THOSE ALTERED RECORDS. In the alteration of certain records of the board of public works a crime was committed whose doer should not be alowed to go undetected or unpunished. There is no difference of opinion among good citizens about that. But there i room for much difference of opinion con cerning the identity of the guilty one. It does not seem possible that a man of Mr. Waldron's ability and experience, to say othing of his reputation for honesty, would have been foolish enough to think that he could benefit by such a clumsy and easily detected device. And nobody o ordinary intelligence and fair moral sense would attempt to fasten a false charge upon Mr. Waldron for the purpose of lessen ing the weight of his testimony. It is bad ousiness. There should and will be a suspension of judgment until there is more light. Mr. Waldron is going to defend himself, and he will have abundant sym pathy and belp. And it is to be hoped that in the course of the proceedings the truth will appear. It will be noted that the counsel for the Big Four got their first information concerning the state of the records from somebody whose name is not yet revealed. We look upon this as an important feature of the case, and we hope that the whole matter will be thoroughly examined and exposed. The way in which the charge was "sprung" didn't add any weight to it. A GOOD IDEA. Some well disposed and thoughtful thousands of women and children who will visit the world's fair. They have secured a site within three squares of the they will erect a pavilion for the lodging of women and children only. Rooms, light and service will be given at the rate of thirty cents a day. Facilities to procure simple and good food at corresponding rates will also be created. In order to meet the outlay involved the Woman's exposition has been incorporated, shares seing $10 each, the minimum allowed by the law of Illinois. Each of these shares will be accepted at face value for lodging at the regular rate. It is not necessary that one person alone shall buy it and divide its proceeds at the dormitory. These shares will be put on sale all over the country under direction of the women belonging to the national, probably also to the State, boards, who will be personally responsible for disposal of them discreetly. The primary object in view is to enable working women to come to the fair. Working women can bespeak a share of the dormitory stock and pay for it according to agreement with the woman small sum weekly laid up by each of two opens. The holders will then know where they are to be received and cared for durng their stay at the fair. This strikes us as an excellent scheme t will be very helpful to many who need

They do say that the Big Four's influence wont cut a very conspicuous figure at the Democratic primaries, this evening. The daughter of a clergyman in Minne apolis disgraced herself and he turned her out of doors. He will continue to pray for the forgiveness of other people's sins. The Salvation Army publishes thirty-on reekly newspapers and five monthly maga ines in thirty-seven different colonies and countries, with a total annual circulation of 45,000,000 copies. Philadelphia is a quiet place, but she is not decaying. fered premiums to induce their employes to have large families. Beginning with this year every workman having more than three children under sixteen years of age, and whose salary does not exceed $407 a year, will receive $4.80 a year for each such child, psyable quarterly.

The big railroads of this country do some business. President Roberts of the Pennsylvania railroad says that his corporation has recently ordered 7,000 new freight cars. These, if nade up into a single train, would reach fifty miles. The manufacturing of these cars will give employment to a large number of men and to have large families. Beginning with

"Why,' I remonstrated, 'I gave you a Alleghany observatory, in a lecture on ser-ial navigation at Pitteburg, took the ground that a system of rapid transit through the air "will materially affect the vital issues of politics, as the great air ships can import and export all kinds of materials and drop them down just where they are wanted without interference from the revenue officers of any country." The Methodist Protestant conference o

Maryland has been agitated over a pro posal to strike out the word "obey" from the marriage ceremony, in the question "Wilt thou obey, love, honor and cherish him in sickness and in health!" There was an appeal to the members of the conference to banish this "relic of a barbari age," but in spite of all that could be said against it, it was retained, and henceforth as before, in the Methodist Protestan church in Maryland, at any rate, brides will be compelled to affirm their prospec tive obedience to their husbands. The amazons of the King of Dahome are the greenest soldiers in the world They are made up of three classes of women-stout maidens who are selected by the king, unfaithful wives who are sent into service instead of being executed, and wives who are so vixenish that their husbands cannot endure them. There are 2,500 of these female soldiers, and everything possible is done to inspire them with cruelty. They take the scalps of their dead enemies, and smear the stocks of their muskets with the blood of their viotims, permitting it to dry in the sun until it is caked into thick layers. The strictest celibacy is enjoined upon them, and any departure from it is punishable by death. If I Could Know If I could know; ah, me! if I could know

That for the space
Of one brief moment, in the long ago,
You gave me place
Above all other women in your heart,
It would not be so hard from you to part. If I could know you hold me dearer yet
Than any one,
And that you nevermore would quite forge
The bright days gone,
I would be more content, and courage gain
In time, perhaps, to live down all the pain. If I could know you feel regret to-day
To see me turn
Away from you and go my weary way,
Then I would learn
To find, perhaps, some comfort in the thought
So full of saddest consolation fraught. If I could know that at some future tide
We two should meet.
And linger for a moment side by side
In converse sweet.
I would not dread this parting as I do.
For hope would trim the light of love for you If I could know that when this life is o'er,
In that bright land
Where all is peace, our souls should mee
once more,
And understand
Each other better than in days gone by,
I would be more than satisfied to die.

