Chauncey M. Depew presided and made the opening address. He said the alumni met to extend their annual greeting to the president of the university. They greeted old Yale and welcomed young Yale. It was the peculiarity of the university that, though 91 years old and the second oldest college of the United States, yet in spirit and progress she was the youngest of all. Her conservatism preserved all things experi-ence taught to be good, and she did not ence taught to be good, and she did not move to the right or the left by any sudden cyclones of theory. Speaking of college men generally, Mr. Depew said their ability guided the millions—substantially controlled the transactions of the country. He illustrated the incredulity of some people on this point by an anecdote of a successful railroad man who went back to his native heath and as he sat on a keg in the corner grocery was interrogated by the local oracle with "is it trew that you air gettin' a salary of more than $10,000 a year?" The college man said it was: "Waal," said the oracle, "that shows what cheek and sarcumstance will do for a man." cheek and sarcumstance will do for a man."
Continuing, Mr. Depew said that Yale men from every state and territory furnished the environment which rubbed off provin-cialism, destroyed snobbishness and proout his hand and touched their foreheads.

Soon after he had a fresh hemorrhage and died at 1:45 a.m. The physicians who were in attendance are homeopathists. The royal family have full confidence in them.

SERIOUS FIRE IN BUFFALO.

Several Buildings Destroyed—Five or Six Firemen Buried Under Falling Walls. BUFFALO, Jan. 23 .- About 9 o'clock this vening fire was discovered in the cutting room of L. Marcus & Co., wholesale cloth ing, in the building owned and occupied by Warner Bros. & Co., at the corner of Terrace and Pearl streets. The flame rapidly spread into Zingsheim & Harris wholesale clothing, next door, and Darling & Scholes' clothing house adjoining. All of the above places were destroyed. The total loss is estimated at between $400,000 and $500,000. Adam Fisher and Robert Snyder, firemen, were caught by falling walls and instantly killed. Fireman Murphy had die. Fire Commissioner Bever was struck in the face by flying beams and seriously injured. Five or six other firemen are known to be seriously injured, and it is

The elder son, Frank D., was too far distant in the west to permit his arrival in time. General Sloat, who has been unremitting in his devotion to the deceased during all her illness, is much east down by his loss and the sorrow of his affliction. The following lines in tribute to the deceased lady were penned by H. L. Cowles of New York city, formerly of New Haven, son of Miss M. E. Cowles of this city.

In memory of my dear friend.

In memory of my dear friend, Mrs. Frank D. Sloat. Whose sudden death on January 18, 1890, cau deep sorrow in the hearts of all who knew her. A loving mother has passed away From this world's busy shore; Let loving hands do what they may,

While here on earth her loving care Cemented fast the tie That held in bond her jewels rare, For whom she lived and prayed she might no

Her friends, her husband and her loving sons Will mourn her loss, cherish her memory dea And time, though swift its course it runs, Will ne'er efface her kindly deeds while here. THE SILVER QUESTION. The Chamber of Commerce Will Dis

At the regular monthly meeting of the chamber of commerce next Wednesday evening an interesting discussion of the silver question will take place immediate-ly after the routine business of the meeting is disposed of. The question will be discussed by several local financiers, merchants and prominent business men. It is also expected that the committee which atalso expected that the committee which attended the meeting of the state board of trade in Hartford, consisting of J. D. Dewell, N. Easterbrook, John H. Leeds, N. D. Sperry, Professor William H. Brewer, T. Attwater Barnes, Captain Charles H. Townshend and John C. Gallagher, will be present and make their report.

STATE CORRESPONDENCE.

Southington. THE LITTLE QUINNIPIAC BECOMES A RAGING RIVER.

Jan. 23.—Much surprise is occasioned by the fact that the late Howard Plant of Plantsville died intestate. It was generally supposed that the First Baptist society would be generously remembered by him, as during his life he took much interest in its affairs. His son and sole heir, Mr. Frederick Plant, has been appointed administrator of the estate, which is probably a large one.

North Haven.

