"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properfies of well selected Cocos, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease.—Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

CARLYLE HARRIS' DEATH. Carlyle Harris, convicted of the murder of his wife, made a good end yesterday, sonidering the circumstances. He did not break down, he made no scene, and his cence. His case is a most remarkable one and will be long remembered, talked and written about. He had a very thorough the commissioner appointed by Governor Flower. The jury, the judgee, the commissioner and the governor were all of one mind concerning his guilt. And yet, in the last minute of his seated in the death chair, and with "the other world" almost in sight, he declared that he was innocent of the crime for which he was killed. If he was innocent, and if all who had taken part in his trial and conviction were mistaken, it was terrible thing. If he was guilty he carried out his pretense of innocence in a way very few people would be capable of. It is easy enough to assume that he was guilty, that all the good men and true who said so were accurate and just in their judgment, and that he was rightly punished. But there is room for honest doubt, and many were hoping that he would get the benefit of that doubt, and not be killed. His conduct and his words in his last minute will increase the doubt in the minds of those who were doubtful before, and may shake some who were not doubtful. On the other hand, many who have believed in his guilt will say that he felt compelled to play out his game to the end, and that his "nerve" was sufficient to enable him to do it.

Human justice has done its best in this terrible case. If in doing its best it has done its worst there is no remedy now.

MODERATE QUARANTINE. Those who suffered from the quarantine regulations in New York harbor last year, and others who do not believe in the necessity of such regulations, will be interested in the ideas which prevailed at the Sanitary-conference at Dresden concerning preventive measures against cholera. The representatives of Germany, France, Austria-Hungary, Russia, Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands indosed those ideas, and it is expected that England will also favor them. They appear to be moderate and reasonable. In order to obviate in future the confusion which has hitherto prevailed with regard to the restriction of imports from infected countries, it has been agreed that old clothes, bedding, solled linen, and rags (the last named in so far as they have not been subjected to any manu facturing process) shall alone become immediately liable to exclusion, and that the importation of other articles shall only be prohibited under special regulations and in cases of obvious expediency. The convention, it is stated, recognizes the futility of land quarantines, and circumscribes within fixed limits the power to enforce quarantine upon arrivals by sea. For this purpose ships arriving from cholera ports are to be treated as infected only in the event of cases having actually occurred on board during the last seven days of the voyage, and as suspect where cases have occurred prior to the last seven days. Other ships, although arriving from infected ports, so long as they are free from suspicious cases, are to be allowed, as a rule, free pratique, subject to the right of the local authorities to impose upon arrival reason able measures of disinfection and a term of medical observation, which is in no case to exceed five days from the date of sailing. The same term of five days, but reckoning from the date of landing, is to be applied to the isolation and observation by the artist is made of green cloth and is didn't witnes Jim's execution, but I heard trimmed with tin-el passementerie, or embroidered bands if desired. If anybody knows anything about what ought to be done to keep cholera at a distance the members of the Dreaden con-ference are likely to know. Their plan would perhaps not meet the approval of some of the boards of health in this country, but it is worth their attention. EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Austrian authorities are still greatly oncerned at the extent of emigration from the country, and are constantly en deavoring to discourage it by publishing arrowing accounts of the miseries en dured by Austrian emigrants to foreign countries. Such a caution, particularly lirected against emigration to Brazil, has ust been posted up by the police authorities in all the railroad stations and public places, being especially addressed to men who have not yet fulfilled their military duty. At the same time an official report has been published to the effect tha Austrian emigrants in the districts of Jaragua and Garibaldi, in Brazil, have appealed to their Consul at Rio de Janeiro to request the Brazilian gov istance. As a result of this interven ion, up to the first harvest they were provided with fifteen days' work per month t nominal daily wages of two florins and eighty-four kreuzers, or about $1.18. This, owever, was not paid in ready money, but n paper, which shopkeepers would only accept at such a heavy discount that the unfortunate laborers were barely able to secure the necessaries of life. The present Brazillan government, moreover, have not kept the promise made by their predesessors to assign land to settlers and advance money for its cultivation. Conse quently the immigrants have been reduced to destitution through the increase in the price of provisions, the bad harvest, the essation of work on the roads and th

"Nether of us looked in our hands when we drew until all were through. While the remainder of the prisoners were drawing my friend proposed that we swap beans, more in an effort to be cheerful than anything else, I thought at the time. Without hope of either of us being successful I exchanged beans with him. When all were through an officer passed When all were through an officer passed along the line to take up the beans. As he advanced toward us I saw one man led ont of the line. Some of the others looked agitated and white in the face, while others showed looks of defiance and resignation.