Farming in Burmah. A gentleman now in this city, who was cently a member of the British military police force in Burmah, talks entertainingly of the natives. "The Burmese," he says, "have a curious way of living. They only cultivate the sides of the hills. The hills are covered with timber, which is out down every year and replaced by rice-seed. Then, when the crop is gathered, there comes a rain which washes away the soil, and you cannot plant in the same place for four or five years again. Next year they will go and plant another bit of land and raise more rice. The rice, together with a little fish which they catch in the rivers, and some salt which they buy, form their only food. They will march down two or three hundred miles for the salt, and will carry it up the hills on their backs. They go to the interior in caravans of three or four hundred, and sometimes they will send their slaves down. In the dry seasons they grow tobacco on the sides of the rivers. Sometimes they will gather a crop rivers. Sometimes they will gather a crop and at others it will be swept away. And by the way, let me tell you a curious thin in connection with the subject of tobacco Pobacco from this country is sent into the more civilized districts of Burmah. There it is rolled into fine cigars which you can purchase at two dollars per one hundred. They are better by far than those for which you will pay ten cents apiece over here. We read that the portrait of Cresar Box gis has safely reached Paris, and "Baro Alphonse de Rothschild will allow it to be visited by connoisseurs for some time." That gentleman is not responsible for the brusque form of the announcement, probably. He has, indeed, an absolute right to do what he will with his own, and, in , all sincerity, the public should be grateful to him for letting "connolsseurs" or anyoody else examine his property, though but "for some time." Nevertheless, cul tured readers will feel a shock. This is such a case for them as is the obstruction of ancient and beautiful paths for the lovby an individual. It has been stated with an air of authority that the Italian gov-ernment did not interpose, because it had satisfied itself that the portrait was not that of Cæsar Borgia, and the painter was not Rafaelle. The reason would be excellent for a pawnbroker; it is worse than childish for cultured men. Whoever be that picture was one of the greatest on earth. Those who have seen will never earth. Those who have seen will never forget it, if they were worthy of their good fortune. And now the glorious thing will be beheld no more of the world at large, unless Baron de Rothschild thinks proper to lend it from time to time for public exhibition. But the incident suggests a larger and graver question. Once more, we learn, the Pope is discussing his flight from Rome. Will he take the treasures of the Vatican with him and bury them in some spot to which no travelers them in some spot to which no travelers would resort, nnless to pay him a visit? They are the property of the Papal See, we apprehend. Yet to remove them would be robbing the universe.

"Did you ever see a smoke blossom!" seked an old smoker. "Well, the way to atmosphere and then watch it. The smoke making the ring revolves toward the center as you look toward it. While it is floating away a part of the ring shoots slowly away from the rest, forming a loop. When the two sides of this loop come almost together the loop seems to burst at its apex and a lily-shaped blossom appears there. Sometimes this blossom will break up into other small loops and they will produce smaller smoke blossoms, as did the larger one. I can't account for it, but a smoke ring invariably bears these queer blossoms."

TUG-OF-WAR TO-NIGHT

At the Democratic Primaries. The grand tug-of-war between the democratic factions takes place to-night. The hottest fight will be for the position of county delegate, and it will be the test of the strength of the "Big Four". The friends of Alexander Troup claim that they will elect their delegates easily. The general impression among the disinterested ones is that the "Big Four"-Troup combination will be overwhelmingly defeated. The fact that Mr. Troup's busifeated. The fact that Mr. Troup's business interests are not in this state, and that he is practically a resident of Rochester is operating to his disadvantage. It is also claimed by those who are opposed to Mr. Troup that he has never had the interest of the party at heart, and that he has used the party to further his own personal ends

In nearly all the wards two tickets will be run and a bitter fight will be made. The fight will be hottest in the Fourth, Seventh and Twelfth wards. It is said that the Third, Mr. Troup's own ward, will go against him. The defeat of his candidate in the recent aldermanic election is cited. There is much feeling in the Seventh ward for and against Mr. Troup, but it is the opinion of many shrewd politicians of the Seventh that his power in that ward has been broken, but doubtless a hard fight will be broken, but doubtless a hard fight will be made and the majority either way will be small. These are the two largest democratic wards in the city and in them the fight will be warmest. There are two other wards, however, in which the contest will be well fought. They are the Fourth and the Twelfth. Both these wards have been alternately carried by the Troup faction and the Osborn faction. The majorities at the primaries in these wards were always small, hardly ever exceeding a hundred in either ward. Of the other wards little can be said, but it can be safely stated that in none of them will the Troup faction have a walkover, and in Exercises of the day—Comrades Theron R. THE ALTERED FIGURES. (r. Waldron Emphatic in His Bental

