n the case of Union county, New Jersey law giving county boards authority ssue bonds for the construction of mac adamized or other improved roads Against the strongest opposition from the farmers the board of freeholders in Union county voted to issue bonds to the value of $300,000 for the construction of thirtyfive miles of macadamized highways through the county, selecting sections of roads for this purpose that were most important lines of travel. The farmers of he county predicted financial ruin as a result of this extravagance. As the work progressed it was found that there was not ugh money to properly complete it, and against continued protests the county poard issued $50,000 worth more of bonds nd the roads were made the finest in the United States. A statement of the result both interesting and valuable. The oads have been built a year and not one armer, it is said, can be found who regrets the expenditure. The markets are ow always accessible to them, and busiess men are able to move farther and farher out from the cities and villages with consequent rise in the value of property verywhere. Land that before "went begging for a purchaser at $100 an acre finds a ready sale at $175 and $200 an acre

It would perhaps not be wise for all the ounties in the United States to closely nitate this example, but there are many (eight in Connecticut) which could profitably go in for better roads than they have It is to be hoped that the movement for etter roads in this State will be actively parried on until there is at least one good road in all parts of the State.

Parsons of Hartord, president of the Society for Savings, lirector of the Connecticut Fire Insurance company, the Connecticut River Banking company, and various other corporations, counsel for several such concerns, and trustee of a number of large estates. He knows what he is talking about when he esys: "The popular notion—probably the notion of many shareholders, depositors, and policyholders—seems o be that a director should be an active manager of the affairs of the corporation, with a keen oversight of all its transactions, conversant with its accounts, watchful of its assets and vigilant to prevent mistakes or wrong doing. Now it should be clearly understood-and it is the purpose of this paper to explain and emphasize the fact—that this ideal director does not and cannot exist. In reality he can know next to nothing personally of the details of the business." Mr. Parsons Skimton—Yes, indeed. She introduced me to Mrs. Terminus, the railway mangoes a step further and remarks: "But it may be asked if the duties and abilities of directors are so limited, whether directors in moneyed corporations are of any sergoes a step further and remarks: "But it vice at all. Ordinarily, in my judgment, they are not." He is astonished at his own stupidity and folly in ever consenting tells what should be done: If the directors are doing good service to stockholders or policyholders, payment for that service is legitimate expense; if they are useless, drop them altogether, or absolve them from all responsibility and blame in any event. G. W. Jones, the cockroach killer, had a funny experience at a local hotel the other day. When he is rigged out in full apparatus to protect his mouth and lungs from the dust and armed with a bull's-eye, he looked every inch a burglar. He was coming out of a room at midnight when he encountered a bell-boy carrying a tray with several bottles of beer and a few brandies on board. The colored youth, in his fright, gave one yell and fell to the floor in a heap. There was a waste of good liquor and some broken glass, which came out of his wages on the next pay day. It took some time to reassure the nes says he often has experiences of this kind. In speaking of the reach nuisance he said: "The animals like damp houses. BIRMINGHAM, May 30.—This has been a great day for the G. A. B. men of these associated villages. Small squads could be seen all the morn lages. Small squads could be seen all the morning driving out to the different suburban cemeteries to decorate the graves of their departed ones. At 1 o'clock the march was commenced for the Birmingham cemetery, where an hour was spent in decorating the many graves there. From here the line was formed again and marched to the Sterling opera house, where they listened to an able address by Principal Winfred M. Peck of Straford. The opera house was crowded to the doors and the G. A. R. men expressed themselves as highly pleased with the speaker's remarks. All the stores and factories have been closed the entire day. At Ansonia, after the graves had been decorated, they marched to the Ansonia opera house, where an able discourse was rendered by Mr. Baldwin of New Haven.

Mr. George A. Dickerman, the florist, was the recipient of many congratulations from our leading townspeople yesterday on the resnarkably beautiful and extensive display of flowering and foliage plants he is making, the finest between New York and Boston.

