It having been thought by some philan thropic and energetic people that New Haven needs a workhouse an appropria tion of $25,000 to give us one was made at town meeting. Now it has been discovered that $25,000 isn't enough and another town meeting is to be held to-day, at which the friends of the scheme hope that enough money will be appropriated. Some opposition to the scheme is mani esting itself, and if the matter isn't settled to-day there will be more, and there may be if it is. Some inquisipersons are asking what New Haven wants of a workhouse when it has a jail and an almshouse. It is urged, and with much force, that the jail will furnish all the workhouse facilities that will be needed for years to come, and we re asked if it is not folly to set up another vorkhouse at great expense. It is also pointed out that if New Haven prisoners re taken from the jail the workshop there can not be run except at a loss and will have to be closed and the remaining prisoners supported in idleness and New Haven, while running a separate jail and workhouse at large loss, must continue to pay her share of the expense of the present jail.

This is well worth thinking of. But This is well worth thinking of. But there is another side to the story. If taxes in New Haven continue to increase we may need another workhouse to go to and work them out.

These assessments, it is contended, should have been held in trust to meet the obligations of the corporation. The plaintiffs furthermore allege that the corporation, according to its returns to the insurance commissioners, had a total come of $299,799.73, of which sum it lisbursed $850 for sickness and disability claims, nothing for matured certifiates, $94,456.61 for salaries and other expenses, and had on hand in its expense fund on December 31, 1890, $43,952.32. The plaintiffs say that in a total amount of income of $299,799.78, $143,408.93 was set apart as an expense fund, all of which they contend was unreasonable, contrary to law and equity, and in fraud of the members and certificate holders. A larger sum, the plaintiffs say, than was reasonable, has been expended by the order for expenses. The Medical Examiner Investigating. Patrick Leonard, an employe of Upsor & Granniss, the ice men of this city, was burned to death at Southwick, Mass., near Springfield, Sunday afternoon, under circumstances which are beginning to excite suspicion. His son, who is about twentyone years old, is said to have locked Leonard in a shed to prevent him from becoming further intoxicated. Two hours later his charred remains were discovered later his charred remains were discovered in the still glowing ruins of the structure. How the fire was started is a mystery. The man's pipe could not have originated the blaze, for it was found some distance from where he lay. The statement that there was a fire in the stove Sunday afternoon is not credited. Medical Examiner Shepard of Westfield determined to investigate the case and has ordered an inquest. Leonard was about forty-five years of age and leaves a wife and several children. He lived at 116 Frank street. He had never prospered, as he was much addicted to liquor. He was on a visit to South-

HINMAN STILL MISSING. rowned, in the Opinion of His Fam in Custom House Square Sunday Night Five Minutes Before Train

Hinman of this city, who disappeared from his home on Sunday night, still remain a mystery. From the letter he left, which was published yesterday morning exclusively in the JOURNAL AND COURIER, it would appear that he has committed suicide by drowning. The family of the missing man believe that he has carried out his threat, and that his body is now beneath the water in some locality about New Haven.

The disappearance has given rise to the mystery. It is learned, however, from reliable information—a merchant of this city, who is a member of one of the lodges which the missing man belongs to—that much pipe as possible. city, who is a member of one of the lodges which the missing man belongs to—that he saw Mr. Hinman Sunday evening about five minutes before the train for New York was to leave. He accosted Mr. Hinman, and Mr. Hinman recognized him by nodding and answering him with a word of friendly salutation and passed on in the direction of the train.

The home of Mr. Hinman, on Bradley this residence, Mr. Hinman owns considerable other property, among which is valuable land in West Haven. This precludes the idea of his leaving home on account of the condition count of financial troubles. His family re-lations are said to have been all that could be desired. His domestic life appears to be desired. His domestic life appears to have been so pleasant that his absence can not be attributed to family troubles.

etter left by Mr. Hinman he believed that he had made way with himself, but as he studied it more carefully he has made up his mind that Hinman overdid his description of the manner in which he should seek death, and in this very effort to impress upon the minds of his family his purpose, has given rise to the suspicion that it was simply a blind and that he in reality intended to do no such thing. There are other causes added to this which Detective Brewer declines to the suspicion that it was simply a blind and of their opponent and see that no schemes were worked to rob their constituent of any of the votes promised him. The sethis which Detective Brewer declines to cret ballot bothered the whippers in contract the suspicion that it was simply a blind and of their opponent and see that no schemes were worked to rob their constituent of any of the votes promised him.