Stoddard's Opinion.
The charge against Mr. Waldron to the ffect that he altered certain figures in the ecords of the board of public works was nuch talked about yesterday all over town. The talkers were very reluctant to believe hat there was any foundation for the harge beyond the fact that alterations had been made in the figures. The general dea seemed to be that Mr. Waldron was a man of too much integrity and of too clear a head to do such a thing, especially as it could hardly fail to be discovered and reset upon him.

Mr. Dailey when asked concerning the matter said that his attention was called to the fact that the figures had been altered. He looked at the book in the presence of witnesses and after satisfying himself that there had been alterations called in Mr. Doolittle and together they studied the records and made the discoveries that were reported by Mr. Dailey Wednesday evening. Mr. Dailey further said that at no time had the book been in his hands withcont witnesses hearing present.

dron a chance to explain or even be heard. If that is not the way honest men do. I say to me the matter looks suspicious. I do not for one moment believe that if the counsel had proof of the charges they preferred they would have kept it secret. On the other hand, they would not have hesitated to have brought criminal proceedings in court, which rested entirely in their hands, and have given the matter the greatest publicity. It would have been for their interest to do so. Honest men with faith in their cause would have taken this course as the best and only way of procedure. Men who had no faith in what they alleged would most probably consider Pioneer council No. 1, O. U. A. Mr. Cometock was a man of great business capacity and integrity, as the fact that twenty years from the time he learned the carriage making trade he was proprietor of the establishment shows. THE FROGS OF WINDHAM. The First Production of This Comi-Opera in This City Witnessed by a Large Audience at the Hyperion Last Evening-The Production

The first production of "The Frogs o Windham" in this city was witnessed at the Hyperion last evening by a crowded house. The production, which is for the benefit of the Grace hospital, was looked forward to with considerable curiosity or account of the reputation that the piece had acquired both in Connecticut and New York state, and also on account of the uniqueness of the incidents on which it is founded. It was on the whole an exeedingly creditable performance.

The opening number of the opera is a chorus, "Welcome Home," in which the entire chorus of one hundred voices join. It welcomes the safe arrival at Norwich of

I have no hesitancy in saying that coming as the charges did I did not for one moment believe in their sincerity. I had no chance to confer with Mr. Waldron, but my estimation of his moral character was such that I could not conceive of his doing any such thing, and it was with no hesitation that I challenged Mr. Dailey to prosecute him if he believed the charges were true. DEATH OF L. F. COMSTOCK.

An Old and Respected Business Man of New Haven Dies at His Home on George Street.

LaFayette F. Comstock died yesterday afternoon at about 1:30 at his home, 335 George street, aged nearly eighty-three. He had been in poorer health than usual for a year or two, owing to advancing years, and for the past three or four weeks had been confined to the house. The cause of his death was debility consequent upon old age. He leaves a wife and one all along been under the personal direction of Mr. Burton K. Leavitt of Yale '23, who is the composer. He has been considerably assisted by N. W. Leavitt and Professor Loomis.

To Mrs. E. S. Gaylord is due, however, the greatest credit for the successful result of the whole performance. In the large amount of work and the imm-use number of minor detaiss which an amateur production of this kind incurs she has been the managing head, displaying anew the executive ability which has been called upon in many occasions of charitable and church work effort in this city.

The incident which auggested the librette to Mr. Leavitt is well known all over the country. Few incidents occurring in America have been so widely circulated. Without she aid of newspapers or pictorial illustrations it was berne to every part of the land. It was sumg in song and ballad; it was related in histories; it served as a standing joke in all circles and seasons. Let a son of Windham penetrate to the uttermost parts of the earth, he would find that the story of the frog-fight had preceded him. The Windham bull frogs have achieved a world wide reputation and with Rome's goose, Putnam's wolf and a few other favored animals will ever hold a place in popular memory and favor.

This was the sixty-sixth performance of the plece. It has never before been so elaborately staged, and with good reason it can be said that this performance was a success in every respect. Among those in the boxes were noticed Frank H. Spetry, Joseph Porter and party, Lucius Tuttle, Mrs. C. Berry Peets, Miss Bradley was encored and called out before the curtain twice, Miss Bradley of Howell and called out before the curtain twice, Miss Bradley, F. S. Woodruff, W. S. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the brida, 3140 Lake Park avenue, where the wedding breakfast was served, while an orchestra rendered several selections. Among the friends present from New Haven were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Day, Mrs.