The Rev. Mr. Wyatt, formerly a New Haven pastor, who gave the Memorial day address in Winsted Sunday evening at the Methodist church, was chaplain of the 109th New York Volunters, of which regiment Secretary Tracy, navy department, was the colonel.

Amos T. Harrington, Yale '92, is at his home in Lyons, N. Y., in a critical condition from tyhoid fever. About two weeks ago he was taken with typhoid-malarial fever and removed to his home. He became worse rapidly, and now there is little hope of his recovery.

Robert Paimer Huntington, who carried off the championahip in the doubles at the Yale tennis tournament last summer, and who is to marry Miss Henen Gray Dinsmore, daughter of William B. Dinsmore of New York, on Wednesday next, gave his farewell bachelor dinner Saturday night.

First Yesterday's Winsted Citizen says: "Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Catlie, together with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Davis, are in New Haven taking in the sights of the Elm city, sniffing salt air and eating roast clams beside the blue waters of Long Island sound. Mr. Catlin and Mr. Davis went on their bleycles, while the ladies went on the cars."

Young William Vanderbilt, who died on May 23 of typhoid fever, was the owner of the Burgess 80-tooter Gladys, and last year built the 46. gess 30-footer Gladys, and last year built the 45-footer liderim. the Union-A Large Throng Wit-nesses the Ceremonics-A Memor-able Day for the Flower City. ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 30 .- To-day will ver be a Memorial day in the history of lochester. Never before has the city been se crowded, and never before has it enter tained so distinguished a company. Public and private business was suspended, and everybody took a holiday. It is estimated that 250,000 people took an active part in the various demonstrations. Of this number fully 100,000 came from the surround ing country. The president was enthusiastically received everywhere and was compelled to bow his acknowledgments to almost continuous cheering. The weather was bright and fair. The feature of the day was the dedication of a handsome monument in Washington square in honor of the soldiers and sailors of Monroe county who is revived in the southern states. No yoke upon the defeated, the conquered, except that yoke which we wore, comrades, when we resumed our place as citizens. The obligation to obey all laws was a condition of the peacetul citizenship. We lay no other burden upon them. We do not burden our people to maintain standing armies. No nation in the world is able to wave war on land with the

They ran down the harbor and luffed out by the Point. When they got out clear of Marblehead Rock, Nat Hersechoff luffed the Handsell nearly up to windward and began to eat out by the Hawk. The new craft, though pinched at first, soon got to going through the head seas well, and inside of half a mile by the wind she had taken the lead well to windward. Eighth round—Jackson was now perspiring freely, but he seemed to be fresher than his opponent. Jackson banged away at Slavin for all he was worth and had the dent Harrison. He said: Mr. Chairman, comrades of the Grand Army and fellow citizens: Some internal conditions affecting my own strength admonish me that I should own strength admonish me that I sh speak to you this afternoon with great brevity. This great marching column, in which these veterans of the war have trod again to the old music and followed again, with faithful hearts the old flag that they with faithful hearts the old flag that they may do honor to those brave comrades who were called upon to make a greater sacrifice than we for the flag we dearly love, these squadrons, platoons and companies of the children of your public and parochial schools, marching to the music of drum and fife and bugle, and the chearing multitude the great seat that the state of the school of the schoo

Jackson was shooting his right with great effect and had the best of the exchanges when the two men were ordered to their game, but he was weaker than he looked.