However, as is stated above no evidence has been found indicating that Hinman left the city on Sunday night it is argued that it is extremely easy for a person to leave the city and avoid identification, and he could have left the city and no one the Beegan camp, while the Moore brigade leave matting in votes and by noon the enth Ward-An Exciting Election.

The special election held in the Seventi vard yesterday to choose an alderman fill the vacancy in the board caused by the resignation of Alderman Sheehan, was one of the bitterest and most hotly contested political struggles that has ever taken place in that ward. The "bloody" Seventh, as the ward has long been called by local politicians has previously been the scene of numerous political battles, but never has one been more hotly wagered by both sides than the election of yesterday. The candidates for the vacant seat in the board of ddermen, commenced their struggle immediately after Alderman Sheehan tenany rumors. An investigation of these dered his resignation, and previous to the rumors has furnished no decisive key to ward caucus. The primaries were very exciting, the different men who were ambitious to secure this nomination all pulled much pipe as possible.

The bitterest fight was between Beegan and Moore, and the outcome of this struggle was the cause of the exciting times at the election yesterday.

Moore, about the time of the primaries

In the opinion of many who are familiar with the case, the most plausible theory is that he has committed suicide in a fit and as much hustling was done to get out is that he has committed suicide in a fit of despondency and temporary aberration of mind. It is stated that he has on previous occasions shown symptoms which strengthen this belief.

There are others who think that Hinman is still alive.

When Detective Brewer first read the letter left by Mr. Hinman he believed that the votes, as is customary at a national election. The Moore contingent were the first warriors on the field, but they were soon followed by the Beegan wing. Doings of the Municipal Boards at Last Night's Meetings. The board of selectmen found little to do at its regular weekly meeting last night. They approved a few bills, and fell to talking about the workhouse and the meeting this afternoon, when Henry T. Blake ap-

Mr. Blake laid before the board a plan for a proposed road to run through the town farm, and the new West Rock park. The selectmen voted to give the park commissioners power to construct the proposed road on condition that they should give employment to men receiving the town work orders. The board then adjourned the Board of Health. The board of health gave considerable tention last night to property owners who had failed to obey the orders of the poard and abate nuisances. The mos rominent case was that of Joseph Weibel, the brewer at the corner of Orchard and Oak streets. It was set forth that there is an offensive pool of stagnant water in vacant lot on the corner of Vine street in the rear of the brewery which is formed by refuse water which flows through a wall from the brewery tubs. The pool is complained of as a great nuisance in the neighborhood and has frequently been complained of. The board ordered the nui-sance abated a week ago, but it has been disregarded. Last night the board voted to refer the matter to the city attorney and Mr. Weibel will be prosecuted.

Health Officer Wright presented a report of the health of the city for the month of July up to date. It showed that the city was never in a healthier condition. So far this month there have been 128 death

MANY NEW HAVENERS VISIT THE SQUADRO YESTERDAY. Yesterday morning the steamer Elr City took about five hundred excursionists to Fisher's Island, where the White squadron is manoguvreing. The sail up the sound was delightful as far as the mouth of the Connecticut. Here a shower drove those who were on the hurricane deck to the shelter of the upper cabin. A light rain continued until evening.

The party arrived at about 1 o'clock at Fisher's Island. At half-past 1 o'clock the reserves, on signal, rowed to their respective ships.

The ships Newark, Chicago, Concord, Boston, Atlanta and Yorktown were pointed towards the western shore with their bows nearly in a straight line and about a half mile from the beach. Nearer their bows nearly in a straight line and about a half mile from the beach. Nearer shore and broadside to the others were the Vesuviu's and torpedo bost Cushing.

Two hundred feet out from the stern of each of the first named six was a target fiag. The Hotchkiss guns were being used on these by the reserves. The steamer Elm City sailed up around the Stonington, of the New York and Stonington line of steamers, now being used as a mess boat by the reserves. Then after having been around the Stonington the Elm City passed up and down in front of the ships until 4 o'clock, when it started homeward and reached this city about 8 o'clock last night. When the Elm City was entering the harbor the John H. Starin came up on its way home from Glen Island. The greeting whistle was blown. A race ensued for about one eighth of a mile. It was nip and tuck and tuck until the Elm City steered one side for a schooner, which was anchored in the harbor This gave the John H. Starin the advantage and the Elm City had to take second place in the narrow channel farther up.

Among those on board were Mayor Sargent and wife, Professor Brewer and family, Professor Mixter and son, Samuel A. Vork ir, Attorney C. Hoadlay, George T.