T. G. Bennett and Miss Bennett, Miss Rubie Osborn, Miss May Sargent, Mr. Rus-sell Sargent, Mr. Osborn Day and Mr. W. F. Day, jr. The bride and groom left this afternoon for New York and other eastern points. They will make their home in New Haven.

Good Sale of Seats. The sale of tickets for the minstrel performance in behalf of the Hebrews in this city who are suffering on account of lack of employment is progressing finely. The minstrel show, too, promises to be one of considerable excellence. The general ad-mission tickets that have been sent around may be exchanged at the box office for re-served seats.

GIDEON WELLS WATCH.

Chirtleth Anniversary of Farragut's Victory.

This evening the Gideon Wells Watch Naval association of New Haven will celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the passage of Forts St Phillips and Jackson below New Orleans by Ad Philips and Jackson below New Orleans by Ad-miral Farragut. The exercises will be held in the Swedish hall in the Boardman building, cor-ner Chapel and State street. Commodore B. S. Osborn, of the National Veterans' association, the only survivor of Admiral Farragut's staff, will address the association; also Shipmate Rev. Samuel Alman of the Farragut association, New York city, who is an attractive and eloquent speaker. peaser.

The Swedish society has made elaborate preparations for their reception. Music will be fur ished by a male trio, also by members of the wedish society.

Contest for Fourth Delegate. The republican town convention was held in Veru hall, Orange street, at 8 hundreds of people despite the storm, o'clock last evening, a large number of the delegates being present. Ex-Alderman Chandler was elected chairman and T. H. McDonald secretary. The call for the meeting was read, after which on motion of Alderman Hiller the chairman appointed Messrs. Hiller, Gessner and Parsons the committee on credentials. The committee after investigating reported that there were 59 out of the 69 delegates present. Councilman Parsons immediately placed in nomination the chairman of the town in nomination the chairman of the town committee, James Bishop, as the first of the four delegates to Hartford. The nomination was immediately seconded and one of the delegates moved that the secretary be instructed to cast the unanimous ballot of the convention for Mr. Bishop. To this mode of procedure Mr. W. H. Pierpont objected and desired that the ballot be taken in the usual way. Amos Beers moved that an informal ballot be taken, and in doing so said that he most heartly endorsed the nomination of Mr. Bishop.

A. G. Snell, E. A. Chatfield and I. M. Ullman were appointed as tellers, after A. G. Snell, E. A. Chatfield and I. M. Ullman were appointed as tellers, after which the informal ballot was taken, resulting in 57 votes being east, of which 29 were necessary to a choice. The ballot showed that Mr. Bishop had 56 votes and Julius C. Cable 1. On motion of Mr. Pierpont the ballot was made formal and the selection of Mr. Bishop as first delegate unanimous.

The latter stated that in his opinion Mr. Pickett would decline to serve on account of personal reasons.

Alderman A. Maxcy Hiller then in an eloquent speech placed in nomination J. Birney Tuttle. During the course of his remarks he referred to the work done for the party by the Young Men's Republican club of the city, and stated that some members of the party wanted the "Plumed Knight of Maine" for the standard-bearer at the next election, and that if he was the nominee the state of Connecticut would no longer be a doubtful state, but would wheel into the republican column and roll up a big majority for Mr. Blaine. When Mr. Blaine's name was mentioned there was great applause and the speaker was compelled to desist from speaking while the members of the convention all joined in, giving three rousing cheers for James G. Blaine of Maine. The nomination of Mr. Tuttle was then seconded by Wolf Levy, after which the informal ballot was taken.

Cable was victorious by a small majority.

The state convention to which the delegates were elected will be held in Hartford THE POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE. There is somewhat of a political significance to the choice of delegates made by the republican town convention last even ing. A prominent member of the republican party after the convention last evencan party after the convention last evening said that the delegation was evenly didivided in the interests of Hugh Dailey for a place on the state central committee. He stated that two members of the delegation were emphatically in favor of the reappointment of Hugh Dailey as a member of the state central committee and that the other two were vehemently opposed to his reappointment. It was also stated that Mr. Bishop was a strong candidate for Mr. Dailey's position as member of the state central committee.

"Beacon Lights," a superb military drama is playing here this week to crowded houses. In addition to a very strong cast of acting people, some very fine special scenery, and a wealth of beautiful costumes, there is a superb military band and orchestra. Each day at noon the band, under the direction of a competent leader, will make a short street parade, to be followed by a concert program made up of selections from the most popular composers of the day. Charles Rice, a young New Havener, took the part of Captain William Clay with great success, and Frank Mack's impersonation of General Washington Calhoun brought down the house.