"When the drawing had closed five other men stood with us, and preparations com-menced for the execution of the sixteen unfortunates. They were placed in a row with their hands firmly bound behind them. I tried to catch a glance from my friend, but he would not look at me. Then I remembered it was my bean that had condemued him; true, we had ex-changed beans, unthinkingly on my part, but I had drawn the black one. A feeling of guilt came over me, and I determined to rectify the wrong which I felt that I was doing him. I called to an officer and told him a mistake had occurred; that I had drawn the black bean and that I and cally and remarked in broken English that my friend was out of luck. I select him to correct the wrong and he refused. I then asked, if nothing else, that I be permitted to speak a word with my friend before he was shot. This request was finally granted, and I advanced to where he was standing. As I approached him I saw him attempt to bring his right hand around in front of him, but it was bound. I think he intended to shake hands goodbye with me.

Councilman North thought that the money could be used to better advantage in some other direction. He said that the fire insurance would be rerated in a very short time and the presence or absence of chemical engine in or near the center of he city would have much to do with what these rates would be. A chemical engine could be purchased for less than $5,000, and he therefore advocated the purchase of such an engine in preference to sprinkling the streets.

Judge Hubbard presided at the temperance meeting in the opera house Sunday afternoon, and, with B. A. Treat, W. H. Newton and W. J. Leavenworth, made speeches for the encouragement of the temperance cause. There seems to be a desire to have temperance meetings every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in either the Congregational or Baptist church. The question of officers was referred to a committee consisting of B. A. Treat, F. A. Wallace, Mrs. C. H. Brown and Miss Hattie Wallace to report at the meeting Sunday afternoon.

YALE ATRLETICS. ale's Sentiment Regarding the Pulitzer Offer-The Talk of an Inter-national Boat Bace-The World's Fair Boating Contests-The Law School Baseball Team's Invitation From Stage. The sentiment at Yale does not seem to e in favor of accepting Joseph Pulitzer's proposal to pay the expenses of the winner the Yale-Harvard boat race to England to row the champion eight there. The anconnement of the offer in the World has revived a little the talk about an international race.

Although neither Yale nor Harvard has et taken an action on Mr. Pulitzer's offer it is quite improbable that either university will accept it. The offer is practically a gigantic advertising medium, despite the olite manner in which it is made. Alhough the Yale navy is poor, it cannot afford to compromise its reputation or do anything which might detract from its or Harvard will consider the World's pro-posal. He says that in his opinion Ox-ford's refusal of the Yale-Harvard chal-lenge was final as far as a race this year is America.

It has also become known that "Bob" Cook and Mr. Adee are expected in New Haven this week and that the object of their visit is to discuss an offer of an exactly similar nature, which has been made by a Yale graduate traveling in Europe, but whose name is withheld. Such an offer would of course take precedence over Mr. Pulitzer's, but it could, of course, only be accepted in case Yale defeats Harvard, and this race is liable to keep Yale's hands full for the time being. It is said that it will cost at least $15,000 or $20,000 to send a crew across the Atlantic, as such to send a crew across the Atlantic, as such a race would necessitate at least eight weeks' training and occasion an enormous a race would necessitate at least eight weeks' training and occasion an enormous outlay for living and traveling expenses.