THE FIRST FIELD DAY. The Knights of Pythias Make a Pine Appearance Notwithstanding the Copious Showers—The Evening Ex-

The first field day of the uniformed rank Knights of Pythias of Connecticut was observed in this city yesterday. The gaily lecked Knights commenced to arrive in this city from all over the state at about 9 o'clock and from that hour until nearly noon every incoming train brought a large number of members of the order. The Knights upon arriving marched up Church street to the armory, where they were entertained by delegations from the local divisions. After a short rest at the armory the column was re-formed and headed by the Wallingford band marched to the polo rink on Chapel street, where the brigade headquarters had been established. Upon

The reviewing party having taken up their position at one end of the rink the their position at one end of the rink the bank struck up a lively march, the vari-ous divisions fell into line and passed in review of the high officials. Around and around the big rink they went, each line approaching nearer the center until all had passed the reviewing officers and the band at the head had reached the very center. The reception to General Carnahan having been finished, the divisions were dismissed for the time being, only to reassemble at 11:15 o'clock, when the assembly call was sounded. At 11:30 the adjutant's call was sounded and the knights filed out of the rink and formed in line upon the green in eadiness for the parade, which was started at 12 o'clock.

There were over five hundred uniformed knights in line and their appearance was very fine. In front of the City hall they passed in review before Mayor Sargent and the city officials. General Durand commanded the brigade, while the first regiment was under the leadership of Colonel H. H. Hunter of Bridgeport, and the second regiment under Colonel B. D. Putnam of Middletown.

When the knights returned to the green

When the knights returned to the green after covering the line of march, the rain which fell in torrents, forced the officers to dismiss the men, which was done. It was the intention of the knights to dine at Savin Rock, but owing to the in-clement weather many of the visitors re-mained in the city, dining at Heublein's, Prokasky's, Loper's and other cafes. Some of the visitors, undaunted by the storm, took cars for Savin Rock. It was the intention of the knights t have a prize drill at the shore, but it was given up on account of the rain.

General Durand of this city, who was in command, was the recipient of many complementary remarks on the fine ap-pearance of the 500 men in line. General Durand was assisted by the fol-lowing staff: Colonel Charles Brewer, chief of staff; Colonel John S. Descon, A. A. G.: Colonel G. H. Robinson, A. J. A A. G.; Colonel G. H. Robinson, A. J. A. G.; Colonel George A. Cornell, A. J. G.; Colonel Horace O. Case, A. Q. M. G.; Colonel George S. Hull, M. D., A. S. G.; Colonel A. W. Budde, A. C. G.; Major Rev. J. W. Ellsworth, brigadier chaplain; Major Charles B. Wooster, H. D. C.; Major DeWitt C. Porter, A. D. C.; Major E. L. Nowey, A. D. C.; Major Melvin M. Peters, A. D. C.

tion Controversy. HARTFORD, July 28 .- In a long letter to he Courant to-day William C. Case goes over the work of the house committee and says the burden of proof was on the returns submitted to them. He shows that Judge Harrison in April had prepared a paper in a quo warranto suit of Alsop vs. Merwin-an answer for General Merwinn which he says:

"And that until such an examination has been made by the general assembly through a joint committee of both branches, or separate committees of each branch, he constitutional duty of the general asembly has not been performed and no leclaration of the election, or failure to lect, of the lieutenant-governor can be

Mr. Case continues: "Now let us see exactly how this matter stands. The with-holding of the lieutenant governorship from Dr. Alsop is a republican crime, of which the committee were the promoters and the republican majority of the house the ignorant abettors—that's for the newspapers. The lieutenant governorship has never been withheld from Dr. Alsop by the epublican house, because there has never been any examination as would permit any declaration that Alsop was elected, or that any one else was elected, or that there had been a failure to elect—that's for the courts Judge Harrison's answer is not a sham de Judge Harrison's answer is not a sham defense, invented to preserve to General Merwin the proceeds of 'political robbery,' but robbery, with or without manliness, is always robbery, and there is not one code of ethics for legislation and another for litigation. Even the ethics of journalistic politics hardly permits one and the same man hold diametrically opposite views at one and the same time as to the question of public morals—particularly when he is 'entirely right.'