Mr. Marlande Clark will appear the first three nights of next week in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Few persons realize the rapid and con tinued growth of the city of New Haver and its importance as a manufacturing center. Not only are rising walls and towering chimneys telling the tale of the establishing of new industries within our borders, but some of the old lines of man-nfacture are receiving fresh impetus, and by their enlargement and development show that this city has lost none of its old time commercial vigor and value. a show that this city has lost none of its old time commercial vigor and value.

Notably among the latter is The New Haven Carriage and Wagon company, which now embraces the old house of Holcomb Bros. & Co. of River street and The New Haven Carriage company of Franklin street. The elegance of finish and workmanship shown in their products is little short of miraculous, as it appears to one while being shown through their extensive Franklin street repository. The bill having been read, Mr. Chandler the democratic state convention were ow in assembling this morning. Standnoved to amend it by making the term of moved to amend it by making the term of exclusion fifteen years instead of ten years. Mr. Dolph said he disagreed with Mr. Sherman, who had expressed the opinion that the existing exclusion act would not expire till 1894. He quoted provisions of the act of 1884 (amendatory of the act of 1882), and argued that his construction of the law was the correct one.

construction of the act of 1884, but Mr. Dolph insisted that he was right.

Mr. Hoar suggested the unprofitableness of taking up time on that point when a joint resolution could be passed in five minutes extending the act of 1882 till 1894. There was a good deal, he remarked, to be said against the pending measure, and he for one wished to be heard upon the matter.

The convention decided unanimously that all resolutions should be turned in to the committee instead of being read aloud, and Senator David Turpie was then introduced. Senator Turpie in his speech dwelt at length on the tariff.

There were loud cheers when the committee on permanent organization reported. Mr. Dolph seemed to assent to Mr. Hoar's proposition and expressed anxiety to have some practical legislation without ittee on permanent organization reported United States Senator Turple as chairman, and Senator Voorhees, Hugh Dougherty, Charles L. Jewett and Samuel T. Mr. Felton thought it better that there should be, at this time, legislation to exclude the Chinese. He read a speech composed largely of an indictment against forse as delegates-at-large to the national he Chinese race which had, he said, a The platform was then read and adopted

We condemn the so-Mr. Sherman said the house bill, in severity of language, and in its prohibition of the ordinary rights of humanity, went too far. He thought the senate should agree to an amendment extending the present legislation for ten years and let the bill, as thus amended, go to a conference committee and if additional legislation should be deemed necessary it could be recommended by the conference committee. The house bill, he added, was against the spirit of American civilization. called reciprocity policy as a transparent attempt to impose upon the American peo-ple the shadow of commercial freedom for its substance, in order to perpetuate the existing system of licensed spoliation for the benefit of trusts and monopolies which are the chief support of the republican against the spirit of American civilization contrary to all the ideas that had been are the chief support of the republican party.

were 20,000 more of Chinese in the United and legal-tender paper currency at par with With Mr. Sherman's consent Mr. Frye read the following sent to him from San Francisco by C. P. Huntington:
"Since my arrival here I have learned what effect the passage of the Geary bill would have on both Chinese and Americans. Thousands of Chinese in transit across the United States landing at ports We favor the election of United States senators directly by the people and com-mend Senator Turple for his efforts in conmena senator Turple for his efforts in congress to secure this great reform.

We approve the Australian election system introduced in Indiana by the democratic party. It has stood the test of experience and we are in fewer of nder regulations made by the secreta y of Inasmuch as the exemption of the green the treasury in January, 1883, have paid American transportation companies over $350,000 for transportation alone. Should back currency from taxation by national law is not only unjust in principle, but also is the occasion of much fraudulent evasion of local tax laws; and, inasmuch that bill become a law this traffic would go that bill become a law this traffic would go to foreign companies via Canada and Panama. Since the passage of the restriction act the custom house records show 32,000 more departures than arrivals at this port. Hundreds of wealthy Chinese merchants, representing firms here, have gone to China and other countries on business under faith of existing laws having property interests here as interstate transportations are exempted from equitable taxation by the constitu-tional powers conferred on congress concerning interstate commerce, we demand that the Indiana senators and representa-tives in congress use their influence to se-cure the passage of laws making green-backs taxable as other money, and making interstate commerce taxable on the same isting laws, having property interests here terms as domestic courserce.

Resolved, That this convention indorses the wise and patriotic administration of Grover Cleveland; that the presidential valued at hundreds of thousands of dol-lars. The Geary bill would debar them from returning and virtually confiscate their property. Much has been said about thousands of Chinese crossing the boundary. The collectors for British Columbia reported for 1891, 3,275 arrivals at British Columbia ports and 2,277 de-partures for China. I trust that the good business sense of the American people and love of fair play and justice will find expression in congress sufficiently strong to defeat this wicked bill. Our west coast possessions were ob-tained in the first half of this century by Grover Cleveland; that the presidential campaign of 1892 should be conducted on the issue of tariff reform as defined by the presidential message of 1887; that upon this issue Mr. Cleveland is the logical candidate of the democratic party.