After a few exchanges Jackson landed a swinging right hander on Slavin's throat, sending him against the ropes. Before Slavin was able to recover Jackson was on him with both hands. Slavin became dazed from the effects of this terrible punishment. The perms founds him all property of the perms of the perms. cheering muititude, the great open-hearted expression which we saw as we moved along your streets, all testify to the fact that our constitution, our laws and that glorious flag that symbolizes them surely set upon a granite foundation. If we fail, comrades, to meet any action of peril which might be in the pathway of this nation it seems to me that the trundlebeds ishment. The negro fought him all around the ring and succeeded in knocking him out in the first two minutes of the round. Jackson was then declared the victor, amid terrible cheering. of the country would furnish its defenders. War is not attractive to our people. No, our people are smitten with love for peace. It took a great deal to separate these home-loving, peaceful people from their homes. But when the moment came and the dreaded war was a present fact, with what magnificent sacrifice, with what untiring fidelity every family tie and every commercial interest was put beneath the supreme duty to save the nation and redeem the flag. Out of this war we have won a manner of respect that would not have otherwise been possible. We brought into full participation of the glories of the Union those who had sought to destroy it, and it gladdens my heart now to believe that the love of the old flag is revived in the southern states. No yoke War is not attractive to our people. Jackson tipped the scales at 196 pounds and Slavin at 185 pounds. Jackson's seconds were "Parson" Davies, Joe Choynski and Jem Young. Siavin's seconds were his brother Jack, Tom Williams and Tom Burrows. Mr. Augle was referee.

All arrangements for the fight were admirable, and the contest was one of the fairest seen in a long time.

At the close of the fight Slavin presented a woful appearance. He lay with h's eyes closed. His face was badley swolen and discolored and his body was covered with blood which flowed from cuts caused by Jackson's blows. Jackson, too, had lost some blood and showed marks of terrific encounter, but he was in a comparatively fresh condition. he was in a comparatively fresh condition. He walked away without assistance and was apparently able to continue the struggle much longer.

During the fight Slavin soon abandoned his rushing tactics in favor of cautions sparring. When it came to out fighting, he was no match for Jackson, who dis-

A VERY FAIR CONTEST. Jackson Defeats Slavin in the Tenth Round Before the National Club in London-Lord Lonsdale Open

LONDON, May 30 .- The National club was crowded to suffocation to-day with spectators anxious to witness the Slavin-Jackson fight. Two hundred policemen kept order outside the club house, where a surging mass of people had assembled. It was ten minutes after 11 o'clock when Jackson and Slavin appeared in the ring. Lord Lonsdale opened the proceedings with a speech and the fight began. In the first round Jackson led off with a light tap on Slavin's body. Prolonged fighting at a great rate, as had been ex-closed.

Third round—The round opened amid intense excitement. Jackson kept prodding Slavin in the mouth and the left eye, and the eye showed sings of closing. Slavin kept bearing in, but try as he would be always failed to land his dangerous right on his antagonist. In the last minute of the round a splendid rally oc-curred when Slavin hit harder and Jackson more frequently. Both were hard at work when time was called. Many bets were won and lost at this stage, as many wagers had been made that the fight would not last three rounds. Fourth round—Slavin was the first to work. Jackson seemed to have already taken his rival's measure. Slavin rushed and met the negro's left, Jackson having a shade the best of the exchange. Fifth round—Both men started in and fought through the round at a terrific pace, each doing his utmost to win.

Sixth round—Slavin worked Jackson into a corner and landed two heavy blows on his ribs. The negro jumped out and landed a stinging left and right on Slavin's

Boston, May 30.-The Princeton ball nine played a return game with Harvard on Holmes' field, Cambridge, this vard outplayed the Princeton men at every point and won easily. It was the first time in three years that Princeton has been represented on Harvard's field, and a crowd of more than twelve thousand people welcomed the visitors when they ran upon the field. The reception showed that whatever feeling may have existed against Princeton in the past has entirely disappeared, leaving only the kindest feelings toward the Jerseymen. As in the fighting at a great rate, as had been expected. Jackson, though he did not hit with much force, kept his long left arm constantly in Slavin's face. Twice Slavin clinched and was ordered by the referee to break away. He then tried to land his right on Jackson, but the latter jumped away, and the round ended evenly.