"The report of the committee as to the three offices in question, is the logic result of the republican view of the law applied to the face of the returns; and it is right if the legal premises are sound. It is not to the lace of the returns; and it is right if the legal premises are sound. It is not true, it never has been true, that a refusal to declare the three men in question elected means any such thing as a determination to hold a club over the democratic senate. It is not true, it never has been true to my knowledge, that any such proposition would find a single advocate among the republican advisors in this controversy. It s true, and it is the whole truth, that the republican position is that, owing to the neglect or refusal of the democratic neglect or refusal of the democratic senate, no such examination has yet been had as would make possible any declaration by the general assembly whether any one was elected to either of these three offices or not. Even that part of the republican party which Judge Harrison is, endorsed this position in January, and still later in April after the house had aligned. adjourned. We are told that "to be overpositive one had need to be overwise."

FOR BABY'S SAKE. What will a Mother Give to Save Her Child ?—Use of Proper Food.

How many mother-hearts are now full of anxiety, fearing that the precious little ones will be taken away by that dread scourge of summer, cholers infantum. The true mother is forgetful of self, and will undergo the worst hardship or suffering if only her child can be healthy and happy. For baby's sake no expense is too large, no sacrifice too great.

And yet it is such a simple thing to keep the baby well, when you know how. If the nursing mother is weak and out of health the babe will vomit its food. and soon be seriously ill. Or if improper food is used, dangerous illness will result. Thousands of intelligent mothers and careful physicians have found Lactated Food the best one they could use. It is pure, nourishing and strength-giving.

"I have thoroughly tried the other infant foods on the market, and speak advisedly when I say there is no other food that so thoroughly agrees and nourishes as LACTATED FOOD. I feel that it saved the life of my own fourteen months' old boy." N. P. TYLER, M. D., New Rochelle, N. Y., October 14, 1890.

Lactated Food is sold by druggists, or mailed on receipt of price. 25 cts, 50 cts, $1.00. Interesting book of "Prize Babies" and handsome birthday card free to any mother sending baby's name and age. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

ABOUT JUDGES CAVE

otes of a Visit to This Histori Place by a New Haven Party of Ladies and Gentlemen. New Haven folk may be supposed know all about it, yet as some do not, they and out of town visitors may like to ead of my recent quest in search thereof. The conductor of our excursion car to Westville said he had seen it when a boy 'about a quarter of a mile north of the West Rock cliff side" well up and some distance from the highway which goes past the cliff toward the Town house. Having passed in sight of the blasting and the steam stone crusher, and the piles of Belgian block, and other visible proof of how New Haven hardens her streets at of how New Haven hardens her streets at the expense of a great picturesque cliff, which operation may be regretted here-after; having passed quite beyond all this work of demolition, shall I say vandalism? (Anciently men built pyramids of stone, but nature's own work is now torn down for us to trample on.) Musing about it as we follow the highway with a brook below on our right, we see a new stone bridge for us to trample on.) Musing about it as we follow the highway with a brook below on our right, we see a new stone bridge and the ample Town house in spacious and fair grounds beyond us. We have made several inquiries already and come right so far from a German cottager across the way, learn that the road to our left, just then entering the woods followed about a half a mile will bring us to the Judges' Cave. We pass a small house and barn and find the road grows narrow and in poor condition for wheels, but geod enough for pedestrians used to climbing gradual ascents. But there was no guide post anywhere, and we had to follow our wits and not diverge on uncertain blind wood roads. It is quite a ride from Fair Haven to Westville. The breadth of the future city, and a good walk beside to this particular road which did not deceive us. I have taken pains to say when we found it, for some years ago, some friends and myself vainly sought the Cave by another, and more blind path, up the southwestern slopes. The path got lost, and the ladies could not go up through the increasing tangle of brush and luxuriant undergrowth; we returned that day tired and disappointed.

growth; we returned that day tired and disappointed.
Only recently, having seen some of Mr. Homan's photos thereof, my interest was renewed, and my daughter and two of her young mates (July 22) go with me for the ride and the ramble. Up through the young woods we go and at length come where a lesser growth allows us to look out over the ride and the porth and east.

out over it far to north and east Up and up and everhigher we have been rising, and are now nearing the main up-per surface of the West Rock's extensive formation, and presently looms up beyond and above us the very thing we came to see. I have told the girls meantime a short story about Charles the First, Cromwell, the regicides and Charles the Second. Their young minds do not yet grasp the great turning points in history; in fact, only now and then is there some older only now and then is there some older mind that does or that cares.

There was quite a patch of blue berries just here, and while the young folks are eagerly enjoying the nice ripe fruit, bending the low bushes with their clustering weight and all below those shelving rocks beyond them, I have passed on without much delay, and am upon that solid, almost barren slope, and am examining a a very remarkable cluster of great stones. I like rocks. They have a sort of fascination for me, especially if peculiar and picturesque. These were certainly so, and to an art lover of rocks 'per se', present several highly interesting studies, so much so that I was soon at work with pencil on a large drawing pad, outlining their shapes and main features.