The interest in boating has taken on wonderful proportions in this country this year. The proposed international race is the topic of conversation at Chicago. Beside this the Chicago navy is arranging for a regatta at the world's fair. The Minnapolis enthusiasts have secured the Cornell-University of Pennsylvania race. The regatta at Chicago will take place on Lake Geneva, a summer resort about seventy miles out of Chicago, from August 12 to 23. Delegates have already visited Yale and Harvard, but both universities have refused to send their eights to Chicago unless perchance Oxford and Cambridge should decide to come, and this is not probable. The Chicago people, however, have sent representatives to Eogland and yet hope to get the great eights of the two countries together. The fact is that neither Yale or Harvard has been very much impressed with the business methods of the Chicago oarsmen. They have made great promises and done a deal of talking in the papers, but the chances of their getting the Englishmen over here are very poor to the Englishmen over here are very poor to the control of talking in the papers, but the chances of their getting the Englishmen over here are very poor to the control of the chances of their getting the Englishmen over here are very poor to the control of the chances of their getting the Englishmen over here are very poor to the Englishmen over here are very poor to the control of the control of the control of the chances of their getting the Englishmen over here are very poor to the control of the cont

The Law School team has received an invitation from A. A. Stagg to enter the National Intercollegiate Base Ball tourna-ment which is to be held in Chicago at the world's fair this summer. The management will probably accept if the schedule can be satisfactorily arranged.

The first meeting was held some months ago when it was proposed to petitien the legislature to compal the Vermont Central Railroad company to erect a station here. The meeting was finally adjourned without action until May 9 It is now probable that the entire matter will be dropped as the Vermont Central has aiready begun work on the new station which has been talked of for many years. The new station will be located on Haymarket square, near the site of the old freight depot. The main waiting room will be 20 by 35 feet in size. The building will also contain a ticket office, telegraph office, train registry and express offices with baggage rooms and all convemences. The structure will be of brick with granite trimmings, and the interior will be finished in hard wood. There will also be a covered platform extending fifty feet west of the station. pot. WEST HAVEN NOTES. The Work on the Town Hall-The Improvements at Railroad Grove -The Sheriff Around.

The foundation of the new town hall is completed and work will be begun on the first story this week, and it is thought that the hall will be finished in a short time, at least in time for the summer rush of excursionists to Savin Rock or to see its stately front.

The extensive improvements which are to be earried on in Railroad grove are fast to Eaton for huisi. first story this week, and it is thought nearing completion. The dancing pavilion and the restaurant are nearly completed and it is expected that by Decoration Day all the improvements will be finished.

> LIZZIE BORDEN ARRAIGNED n a Calm and Steady Voice, Without Pleaded Not Guilty to the Indictder of Her Father and Mother. NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 8.-Lizz indrew Borden, who has been an inmat of Taunton jall ever since August last under indictment for the murder, on August , in Fall River, of her father, Andrew raigned in the superior court, now in session in this city. The authorities sought to keep the arraignment quiet, and preerved the utmost secrecy. Sheriff Wright vent up to Taunton by the midnight train and Miss Borden was prepared, and, i ompany with the sheriff and his wife took the train which left Taunton at 3:37 p. m. The reporters had got wind of the coming arraignment, and several of them were at the station and came to this city on the same train. At the Pearl street station Miss Borden and Sheriff Wright and wife quickly entered a carriage, the blinds were drawn to prevent the too cu lous from staring in at the windows, and ne passage was made at a good speed to the county court.

News of the coming of Miss Borden had reached this city before the arrival, and quite a number of people had gathered, who looked curiously and in many cases not unsympathizingly at the woman who stands charged with one of the feulest crimes in the calendar. On arriving at the court house Miss Borden was conveyed at once through the rear door to the district attorney's room and remained there till FOUND, POCKETBOOK. Owner c POCKETBOOK. EDWARD L. LINSLEY, Administrator, c. t.a. dressed in a dark, plainly made dress, and wore a black double-breasted sack, small black hat, black half veil and black gloves. When the ripple of excitement which marked her entrance had subsided the district attorney moved that Miss Borden be arraigned and the clerk of the court arraigned and the clerk of the court,
Simeon Borden, esq , said:
"L'zle Andrew Borden, stand up."
Miss Borden looked steadily at the clerk
while he read slowly three indictments.
There were two counts in each indictment.
Two charged the murder of father and mother separately and the third charged her with the murder of both. At the end of each indictment the clerk saked.