Second round—The instant time was antagonist. But Jackson always had his antagonist. But Jackson always had his long left arm in Slavin's face. Three times Slavin rushed to close quarters with the same futile result. Jackson then took the initiative and drove his left and right in quick succession on Slavin's body.

Slavin appeared to be tiring as the round as closed.

Third round—The round account of the game in the second by careless work by Highlands, aided by a hit by Trenchard. Two wild pitches by the same player also gave Princeton two of her three runs for the ninth inning. But to off-set that work Highlands caught two men napping at first in the pretitest style imaginable. Harvard had men on first and no difficulty in fathoming Young's curves after the opening inning and in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings they batted freely, earning the game fairly. The visitors received courteous treatment throughout the game, even when the tide seemed to be setting against Harvard. ## AN ENGINEER'S EXPERIENCE.

Another Very Striking Case.

How Engineer Spencer Recovered from a Severe Case of Malaria, Kidney Irrita-tion, Rheumatism and Catarrh, with Deafness and Headaches, After Being Treated One Month with Dr. Roth's Well Known.

"When I called on Dr. Roth I was all discouraged, for I had suffered a great deal and had begun to give up all hope of being myself again," said Mr. S. S. Spencer, who lives at 24 Leonard street, New Haven, Conn., and has been engineer for the well known firm of Strong, Barnes & Hart for the past eighteen years. Mr. Spencer is an old resident and a native of New Haven, and his testimony can be relied on. Continuing, he said: "I was all played out. I had severe pains in the back of my neck, under the shouder blades and across the small of my back.

UNION MEETING IN ORANGE. The State Law and Order League-What the League is Doing-Its Ob-jects and What Has Been Done. A union meeting of the Congregational ists and Methodists of Orange was held Sunday evening in the Congregational church, West Haven, under the auspices of the Orange Citizens' Protective association, before which a sermon was delivered by Rev. Clarence W. Greeley, president pro tem of the State Law and Order league. Rev. Mr. Abbott, the Methodist ninister, led in prayer and Mr. Mackrille, esident of the Temperance union in West Haven and secretary of the Orange Law and Order League, introduced the speaker with spirited remarks. Rev. Mr. Abbott further assisted in the services, and concurred the benediction after the conregation had sung "Coronation." Mr. reeley read letters sent by Miss Frances

. Willard and Miss Mary A. Livermore. The leading features of Mr. Greeley's ermon are as follows:
Isalah rlii, 4: "He shall not fall or burn imly, nor be discouraged till he have set adgment in the earth." udgment in the earth."
Who is it that shall not fail, burn dimly Who is it that shall not fail, burn dimly or be discouraged? As the first verse in the chapter shows, the prophet is speaking of the servant of God. Not merely the agitator, the journalist, the teacher or the philanthropist, but the man, who is the "servant" of God, is not to fail, burn dimly or be discouraged till judgment is set in the earth. Certainly the preacher, called for the express purpose of speaking with prophetic power, should be careful to let his light shine for the individual and social (one and inseparable) regeneration of let his light shine for the individual and social (one and inseparable) regeneration of the world. The Law and Order league is only one agency for good; but perhaps no other society has relieved more misery during the present decade. I think that neither the press nor the pulpit should "burn dimly" till it has revealed clearly three things.

three things:
(1.) Some of the obstacles to good order the need of the league.

(2.) How some obstacles are removedwhat the league means and is doing.

(3) What progress, if any, has bee

(3) What progress, if any, has been made.

1. Obstacles. The league maintains that the chief obstacle is this: Certain law-breakers organize and bring their influence to bear, through politics, to prevent a proper administration and enforcement of the laws. Until 1855 the law-enforcing officers in Boston were appointed by the governor and were relatively independent of local politics. This was changed by the amendment of 1855. Hence in 1860 the mob broke up the meeting held to pay respect to the memory of John Brown, and there was no redress, for the local government was tied by political considerations. In those days as often as suitable men were appointed as police commissioners, his honor the mayor simply refused confirmation. Such obstacles to good government indicate real slavery. It is not wholesome law, but the obstacle to the enforcement of the law which interferes with freedom to do right.

