One Dollar per Year, (in Advance.)

Single Copies 5 cents. The Royal Ark has collapsed, and those who expected to escape a flood by means of it are worse off than they were before they embarked in it. The Royal Ark is one of the short term endowment orders which have been promising much for little. It started out with the assurance that for forty dollars in assessments in six months one hundred dollars would be paid. It secured many victims in this state. One lodge of the order in Manhester, where several hundred certificates ave already matured, sent a committee to fassachusetts, where the supreme officers eside, to ascertain their prospects of reeiving their money. They were informed that there was not a cent on deposit to the eredit of the order, and besides there are 3,000 certificates ahead of the Manchester sufferers. As an illustration of the pericious effects of this one order alone pon the business interests of the towns of fanchester and South Manchester, it is print of Scotland as "wofully unfair" and stated that $14,070 have been sent to the supreme officers in the past six months. One of the worst features of these frauds s that they have found their dupes among hose who could least afford to be duped. They have appealed especially to those who have to work hard for their daily bread and deny themselves to engage in uch schemes. At first a few got their noney back and the promised increase. The bait took, and workingmen flocked nto the various orders by thousands. Now the orders are fast collapsing and the 'investors" are losing all or most of what

Mr. Matthouse, one of the board, pointed out that 91,243 bodies were buried last year in the cemeteries of the capital; that in many places they lay foureen deep; that the situation was growing worse every year, and that a reform of some kind was imperative. High medical uthority had declared already that the state of the cemeteries demanded the intervention of the government. Cremation is the only practical remedy, and prejudice against it is disappearing fast, he says.

The census bulletin on the gold and silver production of the country for the year 1889 shows the interesting fact that more produced as of gold. It also shows incithe Government is now authorized to parchase as a basis for the issue of treasury notes, namely,4,500,000 ounces per month exceeds for a year the annual product of the mines of the country, which is put at 51,354.851 ounces for the census year. Of course, a large amount of silver is constantly used in manufacturing and the arts, and if the amount of silver bullion maximum that it is directed to purchase in case it is offered, a considerable amount of it would have to come from foreign United Kingdom for his jury instructions in the baccarat case. One says his course was a melancholy and flagrant violation of the best traditions of the English bench, It is intimated that it would hurt his reputation had he any to lose. His charge is characterized as a mere medley of thric hackneved quotations seasoned with in decent flippancies and crowned with a paragraph of adulation conceived in the worst possible taste. The presence of the Prince of Wales in court after he had given his testimony is denounced as a de liberate attempt to influence the jury out side the law and the facts. Coleridge' charge is condemned by a leading law imbued with offensive toadyism. The per sistent presence of the Prince of Wale in a place where he had no official right to be is construed as a bulldozing scheme to protect himself and to overawe the court and jury.

Finding that Mr. Lincoln was not on the train, however, and not recognizing Mr. Hamlin, who was laying quietly in his berth, they made no further demonstration, and the train went on, reaching Washington in due time. Mr. Lincoln, it may be well to add, proceeded from New York to Harrisburg, and from that point went to Washington, where he arrived safely early upon the morning after Mr. Hamlin. The president-elect was met at the Baltimore and Ohio depot by Mr. nephew, the present earl, he said, had given him a voluntary weekly allowance of £4 for board and lodging, and this had lately been reduced to £3. It did not appear that the defendant was a reckless spendthrift of the too prevalent aristocra-tic pattern, that he was addicted to drink, or was guilty of any crime or misd against the canons of society. He was simply penniless, and his sole fault was at the Baltimore and Ohio depot by Mr. Washburns and Senator Steward, and by them accompanied to Willard's hotel, where e remained quietly until the day of the nauguration. On that day it was notable that neither Mr. Hamlin nor Mr. Lincoln

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Riis, proved to be one of exceptionable interest. He is connected with the staff of the New York Sun, and his varied experiences of a personal nature, arising from his profession, enable him to depict with wonderful clearness. The lecture was given at the request of the committee of International Christian Workers. The speaker was introduced by Attorney Henry G. Newton. He asked them first of all if they knew that there are 50,000 people in New York city who do not know where their next meal is coming from, and who

The commissioners of the state topo raphical survey (Professor William H. rewer, Dr. James H. Chapin and the Hon. John W. Bacon), are bringing their labors to a close. They have done an exellent work.

These maps, published by counties, are he result of the "United States geologial survey," the federal government making the survey and preparing the plates for the maps; the state paying one-half the expense of the survey, and for printing and publishing the maps. But the state, having provided for the work in onnection with the United States government, has not made any appropria ion for printing the maps. It was intended that the legislature which met last January would provide for the printing. It will undoubtedly do so when it gets into work-ing order. Some of the plates are ready or the printer.