Sing Sing, May 8.—The witnesses to the execution of Carlyle Harris were all assem-bled in the warden's office at 11 o'clock this morning. There were twenty-seven of them. Seven were physicians and ten were newspaper men; the others were state officials and friends of the warden. It was 12:16 p. m. when Warden Durston announced that everything was in readiness and invited the witnesses down stairs. The vitnesses as they entered the execution hamber seafed themselves on wooder tools arranged in a half circle at the west end of the room and facing the chair. The electrician, Mr. Davis, attached the vires to the battery of lamps. He finished testing the apparatus at 12:36 and announced that all was ready. Keeper Connaughton and two guards then went for farris, who was awaiting the final sumnons in his cell. With him was Chaplain Veills. Harris was ready in a moment and the little procession was quickly formed. Screens had been placed in front of the other cells so that the men who will soon meet Harris' fate did not see him as He paused an instant on the threshold and looked calmly over the witesses. Warden Durston had stepped over nesses. Warden Durston had stepped over to the reporters and asked them to conceal their pads, saying, "Harris might not like it." The pads were put out of sight. Keeper Connaughton pointed to the chair, and without even a look of curiosity at it. Harris dropped into the seat. As he did so he said in a low voice: "I have a word to say, if the warden will permit." He paused and repeated: "I would like to say something, if I have the warden's con-

this afternoon. She said:
"It has been said Carl was guilty be cause he shed no tears when Helen Potts died. I shed no tears now. My boy was innocent. You men who saw him die know he went to the chair an innocent man. With his last words he declared his innocence, and yet he has been killed. He has been judicially murdered. His last statement was to have been given to me as soon as he was dead, and I have not resoon as he was dead, and I have not re-ceived it. I do not think I shall ever see it, at least not as my boy wrote it. It was my boy's wish that it be given out to-day and I am powerless to carry it out." This afternoon the reporters asked War den Durston for Harris' statement, as it is said to be addressed to the press. He re-plied that when Mrs. Harris sent for it she ould have it. It was learned that the statement had been revised by Carlyle Harris at the war-den's request on Saturday and again this morning. The warden had practically acted as censor over his prisoner even up to the moment of his electrocution Chaplain Weills admitted that the state ment was in his pocket, but he refused to give it out until he took it to the warden. He said the statement had been partly re-written by Harris as the warden objects: written by Harris as the warden objected to a portion of its contents. After 4:30 Mrs. Harris sent her son Allan to the prison to ask for the statement. To Allan th

At 5 o'clock Mrs. Harris with another lady and Allan drove to the prison. They took with them a wreath of flowers to place upon his coffin. The wreath bore the inscriptions "At Rest" and "Innocence."

Warden Durston refused to allow them to take the flowers to the coffin. Then Mrs. Harris asked for the statement made by her son. The warden, who remained seated with his hat on, replied that he had not got the statement and had not seen it. Mrs. Harris protested that he must have seen the statement for she had been told that the chaplain had left it with the war-den. Warden Durston finally said he had mailed Harris' statement to Superintend-Monday.

"The Beggar Student." The opera was finely rendered, the music being excellent and the costumes very handsome. Miss Irene Murphy made an excellent Bronislava and sang with her accustomed feeling and expression. Miss Maude Dickeson as Laura was a success, singing beautifully and acting with spirit. Mr Wolff never sang better, and that is saying a great deal. His topical song, "But There are Things," was londly applauded. Mr. Wooley was as entertaining as ever. The McComber slaters, two very clever dancers, did some very clever dancing, which was much appreciated. Taken altogether the performance was a great credit to Mr Baker and his excellent company. The opera to be sung this evening is "Dorotthy." The reportoire for the rest of the weak is as follows: Wednesday marinee, "Said Pasha;" Wednesday evening, "Falka;" Thursday evening, "Black Hussar; Friday evening, "Bocaccio;" Saturday evening, "Erminie." THEN AND NOW-A BIG CHANGE IN A FEW YEARS. not many years ago since Yale erected its first divinity school building on Elm and College streets, corner of the block in question. It was a notable move by Yale, and created much public interest.