At one time several counties, including New York city were savered.

-Six Thousand Persons on the Grounds - Scores of All Games with freedom to do right.

At one time several counties, including New York city, were served by a metropolitan police force, but the system was abolished by the Tweed ring as not subservient enough to local political control. In 1885 a law was enacted by which the control of the police force in Boston was taken from the city authorities and vested in a board appointed by the governor and his council. That has resulted beneficially in Massachusetts. Before that time the board of police commissioners was appointed by the city government, and many saloon keepers were members of the city Played-Notes The Syracuse "Stars" finally succeeded yesterday afternoon in winning one game out of three from the coming champions of the Eastern league. The victors did not have much room to spare, the final score standing: Syracuse 1, New Haven 0. The game was as pretty an exhibition of ball playing as has ever been seen on the local grounds and was thoroughly enjoyed aloon keepers were members of the city ouncil which confirmed the appointments by the 6,000 or more enthusiasts who were present at the game. The contest was reof the police commission. plete with pretty plays on both sides and When the league began its work more

Said a judge in the city of New Haven:

"It is a farce to sit here and have the evidence in cases smothered."

When the league began its work more than ninety-five per cent. of the liquor cases in Suffolk county—in which Boston is situated—were appealed to the superior court and were disposed of by the district attorney without trial. On the death of Andrew Paxton (who organized the Chicago league in 1877) in 1889, the liquor interests determined to drive the league out of the city; they formed thirteen organizations and put $100,000 into their treasury. At last accounts (October, 1891,) the beer interests in Newark were able to boycott any The crowd was one of the largest ever seen on the local grounds and gave the backers of the home team the most positive kind of assurance that the familiar song of the croakers, "Baseball is dead in New Haven," was but the wild fancyings of a disordered brain. The grand stand was completely packed, so much so in fact that it was impossible to crowd another soul into it. Among the spectators were several hundred ladies, who, with their beautiful and vari-colored dresses and ribbons, made a beautiful and entrancing picture and one which forcibly reminded one of the appearance of the Yale field on the occasion of a championship game between those old rivals, Yale and Harvard. The grand stand was so crowded yesterday that several of the stockholders were content to witness the game from the roof of the grand stand and glad to be able to find even the meager accommodations that the terests in Newark were able to boycott any store or factory in the city, able to elect the sheriff, to select the grand jury and the sheriff, to select the grand jury and effectually prevent the punishment of any liquor-selling law-breaker. In 1890 they went to the New Jersey legislature and tried to repeal the disorderly house act. In St. Paul the ladies presented a petition to the mayor asking that Sunday baseball playing be abandoned. The mayor replied that he liked to see a game himself, and nothing was done. In this same city the mayor encouraged a prize fight against the mayor encouraged a prize fight against the protest of 7,000 citizens. The mayor said that he would protect the prize fight with his 300 police. But the people believed in law, not in slavery to lawlessness; they appealed to the very support of the prize fight with his 300 police. even the meager accommodations that the roof afforded.

even the meager accommodations that the roof afforded.

The game itself was one of those which a wag has justly christened "a heart disease contest," meaning thereby to infer that the excitement consequent upon the closeness of the score was almost sufficient to render the spectators liable to palpitation of the heart. At no time did either club have a "cinch" on the game, and not until the last man had been retired in the last inning was it safe to even attempt to predict the winner. Pretty plays were made in abundance, and the fielding was as near perfect as it could possibly be. The batting on both sides was very light, but the Syracuse men managed to hit the ball when hits were needed, and in consequence succeeded in scoring the only run of the game. The game was also noteworthy from the fact that it was one of the shortest games on record, the actual playing time being only one hour and nine minutes.