J., last week, after a lingering illness. Crowley began his career with the Philadelphia club in 1876, and afterward made a national reputation with the Buffalo, Providence and Boston (N. L.) clubs. He played with the Athletics in 1883, when they won the Association nement and retired from the distion pennant, and retired from the diamond in 1885. For years he and Hardie Richardson were inseparable, and he was a favorite with all ball players and man-agers. Crowley, in his time, was one of the best throwing catchers in the League, and was also one of the heaviest and hardest hitters.

At that time the launched at their yard. At that time the Law was the largest vessel ever built in this state, but Mr. Sutton has now again beaten the record with the LucindaSutton, named in honor of his wife. The new vessel is five feet longer and six inches deeper than the Law. This addition to the dimensions makes several tons difference in the carrying capacity of vessels.

W. N. Gesner, the veteran shipbuilder of the firm of Gesner & Mar, who built the vessel for Mr. Sutton is the oldest living factive shipbuilder in this country. He came from New York city to New Haven for a visit forty-eight years ago when to Newport, the queen of American watering places, next Saturday. She will leave rivalled opportunity to see the many mag-nificent views of the many summer resorts on the sound to the east. The boat will return about 6 o'clock Sunday morning: Europe. She will be absent several months.

He came from New York city to New Haven for a visit forty-eight years ago when he was induced to build a vessel here. After that vessel was constructed he commenced another and has been engaged in shipbuilding in this vicinity ever since. His first partnership was styled Gesner & Baldwin. They built many fine ships at Fair Haven. Later Mr. Gessner had charge of C. S. Bushnell's shipyard at Fair Haven, where vessels used by the United States government during the war were repaired.

The Lucinda Sutton was commenced last fall and has been in the works ever The Lucinda Sutton was commenced last fall and has been in the works ever since. The dimensions of the new schooner are as follows: Length of keel, 203 feet; depth of hold, in clear, 18 feet 9 inches; breadth of beam, 41 feet; length of rail over all, 287 feet; from end of jib-boom to spanker boom, 321 feet; from bottom of keel to the truck, 152 feet 9 inches. Mr. Gesner, in giving the dimensions, made the statement that the schooner can-not go under Brooklyn bridge without taking down her topmasts.

The register of the new schooner is:
Gross tonnage, 1,486.63; net tonnage, .412.30.

Henry Sutton is the managing owner of the vessel, which will cost about $74,000 fitthe vessel, which will cost about $74,000 fitted ready for sea, and she is a splendid addition to the Sutton fleet of vessels, all built

Burnham has been trying to arrange it so that Providence may play here Tuesday, and Syracuse at Albany. Providence has answered favorably, but he has not heard yet from the other two clubs.

Or Work when he indicates here we should be re, which presents an imposing picture now and will appear much better on the water, especially when all her sails are set. The vessel has a sharp bow, which indicates speed. With the large number of big sails to be carried, it is presumed that the vessel will be as speedy as any vessel. the vessel will be as speedy as any vessel of this size. The construction of the schooner combines speed with large carrying capacity, which is very desirable for quick transportation of large cargoes. The new schooner is adapted to sailing to any port and may be sent to Japan, as freights from that port are now quite profitable. A fine crayon portrait of Mrs. Henry Sutton, for whom the vessel was named, hangs in the cabin. The captain's cabin is large and elaborate, with stateroom connecting with bathroom and water closet Extra berths are provided for guests of the captain. Fine quarters are also provided for the first mate and the other officers and

Both the cabin and forecastle are heated by steam. The cabin is 32 by 28 feet. There are forward and after cabins, eight There are forward and after cabins, eight staterooms, pantry and bath room. The ceiling is of ash with mahogany panels. The floors are laid with Brussel carpeting. Staterooms have spring beds and the best appointments. The vessel will draw 9½ feet light and 21 feet loaded. Captain H. A. O'Brien, formerly of Thomaston and late commander of the W. W. Ward, will command the new vessel. The first mate is Captain James T. Scharf, formerly commander of the N. Easterbrook, jr. Captain W. L. Blake succeeds Captain O'Brien on the W. W. Ward. The Lucinda Sutton has steam power that can be used in handling cargoes and hoisting sails or the big anchors, or in vorking the pumps.