Resolved, That the democratic party of Indiana expresses its unalterable confidence in an attachment to its gallant leader, Isaac P. Gray; that it holds him to be worthy of any honor in the gift of the American people, and that his name be presented to the convention by the delegation this day appointed, and in the event that the national convention deems the nomination of Mr. Cleveland inexpedient, the delegation is instructed to use the best and greatest men in our country as much or more to secure the commerce of the orient as for the territory itself. California has the best climate in the world and her soil is unsurpassed. So if the commerce of the four hundred million peo-ple of China is not distarted it can be said that they (the great men who secured Cali-fornia to the republic) builded better than Mr. Sherman resumed his argument.

The United States, he said, had a vast commerce with China, amounting to many millions a year. If this bill were passed China would have no diplomats and no consuls here and the United States would have no commercial relations with China. The city of Vancouver would soon, under this draconian system, rival San Francisco in commerce and trade. If this bill be-The nomination of a candidate for gov-ernor being in order J. G. Shenklin, Wason J. Niblack and Mortimer Nye were each placed in nomination with tokens of enthusiasm, but the wildest demonstration of the day took place when Claude Mat-thews of Clinton was presented as the "farmer candidate." His followers leaped ame a law Americans residing in China would have to leave that country. If the United States were ex-cluded from commercial relations to their feet en masse and gave cheer after cheer. When the roil call began Mr. Matthews forged ahead from the beginning. This was a great surprise to the Shanklin people, as that gentleman, by posing as the Cleveland candidate, had recently developed great strength. The balwith China the commerce of that empire would go to fill the coffers of European nations. Mr. Sherman denounced the bill as a violation of the treaty with China.

The commercial rivals of the United States, he said, would be glad to have the measure enacted into law.

Mr. Hale inquired as to the present diplomatic relations with China.

Mr. Sherman did not know of any disturbance of them.

Hr. Hale put his inquiry in another form—his evident object being to draw out some expression of opinion as to Mr. Blair's status.

Mr. Sherman simply replied that the United States had an ambassador (Mr.
Denby) in China.

Mr. Hoar asked him whether the present diplomatic relations with China were as complete and cordial as with other coun-never heard anything to the contrary. He then declared the bill was so wrong that it was incapable of being amended. It would only stir up ill feeling and probably lead to the breaking up of diplomatic relations with China.

Mr. Wilson argued against the house bill and contrasted it with a bill passed by congress in 1868 declaring expatriation the inherent right of all people. The day after the approval of that act, he said, a treaty was signed between the United States and China declaring the same principle.

Mr. Butler said the substitute was harsh enough, but the bill was a disgrace to this country.

Mr. Chandler took the floor.

Mr. Sherman proposed that a vote be taken on the bill at 5 p. m., but Mr. Call objected. Claude Matthews, the nominee for governor, is forty-seven years old. In 1890 he was elected secretary of state by a plurality of 20,000. He has always been a democrat and never engaged in any other business than of farming. He is a member of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association and is expected to receive great support from the agricultural organizations.

Mr. Hoar obtained consent to have the and Mary of Virginia taken up for action to-morrow, as he was interested in it and expected to ask on Monday next for leave of absence for the remainder of this ses-Adjourned at 5:40.

Palmer, when he learned that his misdeed had been found out, exclaimed: "Oh God I wish I had shot myself." He acknowledged his guilt. The stealing had been carried on for five years in a systematic nanner. Charles L. Tiffany, the head of Tiffany & Co., and James F. Palmer, the prisoner's father, were close friends. The elder Palmer died in 1878, leaving his business to his son. The Palmers manufac-tured fine bronze goods for Tiffany & Co. and rendered the firm many large bills. The son was manager for the elder Palmer and did a great deal of the business. On account of the friendship between the account of the friendship between the elder Palmer and Charles Tiffany the usual system of auditing bills was not used in the settling of the accounts. When old Mr. Palmer died the same courtesy and loose way of conducting business was conferred on the son, who abused the confidence reposed in him. On Monday last a discrepancy was discovered in a bill rendered by the prisoner on the 16th inst. for $240. The items only footed up $220. The bill had been checked with the initials of A. C. I'l had nervous prostration in its fullest sense. I was in such shape I could not walk two blocks without resting, and would have severe dizzy spells at any time. My stomach was irritable and weak. I would have shooting pains all over my body anywhere and at any time; also chilly feelings, and at other times hot flashes. I could not control my nervousness, I was tired all the time and I had a soreness across the back. My sleep was restless and seemed to do me no good. I had a dropping in the throat and a tendency to hawk and spit, with soreness through the eyes. "Now, after a short time under Dr. Roth's treatment, all my bad feelings are gone. I can walk a mile and sleep, eat and do pretty much as I please, and can say that anyone suffering from the effects of the grip, malaria, or any chronic disease had better take Dr. Roth's treatment, as it is thorough and reasonable."