Promptly at 4 o'clock Umpire O'Brien, Captain Shannon and Captain Faatz walked to the plate and after a few moments' conversation decided that a hit into aw, not in slavery to lawlessness; they appealed to the governor and—won.

As to the obstacles in Willimantic, a prominent citizen of that place says that the county commissioners made a mighty mistake when they rode rough shod over the no license majority and forced upon that community a prosecuting agent who was not wanted.

walked to the plate and after a few moments' conversation decided that a hit into the crowd, which, by this time, completely surrounded the diamond on all sides, should be good only for two bases. This done, the lean, lank Jay Faatz called out to his men "all ready, boys," and the Salt City exponents of the art of playing baseball took the field. By this time Captain Shannon had picked up a bat which, to his eyes, seemed to be just about right, and was standing at the plate waiting for Coughlin to give him a chance to hit the ball. Finally a ball came over the plate which seemed to suit the captain's fastidious taste and, meeting it with Immoral resorts were tolerated in Ham-den for twenty years, until people laughed at the very thought of removing them Even respected citizens tried to defeat a candidate for grand juror, simply because it was understood that he would try, if elected for that purpose, to enforce the law. 2. Obstacles demand the league.

The league is needed to remove the obstacles. How! What is its purpose, object, method?

We may differ in theology, politics and method, or as to the wisdom of certain ws, but all ought to be interested in the la. "ement of wholesale laws, as law, enfor. 'tizens in spirit and in truth, abidings. "Idle be quite as useful if they preached with the preached of the laws, and the preached with the preached of the laws as laws, as la questionable methods nor personal quarrels nor antigathies.

This is how the league is needed for the removal of obstacles to good government: When Colonel Dudley brough Ms first seven cases before a judge the latter said: "We look with disfavor on prosecutions brought by private individuals". The local team then came in from the field and or prosecutions brought by private individuals."

But when the judge found that those prosecutions were brought in the narts of the Law and Order league he said that they would have the same standing in court as if brought by the officer. Some think that the league's work is narrow; but it never professed to be a panacea. Still all reforms are related. Under the new system in Boston the police force is more efficient in all departments—not simply in regard to temperance. The league is on the way in Massachusetts, and it to a uniform system of law enforcement throughout the state. I do not say that the new system, out the state. led off for them in the next inning, but was soon retired—MacDonald to Faatz. Gruber, he of the "pretzel" curves, followed with a long fly to Urat quhart, which the latter secured, and Heinrich sat down pending his turn to go again into the box. Captain Shannon ended the inning by trying to knock "Connie" Doyle down with a hot it liner, but the latter was equal to the emergency and fielded the nimble guardian of New Haven's second base out at first.

For Syracuse "Billy" Coughlin went out on a long fly to "Phil" Blansfield, Wolfe tempted thannon to make an error, but the latter was above temptation, and fielding the ball to "Beauty" Flanagan, the ravening Wolf was forced into obscurity. Knight then tried to send daylight through "Jim" Donnaily by a harc drive at him, but the latter seriously objected and the "old baseball war horse," with his eight companions, went out in the field.

The New Havens again at this stage of the game determined "to do or die." but their efforts, were of no avail and another cipher was put up on the fence opposite their names. Donneily, the first man up, was retired on an easy grounder. Coughlin to Faatz. Thangan was given his base on balls and went to second on Griffin's sacrifice, on which the latter walked to first. Two men on bases and two out. Can they score? was the question asked by nearly every one of the spectators. The query was soon answered, however, by Cross flying out to MacDonald and retiring the side.

For Syracuse Miller hit a long fly to Blausfield, which the latter took care of Faatz was retired.

Fresident Young wants him to get well and deck to work as soon as possible.

The first night that Secretary Dudley went out with the desettives he found in one liquor shop twenty of the salouth the question saked by nearly every one of the spectators. The query was soon answered, however, by Orose flying out to MacDonald and retiring the side.