This steam power cannot be used as a ropelling power. The pumps are very powerful, and in case of accident would be able to keep down the water from a big leak. There are also hand pumps that can be used if the steam pumps fail. There are two immense anchors weigh ing 4,577 and 3,800 pounds respectively, with 180 fathoms of chain of two inch iron, weighing fifteen tons. To ride out a heavy gale these chains would be fastened together and attached to the larger anchor. These anchors are heavier than usual fo special safety for the new craft.

There are tanks for 3,500 gallons of water, a supply for a long voyage. The steering gear is of an improved pattern, with the screw system instead of the old-fashioned rope purchase. The vessel will carry eleven men and can be run as cheap ly as a 1,200 ton vessel.

Her sails will be of about 5,000 yards, with 1,000 yards of canvas for sail covers. The sails will be as follows: Fore, main mizzen and spanker; the four topsails, staysail, jib, flying jib, jib topsail, and outer jib topsail. The spanker alone is of 600 yards. The sails cost about $3,000.

The Old North Haven Pest House.
To the Editor of the Journal and Courter:
The statement in Mr. S. B. Thorp's annals about a pest house south of my house near Hamden line I think incorrect, but tradition says it was further south on the ridge in the town of Hamden. There were buried a man and his wife, who died of the smallpox some 120 or 130 years ago. I think the land is now owned by Mr.
William Benham, and I think Mr. Benham can show the stone and the marks on stone where they were buried.

Tags. March, the question was not the sasence of his son, who is secretary and treasurer of the Long Island Brick company, and who is said to be a defaulter for a large amount. Ex-Governor Waller said: "I am very much mortified that such a cruel and ridiculous story should have obtained circulation. Especially so since my son's apparently inexcusable but innocent carelessness has probably been the cause of it. He has been absent on business of the company for an unusually long time without reporting, but not so long as has been stated. In four weeks he has wixed the company three times, and last evening he seat a telegram stating that he would be at the office on Tuesday. My son Martin is not a defaulter for a cent, and the suggestion about a woman being in it is altogether sensational; but about this feature of the business I do not care to talk. A Chapter of Drowning Accidents. A HEARTRENDING SCENE.

Iwo Women and Five Children Browned off the Newfoundland Coast By the Wreck of the Schooner Pubnico Belle—A Harrowing Scene Graphically Bescribed By the Survivers-Ropes Repeatedly Thrown to the Women and Children in the Water, But Each Time They Fall short—Full Details of the Disaster. HALIFAX, N. S., July 19 .- Particular vere received by mail to-day of a harrow ing disaster on the Newfoundland coast the schooner Pubnico Belle being wrecked and two women and five children last.

Captain Samuel Butts of the vessel said that with a crew of four men he left Catalina on the morning of Wednesday, the 8th, bound for St. Johns with a cargo of lumber. She had also on board five women and five children as passengers. She made Baccalieu about 8 o'clock Wednesday night. The weather was fine. The wind then veered to south-southwest and afterwards there came on a storm of wind and rain from 11.30 Wednesday night until daylight Thursday. The vessel lost her mainand foresail successively and ran ashore on the cliff at 2.20 Thursday morning. The crew let go the anchor which checked the vessel, but the chain parted. William Rose jumped ashore and the captain threw a line to him. By this means the rest of the crew got ashore and the following passengers saved: Mrs. Rachel Burton, Miss Julia Burton and Miss Wells. Mrs. Freema and Miss Caroline Higgins were drowned, and five children were also lost, one being Mrs. Freeman's infant, another child coming on to St. Johns and the remaining three belonging to Mrs. Burton, a boy of twelve, a boy of nine and a girl of five ears. Miss Salina Wells states that she boarde the schooner Catalina. The weather was fine and continued so till night, then it blew hard. At 2 o'clock Thursday morning the schooner struck. At this time all the passengers were in the cabin. Besides myself there were Miss Burton, Julia and three children, Mrs. Freeman and her infant, Miss Caroline Higgins and a girl fant, Miss Caroline Higgins and a girl named Alice Hicks. I was sitting on the locker and Miss Higgins was lying on part of it. All the others, children included, were in the berths. The vessel struck three times before we started. One of the crew, an old man, came down for a rope. We asked him if there was any chance to be saved. He said: "Yes, don't say anything, it will be all right." The water was then coming through the cabin floor. The water was soon up to the lockers and we were wet. All the children were taken out of their berths and got ready to start for the deck. We were close into land, but a heavy sea was breaking over the rocks. When we reached the deck two of the crew were ashore,

After traveling a long distance over rocks and through woods, marshes and water, we met several men going toward the wreck, and one of them at once turned back and brought us to his house. Here we found the captain, but we did not see the two men who started with him. The people of the house treated us very kindly Had we been made aware of our danger is time I believe that we could all have been time I believe that we could all have been saved. After we got ashore two little boys could be seen in the rigging and their voices could be heard calling for help. A rope was repeatedly thrown to them, but each time it fell short. Finally the little fellows were washed off and their voices were stilled in the sea."