Mr. Watrous lives at 247 Howard avenue, and this statement can be easily verified. He also lived at Meriden twelve years.

FOR YALE'S INFIRMARY. Neilson Plays a Girl's Part Magnificently-Fine Costumes - The Mask and Wig Club's Coming Entertainment Here. In reference to the production of "Mr. and Mrs. Cleopatra" by the Mask and Wig club of the University of Pennsylvania which is to be repeated at the Hyperion Monday night next for the benefit of the Yale infirmary, the Philadelphia North American, in a long review, says:

American, in a long review, says:

To praise the performance as it most deserves would be to praise every feature, every dance, every specialty, and every one of the eighty performers who took part. Of the principals it is difficult to say who won the highest honors. In addition to Mr. Kendrick, Mr. Frederick Brooke Neilson appeared for the first time in his varied career in a girl's part. He played Cleopatra, and played it with his usual skill and discretion. It was something new to see him in a female role, and many new to see him in a female role, and many in the audience who had laughed at him in the audience who had laughed at him in comic parts were prone to regard his "straight" acting as intentional burlesque. But when he appeared in the second act dressed in a marvellous wedding gown and looking "simply fascinating," the audience gave way, acknowledged his remarkable versatility, and decided that he could "play a girl's part out of sight." That was the description overheard given by some endescription overheard given by some en-thusiast in the lobby during an entracte. Mr. Neilson is the present manager of the Mask and Wig and the author of "Mr. and Mrs. Cleopatra." His talents seem to extend in every direction, for in the writing tend in every direction, for in the writing of his play he has shown an aptitude for plot invention and clever dialogue of no small measure, and the orchestration of the music in the burlesque—for all of which Mr. Neilson is responsible—gives evidence of uncommon musical ability.

Mr. Albert Bartram Kelley appeared as Michael J. Magheraty. His role was what theatrical people call "fat," and he made the most of his every opportunity. In a clever Irish make-up Mr. Kelley was constantly amusing, and his original song, "The County Antrim Ball," for which the music was written by Mr. E. D. Beale, made a great hit. His dialect was incomparable, and from the beginning to the end of the play he acted with an unobtrusive skill which showed the true artistic instinct. Mr. Kelley is without doubt one stinct. Mr. Kelley is without doubt one f the best smateur character comedians

The second comedy role, that of Marc Antony, was played by Mr. Edward Brooks, ir., with a quiet humor, which showed that the confidence reposed in him had not been misplaced. Brooks made a big hit in a small part in "Miss Columbia" last year, and last night big capabilities were further. and last night his capabilities were further demonstrated.

Mr. David Lewis, jr., one of the "new men," played the part of William Shakespeare with a well studied dignity of manner and grace of diction, and quoted from his own plays with much assiduity and evident satisfaction. Mr. S. M. Kendrick was capital in a small Irish part, and showed a thorough familiarity with the business of the stage. He has a brilliant future in the premization of which he is now one of the the stage. He has a brilliant future in the organization of which he is now one of the youngest members. Mr. A. G. Rosengarten played Misphragumathis with taste and skill. The part was not a large one, but Mr. Rosengarten lifted it into prominence. Mr. Thomas Robb, jr., and Mr. John K. Mohr were old favorites seen again with much pleasure, and Mr. F. P. Steel, jr., Mr. T. E. Wiedersheim, Mr. E. B. Wilford and Mr. J. W. Wister were available in the and Mr. J. W. Wister were excellent in the little they had to do. In young Mr. Steel the club has a valuable recruit. He is a the club has a valuable recruit. He is a good singer, a capital dancer and a musician of no mean ability. He is only a freshman, too.

In every detail last night's performance was marked by the same "professional" care which has characterized every Mask and Wig production. The costumes, made by half-a-dozen different people, were numerous and exceedingly beautiful, and the effective make-ups on the stage the effective make-ups on the stage showed traces of the skillful work always done by Anthony Boch. The orchestra was very large, and was controlled by "Eddie" Beale, who has directed the Grace Booth. lask and Wig music ever since the club first came into existence, and the souvenir programs, designed and executed by the Avil company, were a triumph of the print-brilliant feature of the show, and if space permitted it would be pleasant to praise the share of each individual member thereof.