How differently people tell you about

How differently people tell you about places and natural objects of special interest. Like the court examining witnesses it sometimes takes a good many to give an accurate description of an even to give an accurate description of an event or a scene. I cannot here speak as a geol-ogist, but rather as an artist. Will you look on while I make and explain my sketches? We are a hundred feet north of said group of rocks, looking northerly at a small tree beyond them for a 'line of sight.' On the left there is that lone sen-tinel, on the right the group of fallen ones. Their summits appear on a level Their summits appear on a level, but the left hand stone seems taller, be-cause he is really, and stands on a lower footing. He has a sheer face toward his footing. He has a sheer face toward his comrades. It is in the main very straight up and down, also back and forth on hori-zontal lines. Its outward east edge curves round, and draws in towards the foot; greatest diameter east and west, say eight feet; height probably eighteen. feet; height probably eighteen.

The girls have enjoyed enough berries for the present and are now playing hide and seek around and among these rocks, well adapted for such a game! As Bryant says in the Forest hymn, "Lo, all grow old and die; but see again, how on the faltering footsteps of decay youth presses, ever gay and beautiful, youth in all its beautiful forms." Their lithe figures and light summer dresses by contrast enliven up the summer dresses by contrast enliven up the reddish gray or lichened rock masses. Only colors on canvas could give us th considerable horizontal fragments on which they stand, and yet that tallest girl, slender and graceful, all of five feet high, shows twice her height still needed above her summer hat to equal the height of this Probably a ground line of twenty of more feet starting some feet westward from the sentinel rock would give us the under reach of these westward masses. under reach of these westward masses. There is space for a dozen or two of people to stand between the gredadin and his reclining comrades. Their eastward lines slope away from vertical at angle of 30 degrees, also very great, but slanting westward. Their great tops round over and fall away out of sight among some near sumach bushes. Of singular fracture, at our standpoint we cannot tell what some of those shadows mean.

Taking an eastward position, I get a very different sketch; it helps me to understand things, but is not so interesting as the one from the south side, at sufficient as the one from the south side, at sufficien as the one from the south side, at sumcient distance. Where everything is reversed, yet the same general outlines conform to what has been said. On our right that sentinel fellow, one of the Old Guard. I suppose he has stood for ages just where he is in silent contemplation of those fel-lows—shattered companions. I think the regicides found them as they are and what will soon be indicated, a singular hiding place indeed! There is a sort of shelf or the lone rock's south side and two or three persons might climb up by mutual help and crowd together standing in that rectangular uncanopied niche. The girls have eaten more berries and are hovering around again and I get their outlines once more—on the horizontal rocks north of all these research to the standard of the standard of

Then another dark shadow at its George O'Brien, 21 York street, was welve years old yesterday and Monday rock. Then another dark shadow at its further end rises and curves over like a quadrant's edge, ascending from west to east. This is a great vertical fracture; the lower one vertical and horizontal. Not until I had walked through these fissures did I fairly understand them. To get the position of things fairly before my reader, let me suppose by way of illustration I have in hand a large loaf of bread, baked in a round pan, and of greater diameter than height. It is higher on one side. Slice off that side, a quarter of the whole and stand it by itself. Divide the whole larger section at right angles to the first night his friends tendered him a surprise night his friends tendered him a surprise party in honor of the occasion. And these recesses are the Judges' (so-called) cave. Cavernous indeed they are! A narrow domicile with solid walls lonely in location, witness of a secluded life, overshadowed by a death of peculiar interest in history. I am not going to enter into the story. The longer I live the more I am opposed to tyrannies, whether of kings or of people. Knowing now where to look, I think with a good field glass I could discern these great stones from East rock. We are evidently near the summit of West rock. Dr. C. A. Lindsley, secretary of the state board of health, will, upon the meeting of the legislature, present a petition relating to the case with which persons with but little medical eduration undertake the practice of medicine. Dr. Lindsley says that this temptation has been made stronger by the facilities available in various ways by which persons with but a very slender stock of medical science can obtain a diploma falsely certifying to their scientific requirements and still, and with the diploma the title of M. D. Only eight states, of which Connecticut is one, have no legislation controlling the practice of medicine. He believes that Connecticut should have a proper restriction law on this subject. ner in which they have conducted the weekly trips.