Miss Julia Burton, one of the survivors, says she could see her brother Malcolm clinging to the rigging and hear him callsays she could see her brother Malcolm clinging to the rigging and hear him calling for help. He was there a long time, but at last the sea washed him off. Mrs. Freeman was the wife of William Freeman now in Victoria, B. C. She left two children in Catalina. Mrs. Burton and her family were to take passage by the steamer Portia for New York, where her husband is. She had but one child left her.

Captain Butts stated that he stuck to the wreck as long as there was anyone to be saved. The first man to jump ashore was William Rose. He was followed by James Penny and Sol Evans. The first person he saved was Miss Burton. After putting a rope around her waist he saw her safely conveyed on shore. He then tried to put a rope around her mother's waist, but while doing so the sea washed her out of his hands. She had a five-year-old child in her arms at the time, but it was washed away from her. The captain got pinned by sparks and a sea took Mrs. Freeman and infant overboard. When he recovered he found Miss Wells and was in the act of fastening Wells and was in the act of fastening ropes about her when another sea washed her away. The next place he found himself was on the rocks. He says that if he self was on the rocks. He says that if he had another man with him, all might have been saved. He further says that the crew looked after themselves and jumped ashore

MACONIA, N. H., July 19 .- Isase Fonds about sixty years of age, a well known and inent citizen of Laconia, was drowned n Lake Winnesquam this evening. Mr. Fonda and a friend, Mr. Charles Stearns of Burlington, Vt., were out rowing in a small boat which suddenly capsized. The accident was observed by several parties who were boating, but before assistance could reach the boat Mr. Fonda was drowned. Mr. Stearns was rescued in an exhausted condition as he was sinking. The accident occurred about 7:30 o'clock and the body of Mr. Fonda has not yet been recovered.

and Texas, relatives of these gentleme The suit is for the recovery of property leased to the city of New York ninety-nine years ago, the lease having just expired. Ninety-nine years ago Robert Edward, at that time a large real estate owner in New York, leased to the city for the term of ninety-nine years a considerable amount of real estate on which Broadway of real estate on which Broadway and several adjacent streets for some distance are now located, the lease specifying that at the end of the lease the property with all its improvements should revert to his heirs. He died a bachelor, leaving an only brother as his heir. That brother died leaving one child, a daughter, as his heir. That daughter married the grandfather of Colonel H. Clay King and as a matter of course her descendants are the heirs to that property. The King family have in their possession all the documents necessary to prove a clear title to the property in question and as the lease has just expired suit is to be commenced at once to recover possession of the property. once to recover possession of the property.

Mr. T. C. King of this city yesterday mailed to Mr. McLeary, the attorney for the heirs, his power of attorney and as soon as a power of attorney can be obtained from all the known descendants of the Edwards family suit will be instituted. Mr. McLeary has associated with him another prominent attorney, and they are so confident that the case can be pushed to a successful issue for their the river at that point and they swam into a swift, cold current. Suddenly one was seized with cramps. A panic followed. The seine was dragged, and Brame, Brown and Strader becams entangled in it. Meader and Eaves were swept under by the current, while the other three sucthey are so confident that the case can be pushed to a successful issue for their clients that they have agreed to bear all the costs of the case for a certain percentage of what they get. The whole number of heirs is not known, but even if there were 1,000 it would still mean a magnificent fortune for all concerned. Mr. King's friends in this city are more than pleased friends in this city are more than pleased to hear of his prospective good fortune, and he is somewhat elated himself.

Paris Newspapers Almost Universal-ly of the Opinion that M. de Freycinet Will Not Resign the Premier Paris, July 19.—The press is generally atisfied that M. de Freycinet will not resign the premierahip. The Siecle says: A rupture of the cabinet on such grounds would be incomprehensible alike to the hamber and the country. A change in the government at the present juncture would signally encourage strike agitators. would signally encourage strike agitators.

La Justice holds that the rebuffs recently experienced by the ministers must not be attributed to any combination against them. It says: "The strength of a republican government must be measured by the manner in which it responds to public opinion, not by votes having a character unworthy of serious consideration." Several conception overage predict the fall of eral opposition organs predict the fall of the government within three months. They say that Constans within and Ferry without are caballing to oust M. de Frey-cinet and seize the reins of government.