Rumored That Principal Thomas Recommendations Will be Considered at the Meeting of the Board of Education To-Night-Changes a the High School-Entrance Withou It is reported that at the meeting of the board of education this evening the masterly report of Principal Thomas will come up for discussion. The report was prepared after a conference of three afternoons between the principal and the teachers of the high school, and the finality reached was the unanimous opinion of the teachers. The changes in the curriculum are generally regarded as wise and beneficial by the members of the board and will probably be adopted. The matter of admitting pupils to the high school on the recommendation of the principals of grammar schools bids fair to elicit considerable discussion. The opinion of those who have really given thought to educational matters and are capable of passing an intelligent opinion on the matter is becoming more and more in favor of frequent examinations to test the efficiency of the work of both instructor and teacher, and annual examinations, which examinations with a suppose accomplished with college semiwhich anyone acquainted with college semi-annual examinations knows, are often passed, and creditably too, by men who have shirked the work along through the nave shirked the work along through the term, but who have done some assiduous cramming a few days before the examina-tion, is passing into disuse. The knowledge gained in this way is not only at once forotten, but the power of retentiveness is n the end damaged by it. The only changes at the high school during the past year have been modifications of the marking system, changing the system from a numeral to a literal, and marks for deportment and for scholarship being Mr. Utley advised the clergymen to pre-pare a petition and present it to the com-missioners, who would then grant them a kept separate.

Jonn Tryon was made chairman and George Carrier clerk. All present expressed a desire to have the electric road extended to South Glastonbury, and the opinion was that the extension would pay the company. Under its charter the company has power to leave the highway and go across lote, but South Glastonbury people think that it would be better for the business of the road, as well as more convenient for the people, if the tracks were laid on the highway. A number of manufacturers told the meeting that they could give the road a considerable amount of freight. Resolutions were introduced by J. H. Hale and unanimously adopted asking for the extension desired.

Rice is a member, have reported an act which will be presented to the next legislature for the better improvement of the roads of the state. The proposed act contemplates a state highway commission of three members which shall have charge of the roads of the state and interest the people in new methods and recommend certain ways of improvement. The members of the committee, think that there will be general acquiescence in the proposition from every town except those of the rural districts. The matter of expense in repairing the roads is a heavy tax on country towns, and as a natural consequence Connecticut is overrun with a mighty web of poor highways. Yesterday's Waterbury Republican says: The Meriden Journal says in a leading editorial: Discussing the resignation of Lieutenant Colonel Lee of the Second regiment, C. N. G., the Waterbury Republican says the fact is, and no effort is made to conceal it, that the New Haven papers are jealous because the regimental headquarters are in Waterbury instead of their own city. True enough. And it always was so and always will be so, we fear. It was so when Colonel Graham of Middletown was in command, and before that when Colonel Bario of this city was the commanding officer of the regiment Located in New Haven it is held, whether rightfully or not, that the headquarters should be in that city—in fact, that it is for the best interests of the regiment that the colonel should be a New Haven man. And be the outside colonel ever so capable, be he even so able and popular an officer as Colonel Doherty—and he is one of the best the regiment ever had—he never can depend upon the same hearty support of the New Haven officers that would be given to a commandant from that city; indeed, it is frequently all he can do to thwart the many schemist to force him to resign. The Second is not alo se in this matter. The same state of affairs pievails in other regiments similarly situated, as for instance in the First, where recently a Hartford combination was formed and successfully worked against Colonel Erichson of New Britain, a very good officer, with the result that now he is out and a Hartford man is at the head of that regiment. nembers put in an appearance.

The new cathedral was projected by the late Bishoß McFarland, who died about 1874. It was proposed by him when the present diocese of Hartford was created. There are now over 200, 600 Roman Catholics in the state, most of whom have contributed in some way to the erection of the cathedral. The building cost about $500,000 and is entirely free from debt. The building is of the early pointed Gothic style of architecture, and is 234 feet long north and south by 1:8 feet wide in the transept, and 33 feet in the nave. The two towers on the front add 60 feet to the width of the massive building on Farmington avenue. The land was purchased by Bishop McFarland of the late Major James Gooden in 1872. The price paid was $75,000, which included also the land on which the convent stands. Ground was broken Wednesday, August 30, 1876, and the first stone was laid Saturday, September 30, in that year The ceremonies were grand and impressive at the laying of the corner stone on Sunday, April 29, 1877. The work progressed rapidly so that the basement was blessed by Bishop Galberry, who succeeded Bishop McFarland, on February 10, 1978. He died suddenly in New York about three years later, and was succeeded by the present head of the diocese, the Right Rev. Bishop Lawrence T. McMahon, who was consecrated in the basement of the cathedral August 10, 1879. Under his management and supervision the g. eat work, begun nearly twenty years ago, has been brought to completion. The architect of the cathedral is P. C. Keeley of Brooklyn, N. Y.