The work of erecting the new building excited great attention and was halled with satisfaction by Yalensians and the public as a new evidence of Yale's growth and increasing prosperity. The new building replaced an old wooden structure that had long been antiquated in appearance and reminded old citisens, if not of colonial days at least of revolutionary times as it creasing prosperity. The new building replaced an old wooden structure that had long been antiquated in appearance and reminded old citizens, if not of colonial days at least of revolutionary times as it was the common opinion that if it had not seen Washington himself it had not seen Washington himself it had oome pretty near to being a part of the city in the days of Washington. In it in it's last days, there had been kept if memory serves aright, a bakery or candy store where young Yale spent some of its extra cash. There were in these days no Farnam hall nor Durfee, nor Welch dormitory. There was no Osborn hall nor Dwight hall, nor Chittenden library, nor Peabody museum, to say nothing of the magnificent new gym. None of these clegant building were built when this initial divinity school building was then one of the "old brick row," the extreme north building, and in front of it was an old pump, whose handle was worked almost withous cessation from early morn lill dewy eve, and sometimes later, for the draughts of the pure crystal water which it so freely yields. CUURT RECORD.

Probate Court-Judge Robertson. At the request of her father, Moses Kelman of 33 State street, his daughter Jennie was yesterlay committed to the Middletown insane asylu by Judge Robertson. The girl has recently become violently insane. The cause of her insanity is given as fellows: Jennie had been troubled with eczema on her hand. She went to see a physician and his four assistants and they told her that they would cure her for $100, and that otherwise she must have the hand amputated. This weighed on the poor girl's mind, and a week ago Friday she was taken sick. Dr. Fleischner was called, but the girl became frantic and he was unable to do anything for her. She fought all the time he was there. Since then she has been violent and tore the clothing from her grandfather, who is eighty years old. She also bit her mother on the neck and acreamed incessantly. Several physicians had examined her and recommended that she be placed in the retreat where she could harm no one. The girl was committed to the asylum temporarity. by Judge Robertson. The girl has recently be

ROBIN HOOD.

It will Probably be a Good Success. The joint-public play of the junior year sceleties of Yale which is to be presented at the Hyperion on Monday, May 15, will probably be a great success. The manage ment has endeavored to make the play strictly a society affair, and only members of the university are allowed to purchase

The play is an original burlesque on "Robin Hood," the opera made famous by the Bostonians, and is written by Edward Boltwood, '92, Raiph D. Paine, '94, and F. Boltwood, '92, Ralph D. Paine, '94, and F. C. Perkins, '94. The music, which is a clever mixture of pretty and popular airs, has been selected and arranged by Thomas G. Shepard of New Haven, the old director of the Glee club. The play has been rehearsed for several menths under the direction of Napler Lothian, jr., of Boston, former stage manager for Mary Anderson, while Dan Burke of Harrigans, New York, has been training the dancers. The costumes are to be very elaborate and will be from Horner of New York. Podt & Jordan of New York will furnish the wigs. It is understood that the societies will spend s understood that the societies will spend is understood that the societies will spend over $1,800 in putting on the play.

THE CONROY MURDER CASE.

the Story of the Murderous Dec Told in the Court. MIDDLETOWN, May 8.—The trial of Patrick Con roy, charged with murdering his step-son, Richard Meade, by crushing his head with an axe or other heavy weapon, last Tuesday, was opened before Judge Calef this morning. Witnesses testified to finding Conroy in his house Wednesday night, packing his valles for flight, while Meade's body packing his valise for flight, while Meade's body lay in the next room. Conroy was himself called to the stand. He was trembling and acted in a confused manner, contradicting himself frequently. He said Meade came home Tuesday night, bleeding from a fight with gambling companions, and got to quarreling with the witness, who struck him on the head with a stick used to push down clothes in a wash boiler. Witness said Meade died Wednesday morning. When asked why he did not get a doctor he said Meade had lived on him for eighteen years. He would not answer why he had kept the body all day Wednesday without telling anybody about it.