Other Fereign Notes of Interest. Comte de Haussonville, a representative f the Comte de Paris, speaking at Toueuse, attacked Cardinal Lavigerie's movement in support of the republic. He said that clericals desiring to form a Catholic republican party were victims of an illuion. Tolerant republicans existed, but the government could not get rid of the party. Dr. Willard of the Westville Congregational church, who made very feeling and appropriate remarks. The church was crowded to overflowing, so many of the friends of the doctor wishing to attend. At the grave, at Evergreen cemetery, the Masonic funeral service was conducted by Mr. A. U. Lewis in a most conducted by Mr. A. U. Lewis in a most impressive manner. The floral offerings were very numerous and served to show how greatly the loss of the deceased was feit. Olive Branch lodge attended the funeral in a body. A committee from the New Haven Medical association, consisting of the president, Dr. S. D. Gilbert, the secretary, Dr. Fleischner, William G. Daggett, and Dr. Fitch, attended, and also many other physicians from New Haven and vicinity. One of the saddest incidents of the funeral was the fact that Mrs. of the funeral was the fact that Mrs.
Smith was unable to leave her house at all on account of illness. Dr. Smith, although a young man, had a very large circle of friends, and was highly respected and looked up to by all who knew him.

Judge Blyndenburgh appeared for Drew and he state was represented by City Attorney Dailey and Attorney Hoadley. After the complaints had been read and Drew had pleaded not guilty of manslaughter, the first witness, Mrs. Lampkin, the mother of the boy, was called. She testified to the fact of her son's going out to the store, of her hearing a shot and of her next seeing him lying on the sidewalk dead. She also testified that a man whom she thought to rom the body Coroner Mix next testified that Drev had spoken to him while he was engaged in investigating the case, and that he, Drew, on being told that he had better tell what he knew of the case, said he had been firing a pistol in his back yard and also produced two bullet cartridges such as he had used. The defence then tried to prove that in order that the bullet should it Hatfield it must have passed through a Daisy Jones, a young colored girl of 193 Foffe street, swore that she saw a man iring a pistol in Drew's yard and immedifiring a pistol in Drew's yard and immediately saw Eddie Hatfield fall to the walk.

Johnnie McClure, aged ten, who lived next door, testified to the same facts. John Williams, a farm laborer, living at 81 Hudson street, described how a bullet whistled past his head as he was crossing a lot near Drew's house. He was not a little frightened and proceeded to get out of the way as soon as possible. Just then a woman's voice was heard saying to Drew, "Look out, you'll hit someone." He distinctly heard Drew's reply, which was as tinctly heard Drew's reply, which was as follows, as nearly as he could remember

"I don't care a d— if I shoot all the l— niggers in the neighborhood."
As this testimony was given, a suppressed groan arose from the seats occupied by the colored witnesses.
Continuing his story, Williams said: "I was coming an Coffe street after the shoot. was coming up Goffe street after the shooting and Drew was coming the other way toward a group of people. Some one said, 'What's up?' Drew replied, 'Oh, nothing, only a d—— little nigger dead, and I suppose I shot him.'"

Again were groans heard from the wit-nesses. Belle Hawley, a colored girl, testi-fied that she saw Drew leaning his arm on the fence and fire in the direction of Goffe treet. Her testimony was not shaken on Officer Hooper gave his opinion that Drew's revolver could easily have carried a bullet the distance from Drew's house to Goffe street with fatal results. MADISON BEACH.

What the Wild Waves are Saying-The Old Town of Madison. A Hartford Post reporter who has been down to old Madison thus writes to hi paper concerning interesting features of the old town and its beautiful long strete of sand beach:

of sand beach:

A visit to this somewhat famous old town would be interesting and pleasant to one who loves the sea and appreciates beautiful scenery. Probably Boston street in Madison, all things considered, affords about the pleasantest drive to be had snywhere along the shore between New Haven and New London. This street is five miles long, is very broad, and has two roadways, a good portion of it being lined on both sides and in the center by noble elms. Many handsome houses, with well kept lawns and spacious grounds, give an air of comfort and plenty, and for the time being the poor fellow who works hard to earn his daily bread is lifted up from a hundrum existence of toil and poverty, and fancies that he, too, is among the well-favored of the world's millions if he is fortunate enough to sit behind a good horse and spin along mile after mile fanned the while by cool sea breezes and shaded from the sun these hot July days by the kindly old elms. A very pleasant drive, too, may be had to Ninevet Falls on the Hammonassett river, five miles from the center.