Jan. 23.—Sliding down hill is popular at present and for the past week has been thoroughly enjoyed by old and young, married and single. The hills near the Episcopal church and Dr. R. B. Goodyear's have been scenes of gaiety and mirth until a late hour, the moonlight evenings and mild weather contributing to the enjoyment.

Mr. John Tracy seems to be improving in health, much to the gratification of his friends. Mr. Tracy is able to drive out in the evening, call on friends and visit the Bradley library.

S. F. Linsley was in Hartford on Tuesday evening in the interests of the entertainment to be given in Memorial hall on Wednesday evening, January 28. Mr. Linsley is sparing no pains, trouble or expense to make the event equal to any given in the town during the year.

The ice is nearly gone from buildings and trees, but the broken limbs, bark and leaves strew the ground and tell a sad tale. The telephone wires on the line east and west through the center were

How Dividends Will Be Paid.

As this corporation, in addition to its other valuable, mostly inside, real estate, owns in the city of Fort Worth, Texas, the two finest commercial buildings south of St. Louis in the United States, known as the Hurley Office building and the Martin-Brown Wholesale Dry Goods building, for which the charge for rentals;
sign, 298 annually. It has been agreed by the directors to set axide $14,000 from these rentals, which can be applied only to the 7 per cent. dividend on the $200,000; and further, that such preferred stock shall first be paid in full out of the assets of said corporation upon the dissolution thereof, before the common stock shall be entitled to share in such assets. And it is further agreed that after the preferred stock has been paid its 7 per cent. dividend that from netearnings the common stock is to receive 6 per cent., and from the balance of profits a dividend be paid on each the preferred and common of 3 per cent., thus making the preferred a 10 per cent. and the common a 2 per cent. stock. All earnings above sufficient to pay the above dividends, which will amount to $47,000 per annum is to be carried to surplus account for a period of five years, and at the expiration of that time the directors may divide it among the stockholders of record as they may deem proper.

It is expected that from the increased capital of $300,000 now offered, the corporation can earn from $150,000 to $500,000 per annum, as it will place the company,

History of the Company.

The Forth Worth Security and Construction company of Fort Worth, Texas, is an outgrowth of and succeeded the Fort Worth Loan and Construction company, December 31th, 1890, which was the most successful corporation of its kind in the Southwest, having on a capital of $100,000, earned $225,000 net inside of two years. It organized with $100,000 capital in February, in 1889, increasing same from earnings alone to $300,000 in April, 1890, and in December, 1890, shows additional surplus on conservative valuations of $125,000. It is to push this business to greater proportions that this $200,000 preferred stock is now offered.

The phenomenal net earnings of this corporation shows why conserative investors demanding assured dividends are turning from Hallway to Industrial Securities.

Its capital invested mostly in inside improved property, which is constantly increasing in value, forms a permanent security for its fidelity and for controlling the sale of the best securities in the state. As its officers are among its largest stock-holders its affairs will receive their undivided attention. It is not often that an investment, bearing such a high rate of dividend, coupled with absolute safety, is offered to the public.

It affects affairs will receive their undivided attention, it is not often that an investment to transacts a general financial business. It deals in Texas securities for investors trust, fund and inattitutions; furnishes information and makes expert reports on the property of individuals, rallway or other corporations, and pays taxes for non-residents.

Dr. Lyon's success in the treatment of all diseases has been marvelous and his fame has spread throughout the length and breadth of the United States, being opposed to all mineral and poisonous drugs, he has selected choice and potent remedials from the vegetable kingdom only, and with valuable roots, barks and herbs is prepared to CURE the most stubborn and intractive disease. Consumption, that bane of our eastern climate, which causes so many to succumb to its ruthless power, is CURED by Dr. Lyon, as many testimonials from unimpeachable witnesses at test. Dyspepsis, the national scourge, which dooms thousands to torture and misery, is routed and annihilated by a remedy discovered by the doctor. In no case yet has this inestimable specific failed of banishing that painful disease. All discases of the Lungs, Liver and Kidneys, as well as Skin Diseases and all impurities of the Blood of whatever name and nature, are radically and permanently cured in a surprisingly short time by the doctor's improved method of treatment. 49 Elm Street, cor.