"On or off the line we're with the majority—'stuck on Pearline!" And they're right-you will observe that their heads are level. Millions of women sing the same song as the clothes-pins. They may express it differently, but they mean the same thing. They mean that their work is easy and sooner done-and better done. No clothes worn out with the endless rub, rub, rub on the washboard. No backs tired out with it, either. These millions of women mean that they're using Pearline, saving labor, time, and money with it, and have proved it to be perfectly harmless Now, what do you mean? Surely you don't mean to try to do without it?

Bewate Feddlers and some unscrepulous grocers will tell you, this is as good as or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back.

BIG CUT IN PRICES!

C. E. LONGLEY & CO., THE GREAT CLOTHIERS!

THE GRANDEST ARRAY OF BARGAINS ON EARTH!

The facts are we loaded up in March and prepared for the greatest business ever done in Connecticut. April was disappointing. The weather was cold, season backward, and our business suffered.

Now We Are Going to Unload and Give the People a Benefit!

Here are Some of the Figures!

FIRST---We shall offer 100 Men's Suits of the famous Glendale goods. You have probably seen them advertised, perhaps have worn them and know what they are. The regular price is $10.00. WE SHALL CLOSE THEM FOR $5.95.

SECOND---We shall offer eighty Men's Suits of the World Renowned Rockingham goods. One of the very best styles in our entire stock and Suits that usually sell for $18.00. OUR PRICE ON THIS LOT IS $8.50, or less than half price. Remember we offer nothing but strictly reliable well made goods. C. E. Longley & Co. never sell shoddy, cotton warps or seconds at THIRD---We shall offer four hundred and fifty Men's Suits, ten styles and every one a beauty, of the eminent Danforth and Goebeille Cheviets and Cassimeres, AT $10.00 PER SUIT.

Usually these suits retail for $16; frequently $18, and sometimes $20. Our price, remember, for these elegant Suits is but $10.00. The cloth alone cost more than ten dollars, but as we have already told you we are overloaded and we must sell the goods now.

FOURTH---We shall offer the greatest values that were ever placed on our counters. Men's and Young Men's Suits, made from the finest do mestic and elegant imported suitings, AT $12.50 PER SUIT. We don't believe their equal was ever sold for $20.00 by any clothing house in America.

FIFTH---We offer four hundred Men's and Young Men's HIGH CLASS TAI-LOR MADE SUITS, AT $14.75. We don't know where you can find better at any price. We have seen the same goods, in no way superior to ours, marked $25 and $28, in the windows of some of the leading clothiers in New York and Besten. The last two lots, the $12.50 and $14.75 Suits, show us a very heavy loss, but we have too many and go they must.

For Boys and Children the Prices Are No Less Startling. We have a thousand Suits too many. If we can't sell them we are going to give them away, but we expect to sell them at something like half price. 200 Suits at $2.50. Regular prices $4.50 and $5.00. 150 Suits at $3.50. Regular prices $6.00 and $6.50. 250 Suits at $5.00. Regular prices $7.50 and $8.50. 400 Suits for $6.50 and $7.50. Regular prices $9, $10, $12 and $13.

Almost every conceivable style of fabric, color and shade that you can think of is represented in this stock of a thousand Suits which we are now putting on the market at cut prices. The Jackets are nearly all double breasted and right in the top of fashion.

Ten lots of Boys' Spring Reefers, a garment that every boyshould have, marked from $5.00, $6.50 and $7.50 DOWN TO $2.50.

One thousand Men's and Young Men's Spring Overcoats, -- elegant, handsome and select styles, are also included in this sale. Four hundred dozen Percale and Flannel Waists and Blouses for boys 4 to 16

Twenty-eight hundred pairs of Men's, Boys' and Children's Pants will be sold at once and in the shortest time possible.

The simple truth is we have $20,000.00 more stock than we should have. We can't carry it. The goods were made to sell this season and we are going to sell them now, when the people want them and while we can get the cash for the same.