Madison is not a manufacturing town and has not grown in population of late years; it has, in fact, lost. However, con-templated improvements on the shore may result in a boom for the town, for certain unoccupied tracts of land have been pur-chased by New York parties, work has begun upon them in the way of clearing, grading, etc., and ere long there will be many desirable lots that may be utilized or cottages.

North Madison, a part of this town, was the scene of two murders, (committed within the past fifteen years) that attracted interesting features of this great trial. Rev. Mr. Hayden, accused of the murder of the poor, simple-minded Stannard girl, now resides in New Haven, and is following the occupation of a carpenter.

The "charcoal pit" murder, while not engaging so great an array of legal talent as the Hayden-Stannard case, developed many sensational features, which afforded the ubiquitous New Haven newspaper re porters an opportunity to draw upon their tartling.

The section of country where these two murders were committed is about six miles square, and for many years has furnished a large part of the charcoal used by the large manufacturers of New Haven, Meri-den and Middletown It has given the officers of the law many knotty problems to solve, as these charcoal burners are a people peculiar to themselves, many of them caring nothing for education and the refining influences of modern civilization. The sons succeed their fathers in the business of charcoal burning, one generation after another, and all of them are adepts, considerable skill being required to manage a pit so as to produce a satisfactory article to solve, as these charcoal burners are nations in a way that was truly

The Madison beach is about five miles long, and for the most part is good sand, there being no mud flats to speak of. A few rods out in the sound, very near a cluster of handsome cottages on the shore, is Tuxis Island, which raises to a considerable height, and with its numerous shade erable height, and with its numerous shade trees and green grass presents a pleasing contrast to the sea, ever lashing itself with mad fury against its rock-bound sides, or peacefully slumbering in calm at its feet. There is an Indian tradition that the great spirit lifted this island from the spot on shore where now is seen Tuxis lake, and dropped it into the sea. Strange to say, it bears a strong resemblance to that little sheet of water in shape and size. Great rocks at several points on Madison beach sneet of water in snaps and size. Great rocks at several points on Madison beach rise to a safe height, affording romantic young ladies and spooney beaux a delight-ful place to dream of love and speculate moonlight nights upon what the wild waves are saying.

To the Editor of the Journal and Couries: Seeing in Friday's issue of your paper a communication signed "Fair Play," in which the writer stated that the help as well as the contractors at the L. Caudee company received a reduction in their wages, wish to state that such is not the fact The contractors may have been "cut," but, at any rate, no one else has. The next time "Fair Play" wishes to have his paragraphs appear in print he should be more careful to observe Davy Crockett's maxim.

Saratoga is undoubtedly the greatest and most widely known watering place in this country. Possessed of great natural advantages, these have been enhanced by all that money and art can enhanced by all that money and art can do. Beautiful springs, parks and drives, delightful open air concerts and handsome residences are among the many things to be enjoyed by a trip to this place. A trip to Lake George and Mount McGregor adds but little to the cost and much to the pleasure of the trip. That so much pleasure may be taken at the low rate of $8.50 makes it possible for all to go. See advertisement.

Funeral of Mrs. Cramer. The funeral of the late Mrs. Christina cramer, who committed suicide by hanging at her home on Grand avenue on Thursday, took place Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock at the rooms of Lewis & Maycock, the undertakers, whither the body was taken after its discovery. The services were private. Rev. Mr. Siebke, who for years has been a friend of the family, conducted brief services. After the brief services the remains were taken to the family burial plot in Evergreen cometery and interred. The son, Edward Cramer, who has been stopping at the Selden house since he came to this city, was the chief courner.

Funeral From St. Mary's Church. The funeral of Miss Gertrude Plunket oungest daughter of ex-Senator Joseph D. Plunkett, was held Saturday morning. Rev. Father Cantillion officiated, in the absence f Rev. Father Higgins, who is abroad. A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated, and during the services Madame Oertel rendered a very touching solo. Out of re-spect to the wishes of the family there spect to the wishes of the family there were no floral offerings. The bearers were the son of James Gallagher, jr., Joseph McKiernan of Edgewood avenue, Joseph McKiernan of Park street, Mr. Bassett, D. S. Gamble, jr., and Daniel Brennan. The purial was in the St. Lawrence cemetery.

Mrs. Josephine Wallace, who has been suffering from lockjaw at the hospital in onsequence of injuries received at Savin Rock several weeks since, died at the hospital Saturday night. Frank M. Dugan, manager of the Meriden Brewing Company, has been arrested charged with alleged criminal negligence in causing the injuries. It is possible, now that the woman is dead, that a more serious charge may be brought against him. Medical Examiner White has begun an investigation.