For Syracuse Miller hit a long fly to Blausfield, which the latter took care of. Fastz was retired, Donnelly to Flanagan, and Doyle went out in a similar manner.

The fifth inning was also unproductive of runs for both sides for Blausfield going out on a fly to MacDonald, Wells vainly fanning the air three times in succession, and Gruber being out out at first base by "Jay" on an assist from Doyle. In Syracuse's half of the inning MacDonald flew out to Griffin, Urquhart was fielded out, Shannon to Flanagan, and Myers bit a sky scraper to Beecher, which the latter captured after a long run.

The sixth inning opened with Manager Shannon at the bat. His face was marked with grim determination to make a hit. His intentions were good enough, but alsa, after he had hit the ball hard, when he looked up Urquhart having caught the ball, was throwing it in from deep center field. "Handsome" Jinn Donnelly then hit a fly ball in the direction of Fastz. The crowd on the bleachers attempted to "jolly" Jay out of catching it, but it was no use, he caimly held the ball. Flanagan was given a life on an error of Miller, but the gift was plainly not appreciated, for "Sandy" Griffin immediately flew out to Urquhart and the side was retired.

"Well, here's where we will win the game," said Jay to his men as they came in from the field. Whether "Jay" is infallible as a prophet or not no one can say, but certain it is that here they did win the game. Coughlin was the first man up and "Pretzeil" Gruber presented him with his base on balls. "Chicken" Wolf, late of the Louisville aggregation, then made a ascrifice, advancing "Billy" to second, and was himself retired—Shannon to Flanagan. The veteran Joe Kuight then hit one to Donnelly, on which the latter made a very excusable error, and Coughlin was safe at third and the "Ancient Mariner" at first. Two men on boxes and only one out. Mi

The damage was, however, done. Coughlin had scored the run and by it won the game for his club.

The local team tried hard to redeem itself, but the fates were against them and the next three innings saw the men retired in one, two, three order in each inning. The "Stars" in the seventh inning were also retired in one, two, three order, but in the eighth Coughlin was retired, Donnelly to Faatz, Wolf struck out, Knight made a single, but was forced out a few minutes later on Miller's hit to Cross and the game was over with the score standing 1 to 0 in lavor of Syracuse.

Altogether the game was as good a one as any one need to see and the expressions of satisfaction from the spectators was almost unanimous. The features of the game were the pitching of Gruber and Coughlin and the fielding of Shannon, Donnelly, MacDonald and Urquhart. The New Haven Team Breaks Even

The former name, Wooster, commemo considering the weather. Only in one inning were there any runs made, and that was in third, when the home team scored four and Syracuse three. Thus the score stood at the end of the ninth inning. In Syracuse's half of the second the rain came down in torrents and the bleschers were soon vacated. The game was interrupted for about twenty minutes. Cassian did the twirling for the local club, and he acquitted himself very creditably. The features of the game were one-hauded atches by Shannon and Miller (the latter's to take his revenge when he visited New Haven a few years later.

While Wooster had gone to the assistance of the neighboring province of New York, he then being a major-general of militia, he suffered a humiliation few officers would have submitted to, this being the appointment of his junior, Brigadier Putnam, by the Continental congress over him to the rank of major-general, a "anub" which he accepted only through his true loyal zeal for his country's service. He was soon ordered to northern nis true loyal zeal for his country's service. He was soon ordered to northern New York under Major-General Schuyler, and although both true and loyal to their country, but not fraternizing, Wooster was while in command at Montreal to submit to humiliations of which his bleer. submit to humiliations of which his biog-rapher speaks and which is rehearsed in the pages of American revolutionary his-

the Pages of American revolutionary history.