One day last week those who watched the operations of the new road roller or James street saw it put to a strange use The street is being hardened from Grand avenue to River street, and the first opera tion necessary is to plow up the roadway It is usual to plow up the hard roadbed with horses or oxen, and so hard is th surface that six animals are required to draw the plow. The new road roller is intended to draw the plow as well as harden the street. Superintendent Doyle had waited, believing it nacessary to secure specially strong plow. Finally he decided to experiment with a common plow. The implement was then attached with a strong assett river, five miles from the center.

The road for the most part traverses a picturesque and romantic region, and the falls are well worth seeing, as the fall of water in a distance of 100 feet is about 50 feet.

Among the many handsome residences in Madison may be mentioned those of C. S. Bushnell of Washington, D. C., N. T. Bushnell, a wealthy hardware merchant of New Haven; Cornelius Waydell of Old Slip, New York; Gilbert Watson of New York, Henry Griswold, late of London, England; P. H. Scranton, formerly of Augusta, Ga., and Sereno H. Scranton, a former superintendent of the New York and New Haven railroad.

The merry-go-round in the open lot at Grand avenue and James street continues to interest many children. At evening the attendance is the largest. It is said they took in $50 Friday night, but the storm of Saturday interrupted the fun. The plant is under a large tent, while in a smaller tent in the rear are the quarters for the attendants. In the heavy wind and rain of Saturday the big tent was pretty well tested. It tugged away at its ropes, but did not fall. The horses are propelled by a small steam engine located about thirty feet from the tent.

The death of Captain Samuel L. Potter on Saturday at his home on South Front street was a surprise to his friends, al-though he had been ill for the past year with heart trouble. Two or three years with heart trouble. Two or three years ago he removed to Stony Creek, where he was engaged in the oyster business, having followed the industry previously in this place for several years. By advice of his physician he returned here about six months ago. In the spring he began to go out a little and was believed to be some within the past fifteen years) that attracted the attention of the entire country. Probably the array of legal talent, both for the state and the defence, in the Hayden-Stannard case, was never excelled in Connecticut. The fierce conslaughts of ex-Governor Waller, the adroit tactics of Lawyer Samuel Jones of Hartford and the rulings of the trial justice at the preliminary examination in this town will long be remembered as among the many interesting features of this great trial. home. Captain Potter was a member of the Twenty-seventh Connecticut Volun-teers and a member of Admiral Foote post, G. A. R. He leaves a widow and three children. His funeral will be held from his late residence, 152 Sout Front street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is expected that a delegation from Admiral Foofe post will attend in a body. The interment will be in the Fair Haven cemetery. Haven cemetery.

DEATH OF JOHN A. FOOTE. Brother of the Naval Hero Dies in

Haven. John A. Foote of Cleveland, O., is dead le was born in New Haven eighty-eight years ago and was a brother of Admiral Foote, the famous naval here whose funeral took place in New Haven in 1863 with much solemnity and a procession in which vers many noted heroes of the war and navy. The late Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon elivered the funeral oration. Mr. Foote ived in Cheshire before his parents moved here. Then he moved to Ohio. He was trustee of the Ohio reform school while Superintendent Howe, now of the Meriden reform school, was in charge of that in-

Mr. Foote's father was governor of Con-accticut in 1834-5. He was in the United States senate in 1827-33. While a senator he presented the resolution which brought about the great debate between Calhoun and Webster, which was concluded by the most famous speech ever made by the lat-ter. He resided in New Haven for years A VETERAN REUNION.

JAPANESE HOUSES.

Vashington to Have a Unique Addi-(From the Wsahington Star.) Corcoran street is in a state of surprise over the building enterprise of a lady, the wife of a naval officer and recently from Japan, who bought, a short time ago, a small three-cornered lot not far from New Hampshire avenue. So limited was the pace purchased that no one could imagine now a dwelling could be built upon it, but the new owner has astonished and wellnigh outraged the feelings of residents in that quarter by deliberately, and with malice prepense and afterthought, putting up two houses on the ground.

Taking the advantage of the law of the district, which permits three-foot extensions over sidewalks, she has added to the available space by expanding the structures above the ground floor by three stories of bay windows continuous all around save on the side adjacent to the next building. In this way the number of square feet on each of these floors is about doubled, and one of the houses is made rather a commo-dious structure. But the other one, which caps the apex of the angle, is simply a mar-vel.

The space on the ground is just about big enough to accommodate a small fur-nace and one ton of coal; but above it is so expanded by the means referred to as to include nine very comfortable and compa-ratively spacious apartments, besides a bath-room. The walls are scarcely more than frames for the big windows so that the whole affair is like one great bay win dow itself. The kitchen is on the fourth nome. Captain Potter was a member of | floor, and on the roof conveniences are supplied for drying clothes, because, of course there is no yard. On the outside of the house a dumb waiter runs up the four stories from the ground to the citchen, so that the butcher, the grocer and the baker can stop in the alley, put their goods aboard and shoot them skyward by pulling a rope.

To complete the unique character of this nteresting building a sort of alcove is cut out of the lower story for a stable. There is room enough in it for a carriage, but it seems likely that the horse will have to be accommodated at night by suspending him in slings over the vehicle. The animal will certainly have to go out for his dinners, because their is no space for a feed trough, apparantly.

This Japanese method of building is a novelty in Washington. How far it will spread remains to be seen. For the pur-poses of any one who has only a few dol-lars to spend on a lot it would seem an ad-mirable architectural scheme.

the Bung.
["Listener," Boston Transcript.] In East Ephesus there is a hard-working young farmer Solon. He owns his own farm of 120 acres. The next farm but one, containing at least 100 acres, is owned and cultivated by a man named Jason. The two men are very good friends and often lay their heads together over their affairs. Last year Sampson, the man who owns the between them, decided that it would be a good idea for them to join forces and carry on Sampson's farm: "If we had that hay," said one to the other, "we could winter another horse apiece, easy." So they de-cided to take the farm—"on the halves," of course; that is the regular rate of rent in East Ephesus and the country there-about. Well, they added the work of the Sampson farm to the work of their own. Sampson farm to the work of their own. This week they were getting in hay on a very hot day. Of every load they got in each owned a quarter part. Jason, pitching on, paused a moment, wiped his forehead, and said to Solon, who leaned on his fork up on the load, "Solon, we're a pair of fools." (He qualified the noun extensions." or roots." (He qualited the noun extensively.) "Like enough we be," said Solon, "but what partickler specie of foolishness be you referrin' to now?" "To this 'ere carryin' on business," said Jason; "here we be breakin' our backs over thirty tons o' hay to git seven, an' we've both got more land of our own than we can fitty cultiland of our own than we can fitly culti-vate. If we staid to home and looked after our own land, an' kep' up a good little gar-den patch for our wives, we'd make a good deal more money." Solon said never a word. He knew it was perfectly true. Employers and Holldays. The kindness of the employer begets oyalty in the employe. The service rendered is given lovingly. There is wisdom in liberality. In should go without the saying that the best employers can command the service of the most able employes. The employer who "grinds the faces of the poor" never has any but poor employes to grind. Stinginess is folly. The relations of wage-earner and wage-payer have changed wonderfully of late years, and are destined to undergo further change. The human being no longer is used as a machine by kind or even shrewd employers of labor. He is treated as one of the family of man, a partner, though perhaps a illy of man, a partner, though perhaps a small one, in the great firm of Adam & Sons, which has been doing business ever since the first sod was broken in the Garden of Eden. On the other hand, the wageor Eden. On the other hand, the wage-earner is coming to regard the wage-payer as no tyrant, but simply as a man who, with more capital at stake, derives larger profits from the great business of the uni-versal firm. Year by year labor demands larger seasons of rest, and year by year capital learns the wisdom of granting the demand, and also learns more fully the joy of doing good. joy of doing good.

The Lake of Lilles. Twelve miles north of Norwich, Conn.,is one of the most wonderful lily ponds in all America. It is a lake one mile in diameter, America. It is a lake one mile in diameter, so closely grown with lilies that during blossoming time it is hard to get a glimpse of the water. When the wind is strong and the lilies are open the perfame of them is perceptible a quarter of a mile from the brink of the pond. So thick are the lilies and in such tangled masses that it is almost impossible to propel a boat in the pond, and the lily gatherers have to wade for them in hip rubber boots. Not only are the lilies extraordinarily plentiful, but the blossoms are more regal, perfect, lustrous and of deeper hue than in other ponds.

An Active Saturday Market-Stocks Decline on London Selling and Rally Again on a Good Bank State-

London was a seller of American securities in its own market before the New York exchange opened and the result was a weak opening here and a decline of about one-half point in the first half hour. The suspension of the River Plate bank of London, one of the unlucky dabbiers in the recent Argentine speculation, was the imme diate cause. There seemed to be nothing in our own market except the selling by arbitrage brokers and London houses which had orders from the other side to execute.

After the usual early closing of the London exchange, both the volume of business and the activity in prices fell off, but there was an evident expectation among the traders that the Oliver S. White, Vice-President.