The Fort Hale territory and its surroundings has been called Harrison rock, the Palisades, the Black rock and the Pardee and Gregson farms. Upon it, since early times, evidences of fortifications are still extant, and here the Rock fort, manned by a section of a company of mattrosers (artillerymen) nineteen men and three pieces of artillery, recorded one of the most brilliant actions of the revolution, holding in bay the landing of Tryon's invading force until driven out by the enemy's field piace on the Palisades or Forbes' binff.

The latter name Hale also commemorates out trial, and for his life the British major, Andre, atoned on the gallows.

Andre was immediately graven on marble monument at Westminster, while the memory of the lamented patriot martyr, Hale, whose only regret was that he had not another life to lose in the cause of his country, received hardly any notice until the new Black rock fort, which was completed in 1815, received its name from the United States government, as Fort Hale.

For these reasons, supported by others too numerous to mention, it seems eminently fit here to suggest that these two patriot martyrs' names be still continued and not displayed by others of a more recent date and of less significance.

WALLINGFORD.

Memorial day was generally observed as a holiday, as every factory in town was closed except the Wheel company's. The stores opened for a short time in the morning, but were all closed in the afternoon. The memorial exercises by the G. A. R. were carried out according to the program. The different organizations in line presented a fine appearance. The streets along the line of march were crowded with spectators. At the Center street cemetery the ceremonies were quite impressive. Company K fired volleys over the graves about the soldiers' plot. It was nearly 5 o'clock before the line was dismissed. The Young drum corps of this place will attend the state parade in Bridgeport, June 15, with the A. O. H. of Hamden. Walter Hall is home from Boston for s Walter Hall is home from Boston for a short visit.

Louis Porter will return to Providence this afternoon.

E. F. Steels launched his new craft on the lake yesterday. The invention is a novel one and is built something after the style of a catarmarau, but has three instead of two hulls, placed under a frame on the same principle as the runners to an iceboat. The hulls or boats are controlled by levers, and can be turned at will. The idea of the new craft is to sail closer to the wind than an ordinary sailboat, and its inventor is satisfied with the first trial.

News somes from Newark, N. J., that Fred Barnall, formerly of this town, committed suicide Saturday night by shooting himself with a revolver. The cause of this rash act is not as yet known.

William Gardner is building a sailbeati for Edwin Hobson to be used at Short Beach, where Mr. Hobson owns a cottage and spends much of his time during the summer.

The ball game on the association grounds yesterday afternoon between the Hartfords and the Wallingfords resulted in a victory for the Wallingfords by the one-sided score of 10 to 3. The attendance was not large, owing to the memorial arrecises occurring about the same hour. The score by innings was as follows: short visit.

Death of Silas A. Bradley. News was received here yesterday of the death of Attorney Silas A. Bradley on Sunday in Jacksonville, Fla. Mr. Bradley was several years ago a well known lawyer in several years ago a well known lawyer in this city and is remembered by New Haven lawyers as an honorable, high-minded gentleman and a well read and efficient member of the bar. After removing here he practiced in New York city. His health becoming impaired he and Mrs. Bradley removed to Floriday, where he resided up to the time of his death. Mrs. Bradley survives him. He also leaves a sister, Miss Harriet E. Bradley, who resides at Elm and Howe streets, this city. Mr. Bradley was a little over sixty years of age. He for many years had a law office in a Chapel street building.

WHAT TO EAT

is a difficult problem with many people because but few articles of food agree with them. The doctor says AVOID GREASE and the result is unpalatable food. The reason the physician objects to grease is because lard is the article most used, and every physician knows that hog lard in any shape is unhealthy and indigestible. Every one interested in pure and healthful food hails with joy the new product

COTTOLENE which is composed of pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suct-nothing else-not even salt. It is better than either lard or butter for all cooking purposes, and one pound of Cottolene will do as much as two pounds of lard or butter, and it costs less than either. Every housekeeper that tries Cottolene will find in it just what she wants. Beware of imitations-get the geniune of your grocer. N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., CHICAGO, and Produce Exchange, N. Y. 224 Stato Street, Boston.
